This Incomparable Land A Guide To American Nature:

This Incomparable Land Thomas Jefferson Lyon, 2001 Nature writing is essential to awakening an ecological way of seeing The author covers the full spectrum of the genre including field guides travel and adventure stories and essays on solitary and back country living This new edition contains an updated bibliography of primary and secondary sources in nature writing through the end of the 20th century      The Atlas of U.S. and Canadian Environmental History Char Miller, 2003-08-08 This visually dynamic historical atlas chronologically covers American environmental history through the use of four color maps photos and diagrams and in written entries from well known scholars Organized into seven categories each chapter covers agriculture wildlife and forestry land use and management technology and industry pollution      The Oxford Handbook of Ecocriticism Greg Garrard, 2014-07-03 The Oxford Handbook of Ecocriticism provides a broad survey of the longstanding relationship between literature and the environment The moment for such an offering is opportune in many respects multiple environmental crises are increasingly inescapable at both transnational and local levels the role of the humanities in addition to technology and politics is increasingly recognized as central for exploring and finding solutions and the subject of ecocriticism has reached a kind of critical mass both within its Anglo American heartlands and beyond From its origins in the study of American Nature Writing and British Romanticism ecocriticism has developed along numerous theoretical historical cultural and geographical axes the most contemporary and exciting of which will be represented in the Handbook The contributors include eminent founders of the field including Michael Branch and Richard Kerridge a number of key second wave ecocritics and the best up and coming scholars Topics covered include Renaissance anxieties about nature the challenges of representing climate change the racialization of the environment in the early 20th century language and the concept of biosemiotics and the possibilities for environmental humour      The Cambridge Companion to Environmental Humanities Jeffrey Cohen, Stephanie Foote, 2021-09-02 This Companion offers a comprehensive and accessible introduction to the environmental humanities an interdisciplinary movement that responds to a world reconfigured by climate change and its effects from environmental racism and global migration to resource impoverishment and the importance of the nonhuman world It addresses the twenty first century recognition of an environmental crisis its antecedents current forms and future trajectories as well as possible responses to it This book foregrounds scholarship from different periods fields and global locations but it is organized to give readers a working context for the foundational debates Each chapter examines a key topic or theme in Environmental Humanities shows why that topic emerged as a category of study explores the different approaches to the topics suggests future avenues of inquiry and considers the topic's global implications especially those that involve environmental justice issues      The Oxford Handbook of Early American Literature Kevin J. Hayes, 2008-02-06 The Oxford Handbook of Early American Literature is a major new reference work that provides the best single volume source of original scholarship on early American literature Comprised of twenty seven chapters written by experts in their fields this work presents an authoritative in depth and up to date assessment of a crucial area within literary studies Organized primarily in terms of genre the chapters include original research on key concepts as well as analysis of interesting texts from throughout colonial America Separate chapters are devoted to literary genres of great importance at the time of their composition that have been neglected in recent decades such as histories promotion literature and scientific writing New interpretations are offered on the works of Benjamin Franklin Jonathan Edwards and Dr Alexander Hamilton while lesser known figures are also brought to light Newly vital areas like print culture and natural history are given full treatment As with other Oxford Handbooks the contributors cover the field in a comprehensive yet accessible way that is suitable for those wishing to gain a good working knowledge of an area of study and where it s headed

A Companion to American Fiction, 1865 - 1914 Robert Paul Lamb, G. R. Thompson, 2008-04-15 A Companion to American Fiction 1865 1914 is a groundbreaking collection of essays written by leading critics for a wide audience of scholars students and interested general readers An exceptionally broad ranging and accessible Companion to the study of American fiction of the post civil war period and the early twentieth century Brings together 29 essays by top scholars each of which presents a synthesis of the best research and offers an original perspective Divided into sections on historical traditions and genres contexts and themes and major authors Covers a mixture of canonical and the non canonical themes authors literatures and critical approaches Explores innovative topics such as ecological literature and ecocriticism children s literature and the influence of Darwin on fiction

