Mountry,David S. Martin,2005 Historically deaf and hard of hearing people have demonstrated various levels of competence in a multitude of professions but they also have experienced discrimination and oppression In five critical sections this volume responds to the tidal wave of high stakes testing that has come to dominate educational policy and qualification for various occupations It provides a digest of relevant research to meet the testing challenge including work done by educational researchers legal experts test developers and others Section I frames the contexts facing deaf and hard of hearing individuals and those who test them including a telling historical perspective In Section II chapters explore how deaf and hard of hearing candidates can meet the rigors of test taking how to level the playing field with a new approach to assessment and what to consider to develop fully accessible licensing tests The final chapter in this part examines the psychometric properties of intellectual assessments when used with deaf and hard of hearing people Administrative Issues constitute Section III beginning with legal considerations related to equity testing for deaf adults An exploration of the potential of sign language interpretation in the testing environment follows Section IV provides case studies of deaf and hard of hearing adults from a variety of professions including certification testing for therapeutic recreation preparation strategies for university students and ways to maximize access to licensure for social workers A separate chapter addresses the impact of recent federal mandates on assessment of deaf and hard of hearing teachers and teaching candidates The final section summarizes the current situation and presents recommendations to manage it concluding with an epilogue on directions for the future Voices in Translation Gunilla M. Anderman,2007 In choosing to render dialect and vernacular speech into Scots Bill Findlay to whose memory this volume is dedicated made a pioneering contribution in safeguarding the authenticity of voices in translation The scene of the book is set by an overview of approaches to rendering foreign voices in English translation including those of the people to whom Findlay introduced us in his Scots dialect versions of European plays Martin Bowman his frequent co translator follows with a discussion of their co translation of playwright Jeanne Mance Delisle Different ways of bridging the cultural divide in the translation between English and a number of plays written in a number of European languages are then illustrated including the custom of creating English versions an approach rejected by contributions that argue in favour of minimal intervention on the part of the translator But transferring the social and cultural milieu that the speakers of other languages inhabit may also cause problems in translation as discussed by some translators of fiction In addition attention is drawn to the translators own attitude and the influence of the time in which they live In conclusion stronger forces in the form of political events are highlighted that may also adversely or positively have a bearing on the translation process Australasian Drama Studies
