The Twilight Of Human Rights Law:

The Twilight of Human Rights Law Eric A. Posner, 2014 Nearly all countries have ratified nearly all the major human rights treaties and all governments profess support for human rights yet most countries flagrantly violate the human rights of their citizens This book argues that the reason why is that there is a contradiction between the goal of enforcing human rights which requires simple rules and the realities of governance which require flexibility and discretion The Limits of Human Rights Bardo Fassbender, Knut Traisbach, 2019-11-21 What are the limits of human rights and what do these limits mean This volume engages critically and constructively with this question to provide a distinct contribution to the contemporary discussion on human rights Fassbender and Traisbach along with a group of leading experts in the field examine the issue from multiple disciplinary perspectives analysing the limits of our current discourse of human rights It does so in an original way and without attempting to deconstruct or deny human rights Each contribution is supplemented by an engaging comment which furthers this important discussion This combination of perspectives paves the way for further thought for scholars practitioners students and the wider public Ultimately this volume provides an exceptionally rich spectrum of viewpoints and arguments across disciplines to offer fresh insights into human rights and its limitations The

and there has recently been a resurgence of scholarly interest in this area This Oxford Handbook examines the past and present of the intersection between history and IR and looks to the future by laying out new questions and directions for research Seeking to transcend well worn disciplinary debates between historians and IR scholars the Handbook asks authors from both fields to engage with the central themes of modernity and granularity Modernity is one of the basic organising categories of speculation about continuity and discontinuity in the history of world politics but one that is increasingly questioned for privileging one kind of experience and marginalizing others The theme of granularity highlights the importance of how decisions about the scale and scope of historical research in IR shape what can be seen and how one sees it Together these themes provide points of affinity across the wide range of topics and approaches presented here The Handbook is organized into four parts The first Readings gives a state of the art analysis of numerous aspects of the disciplinary encounter between historians and IR theorists Thereafter sections on Practices Locales and Moments offer a wide variety of perspectives from the longue dur e to the ephemeral individual moment and challenge many conventional ways of defining the contexts of historical enquiry about international relations Contributors come from a range of academic backgrounds and present a diverse array of methodological and philosophical ideas as well as their various historical interests The Oxford Handbooks of International Relations is a twelve volume set of reference books offering authoritative and innovative engagements with the principal sub fields of International Relations The series as a whole is under the General Editorship of Christian Reus Smit of the University of Queensland and Duncan Snidal of the University of Oxford with each volume edited by specialists in the field The series both surveys the broad terrain of International Relations scholarship and reshapes it pushing each sub field in challenging new directions Following the example of Reus Smit and Snidal s original Oxford Handbook of International Relations each volume is organized around a strong central thematic by scholars drawn from different perspectives reading its sub field in an entirely new way and pushing scholarship in challenging new directions

Violence against women's health in international law Sara De Vido, 2020-06-12 This electronic version has been made available under a Creative Commons BY NC ND open access license Violence against women is characterised by its universality the multiplicity of its forms and the intersectionality of diverse kinds of discrimination against women Great emphasis in legal analysis has been placed on sex based discrimination however in investigations of violence one aspect has been overlooked violence may severely affect women s health and access to reproductive health and State health policies might be a cause of violence against women Exploring the relationship between violence against women and women s rights to health and reproductive health Sara De Vido theorises the new concept of violence against women s health in international law using the Hippocratic paradigm enriching human rights based approaches to women s autonomy and reflecting on the pervasiveness of patterns of discrimination At the core of the book are two dimensions of violence horizontal inter personal and vertical state policies Investigating these dimensions through decisions made by domestic regional and international judicial or quasi judicial bodies De Vido reconceptualises States obligations and eventually asks whether international law itself is the ultimate cause of violence against women s health An electronic edition of this book is freely available under a Creative Commons CC BY NC ND licence The Arab Gulf States and the West Dania Koleilat Khatib, Marwa Maziad, 2018-10-30 This book examines the changing image of the Arab Gulf States in the West It addresses the question of perception in international relations and how the Arab States of the Gulf have pursued various endeavors to project themselves into Western imagination The book chapters generate ideas on how perceptions came about and ways to improve cultural and political realities on the ground in the Arab Gulf States Thus it paves the way for a new area of research in the field of Gulf Studies that extends beyond traditional international relations frameworks by weaving elements of intercultural communication into the mix Recognizing yet extending beyond a traditionally realist framework which has dominated the analysis of Arab Gulf States foreign relations with western countries this book tackles both the materialist and the symbolic in the efforts and initiatives launched by the Arab Gulf States Some chapters maintain a social scientific approach about the politics of the Arab Gulf States in the West from an international relations lens Others employ theoretical frameworks that were founded on the notion of the encounter with anthropological lenses and concepts of intercultural communication In addition to the value of this academic research agenda as such some of the chapters also touch upon the added importance of policy oriented input As the Arab Gulf States actively engage with the West the book would widely appeal to students and researchers of Gulf politics and international relations Journal of Human Rights Law & Practice ,1993 The Twilight of International Human Rights Law Eric A. Posner, 2014 In this work legal scholar Eric Posner explains a paradox the language of human rights is now the dominant mode of international moral criticism of governments and yet the evidence suggests that most countries flagrantly violate the human rights treaties that they solemnly ratify The prevailing consensus he notes is that governments should promote the well being of citizens in their countries and that in extreme cases foreign countries should intervene and replace governments that fail to comply with this duty The problem he contends is countries disagree on how they can achieve those goals Posner closes by arguing that foreign aid provides a better model for pressuring governments to improve their treatment of citizens Global Human Rights Law Collection ,1999 The Jurisprudence of Human Rights Law Theodore S.