Exchanges between Literature and Science from the 1800s to the 2000s Márcia Lemos, 2017-03-07 This collection of essays responds to the intense interest that the relations between the discourses of literature and other cultural practices and those of science have obtained throughout various fields of study Spanning a period between the mid nineteenth century and the twenty first century the work collected here is firmly focused on the cultural significance of scientific discoveries and practices and especially on the manifold representations of science and scientists in literature and the arts Its four sections develop from an initial moment of dwindling indefiniteness of borders between literature and the sciences to the historical perception of an increasing divide between the two cultures to use C P Snow s influential expression as well as calls for a form of convergence or consilience in Edward Wilson s words The final section turns to the medical sciences a porous scientific discipline in relation to the humanities which suggests that consilience can already be found partially in specific areas As such this collection contributes towards critically extending that integration through the discussion of key literary representations of science its promises and its problems

Rachel Carson Karen F. Stein, 2013-02-11 Karen F Stein University of Rhode Island Kingston USA Rachel Carson is the twentieth century s most significant environmentalist Her books about the sea blend science and poetry as they invite readers to share her celebration of the ocean s wonders Silent Spring her graphic and compelling expos of the damage caused by the widespread aerial spraying of persistent organic pesticides such as DDT opened our eyes to the interconnectedness of all living beings and the ecological systems we inhabit Carson's work challenges our belief that science and technology can control the natural world asks us to recognize our place in the world around us and inspires us to treat the earth respectfully She calls us to rekindle our sense of wonder at nature's power and beauty and to tread lightly on the earth so that it will continue to sustain us and our descendants This book guides readers on a journey through Carson's life and work considers Carson's legacies and points to some of the continuing challenges to sustainability It provides a listing of resources for reading learning or teaching about the environment about nature writing and about Carson and the crucial issues she addressed

A History of Western American Literature Susan Kollin, 2015-12-11 The American West is a complex region that has inspired generations of writers and artists Often portrayed as a quintessential landscape that symbolizes promise and progress for a developing nation the American West is also a diverse space that has experienced conflicting and competing hopes and expectations While it is frequently imagined as a place enabling dreams of new beginnings for settler communities it is likewise home to long standing indigenous populations as well as many other ethnic and racial groups who have often produced different visions of the land This History encompasses the intricacy of Western American literature by exploring myriad genres and cultural movements from ecocriticism settler colonial studies and transnational theory to race ethnic gender and sexuality studies Written by a host of leading historians and literary critics this book offers readers insight into the West as a site that sustains canonical and emerging authors alike and as a region that exceeds national boundaries in addressing long standing global concerns and developments

The Futures of the Present: New Directions in (American) Literature Danuta Fjellestad, David Watson, 2018-04-19 It has become a critical commonplace that postmodernism no longer serves as an adequate designation for contemporary literature But what comes after postmodernism What are the tendencies and directions within contemporary American literature that promise to shape its future The contributions to this book are written in the shadows of new media a turn towards the nonhuman in critical thinking and a surge in environmental and apocalyptic thought Engaging with such contemporary debates the authors map the rapidly changing ecosystem of contemporary literary genres and forms and attend to transformations in the production reception and circulation of books This book takes for granted that American literature does have a future although whatever this future holds it is unlikely to be what we expect At this historical juncture the American novel seems to carve its future though an engagement with issues at the forefront of our present thereby ensuring its own ongoing contemporaneity This book was originally published as a special issue of Studia Neophilologica

German-Language Nature Writing from Eighteenth Century to the Present Gabriele Dürbeck, Christine Kanz, 2024-05-11 This volume examines the topic of German language nature writing in a broad historical context spanning more than two centuries It brings together contributions on the debates of the category Nature Writing by numerous renowned international scholars It discusses literary texts of natural history nature exploration nature poetry perception and reflection by German speaking authors since the 18th century including texts by Ulrike Draesner and on Esther Kinsky's writing. The book asks whether the here discussed texts can should or may also be labeled as Nature Writing and how this new perspective on German literary history might change traditional classifications such as Naturlyrik nature poetry in German literary history. Haunted Spaces in Twenty-First Century British Nature Writing Anneke Lubkowitz, 2020-06-08 This study investigates the figure of haunting in the New Nature Writing. It begins with a historical survey of nature writing and traces how it came to represent an ideal of natural space as empty of human history and social conflict. Building on a theoretical framework which combines insights from ecocriticism and spatial theory, the author explores the spatial dimensions of haunting and hauntology and shows how 21st century writers draw on a Gothic repertoire of seemingly supernatural occurrences and spectral imagery to portray natural space as disturbed, uncanny and socially contested. Iain Sinclair and Robert Macfarlane are revealed to apply psychogeography's interest in hidden histories and haunted places to spaces associated with wilderness and the countryside. Kathleen Jamie's allusions to the Gothic are put in relation to her feminist re-writing of the outdoors and John Burnside's use of haunting is shown to dismantle fictions of the far north. This book provides not only a discussion of a wide range of factual and fictional narratives of the present but also an analysis of the intertextual dialogue with the Romantic tradition which enfolds in these texts. Nature and the Environment in Contemporary Religious Contexts Thomas

Donlin-Smith, Muhammad Shafiq, 2018-06-11 This collection of essays discusses the human relationship with and responsibilities toward the natural environment from the perspective of religions and the social sciences. The chapters examine a variety of conditions that have contributed to the contemporary environmental crisis including abuse of power, economic greed, industrialization, deforestation and unplanned waste management. They then discuss concepts from several different religious texts and traditions that promote environmental protection as a sacred moral duty for all humanity. Religious concepts such as dharma, duty toward Mother Earth, tikkun Olam, repair of the world, khalifa, people as deputies of God on earth, amanah, the universe as a trust in human hands and paticca samuppada, dependent co-arising, are employed to argue that all the components of the biosphere are integral to the cosmos, each piece with its own value and role in the harmony of the whole. The book makes it clear that religions can become more green and play a helpful role in raising our ecological consciousness and supporting preservation of the environment into the future. Ecocritical Aesthetics Peter Quigley, Scott Slovic, 2018-02-28 This lively collection of essays explores the vital role of beauty in the human experience of place, interactions with other species and contemplation of our own embodied lives. Devoting attention to themes such as global climate change, animal subjectivity, environmental justice and activism and human moral responsibility for the environment, these contributions demonstrate that beauty is not only a meaningful dimension of our experience but also a powerful strategy for inspiring cultural transformation. Taken as a whole, they underscore the ongoing relevance of aesthetics to the ecocritical project and the concern for beauty that motivates effective social and political engagement. The Nature

Essay Simone Schröder, 2019-01-04 The Nature Essay Ecocritical Explorations is the first extended study of a powerful literary form born out of the traditions of Enlightenment and Romanticism. It traces the varied stylistic paradigms of the nature essay down to the present day. Reading essays as platforms for ecological discourse, the book analyses canonical and marginalised texts mainly from German, English and American literature. Simone Schröder argues that the essay's environmental impact is rooted in its negotiation of scientific, poetic, spiritual and ethical modes of perceiving nature. Together, the chapters on these four aspects form a historical panorama of the nature essay as a genre that continues to flourish in our time of ecological crisis. Authors discussed include Alexander von Humboldt, Henry David Thoreau, Virginia Woolf, Robert Musil, Ernst Jünger, W.G. Sebald, Kathleen Jamie and David Foster Wallace. Mapping Region in Early American Writing Edward Watts, Keri Holt, John Funchion, 2015-11-15 Mapping Region in Early American Writing is a collection of essays that study how early American writers thought about the spaces around them. The contributors reconsider the various roles regions imagined politically, economically, racially and figuratively played in the formation of American communities, both real and imagined. These texts vary widely: some are canonical, others archival, some literary, others scientific, some polemical, others simply documentary. As a whole, they recreate important mental mappings and cartographies and they reveal how diverse populations imagined themselves, their communities and their nation as occupying the American landscape. Focusing on place-specific local writing published before 1860, Mapping Region in Early American Writing examines a period often overlooked in studies of regional literature in America. More than simply offering a prehistory of regionalist writing, these essays offer new ways of theorizing and studying regional spaces in the United States as it grew from a union of disparate colonies along the eastern seaboard into an industrialized nation on the verge of overseas empire building. They also seek to amplify lost voices of diverse narratives from minority frontier and outsider groups alongside their more well-known counterparts in a time when America's landscapes and communities were constantly being reshaped. The Environmental Vision of Thomas Merton Monica Weis, 2011-06-24 Delightful a superb guide to the ecological themes of Merton's life and writings. The Christian Century. Nature was always vital in Thomas Merton's life, from the long hours he spent as a child watching his father paint landscapes in the fresh air to his final years of solitude in the hermitage at Our Lady of Gethsemani, where he contemplated and wrote about the beauty of his surroundings. Throughout his life, Merton's study of the natural world shaped his spirituality in profound ways, and he was one of the first writers to raise concern about ecological issues that have become critical in recent years. In The Environmental Vision of Thomas Merton, Monica Weis suggests that Merton's interest in nature, which developed significantly during his years at the Abbey of Gethsemani, laid the foundation for his growing environmental consciousness. Tracing Merton's awareness of the natural world from his childhood to the final years of his life, Weis explores his deepening sense of place and desire for solitude, his love and responsibility for all living things, and his evolving ecological awareness. Explains how Merton evolved from a nature enthusiast to one of the world's most respected ecological stewards.

Louisville Courier Journal      Toward a Literary Ecology Karen E. Waldron, Rob Friedman, 2013-07-29 Scholarship of literature and the environment demonstrates myriad understandings of nature and culture While some work in the field results in approaches that belong in the realm of cultural studies other scholars have expanded the boundaries of ecocriticism to connect the practice more explicitly to disciplines such as the biological sciences human geography or philosophy Even so the field of ecocriticism has yet to clearly articulate its interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary nature In Toward a Literary Ecology Places and Spaces in American Literature editors Karen E Waldron and Robert Friedman have assembled a collection of essays that study the interconnections between literature and the environment to theorize literary ecology The disciplinary perspectives in these essays allow readers to comprehend places and environments and to represent express or strive for that comprehension through literature Contributors to this volume explore the works of several authors including Gary Snyder Karen Tei Yamashita Rachel Carson Terry Tempest Williams Chip Ward and Mary Oliver Other essays discuss such topics as urban fiction as a model of literary ecology the geographies of belonging in the work of Native American poets and the literary ecology of place in new nature writing Investigating texts for the complex interconnections they represent Toward a Literary Ecology suggests what such texts might teach us about the interconnections of our own world This volume also offers a means of analyzing representations of people in places within the realm of an historical cultural and geographically bounded yet diverse American literature Intended for students of literature and ecology this collection will also appeal to scholars of geography cultural studies philosophy biology history anthropology and other related disciplines

Abbey in America John A. Murray, 2015-06-15 More than twenty five years after his death iconic writer and nature activist Edward Abbey 1927 1989 remains an influential presence in the American environmental movement Abbey's best known works continue to be widely read and inspire discourse on the key issues facing contemporary American society particularly with respect to urbanization and technology Abbey in America published forty years after Abbey's popular novel The Monkey Wrench Gang features an all star list of contributors including journalists authors scholars and two of Abbey's best friends as they explore Abbey's ideas and legacy through their unique literary personal and scholarly perspectives

Willa Cather's Ecological Imagination Susan J. Rosowski, 2003-01-01 The wide ranging essays collected in this volume of Cather Studies examine Willa Cather's unique artistic relationship to the environment Under the theoretical rubric of ecocriticism these essays focus on Cather's close observations of the natural world and how the environment proves for most of these contributors to be more than simply a setting for her characters While it is certain that Cather's novels and short stories are deeply grounded in place literary critics are only now considering how place functions within her narratives and addressing environmental issues through her writing These essays reintroduce us to a Cather who is profoundly identified with the places that shaped her and that she wrote about Glen A Love offers an interdisciplinary reading of The Professor's House that is scientifically oriented Joseph Urgo argues that My Antonia models a preservationist aesthetic in which landscape and memory are inextricably entangled Thomas J Lyon posits that Cather had a living sense of the biotic community and used nature as the standard of excellence for human endeavors and Jan Goggans considers the ways that My ntonia shifts from nativism toward a flexible notion of place based community
