approaches and tools for future conflict management The UN Security Council David M. Malone, 2008 Much has changed for the United Nations Security Council since the end of the Cold War Its decisions largely improvised and inconsistent though they may be have for good or ill profoundly affected international relations Given the centrality of individual state interests at the UN however unpalatable to some the question arises as to whether the Council in terms of the perceived legitimacy of its decisions can be more than the sum of its parts By slicing and dicing in many different ways the Council's decisions and activities the substantive themes of its work and the institutional developments in its life this volume attempts to assess its objectives and performance during the turbulent frequently hyperactive years it has experienced in the post Cold War era Multilateralism in the 21st Century Caroline Bouchard, John Peterson, Nathalie Tocci, 2013-08-15 This volume focuses on multilateralism in the 21st century and examines how and how effectively the EU delivers on its commitment to effective multilateralism Presenting results generated by MERCURY an EU research programme into multilateralism this book addresses a central research question does the EU deliver on its commitment to effective multilateralism Globalisation has created powerful new incentives for states to cooperate and has generated renewed interest in multilateralism While a large body of work exists on multilateralism as a concept it continues to be ill defined and poorly understood This book sheds new light on 21st century multilateralism by exploring conceptual approaches as well as generating innovative empirical knowledge on its practice Research on EU external relations has increasingly focused on the concept of effective multilateralism Yet the application of this concept as a guiding principle of EU foreign policy in non security policy areas has rarely been examined This book explores whether the EU is pursuing effective multilateralism in specific policy areas including trade climate change and conflict resolution and distinct geographical and institutional settings both internal to the EU and in specified regions international organisations IOs and bilateral partnerships This book offers evidence based actionable policy lessons from Europe's experience in promoting multilateralism The European Union and Multilateralism in the 21st Century will be of interest to students and scholars of international relations international organizations and European Union politics and foreign policy Conference, the United Nations in the 21st Century, 2001 A Security Council for the 21st century, 2017 A United Nations for the 21st Century: from Reaction to Prevention Detlev Wolter, 2007 This book analyzes the achievements of the UN World Summit of September 2005 in the field of conflict prevention human security and the advancement of the security development nexus The book examines the Summit Outcome Document which contains important general endorsements of the objective to strengthen conflict prevention capacities at the UN and fully supports the mission of the Special Advisor of the Secretary General on the Prevention of Genocide This document commits all Member States for the first time to develop a notion of human security that recognizes that all individuals in particular vulnerable people are entitled to freedom from fear and freedom from want It embraces the concept of a responsibility to protect against genocide ethnic cleansing and crimes against humanity The book looks at how the newly established Peacebuilding Commission can play an important overall preventive role in particular by ensuring that post conflict countries do not relapse into armed conflict It suggests the upcoming Comprehensive Report on Conflict Prevention by the UN Secretary General and a new General Assembly Resolution should operationalize and implement the shift from reaction to prevention The United Nations for the 21st Century supports the call for a special summit meeting in 2010 on conflict prevention and human security with the objective to adopt a Global Action Plan on Conflict Prevention and Human Security which should specify concrete agreements for allocating the resources necessary to bring peace planning conflict prevention and peacebuilding strategies to fruition

International law on human security in the 21st century Temiloluwa Lawal, 2021-09-03 Essay from the year 2021 in the subject Politics Topic Public International Law and Human Rights grade 7

0 Tilburg University course International law and human security language English abstract This paper addresses the question of whether International law related to human security is adequate to address modern challenges I argue in the affirmative albeit partially While I believe that International law in this area can certainly be improved upon as law in general is a dynamic phenomenon it would be erroneous to assert that the laws are not adequate to address modern challenges to a considerable extent In support of my position I aim to advance the perspective that in matters concerning international human security law we must draw distinctions between adequate adequacy and application Whereas adequate means sufficient for a specific need or requirement On the other hand application means an act of putting something to use It is my view that though international law is generally sufficient to address modern challenges actions taken by international actors to tackle human security issues are usually unpredictable Law being an institutional fixture is enacted to ensure predictability and uniformity and international law should be no exception However international actors are generally inclined to think and act otherwise It is one thing to develop laws and it is an entirely different matter to apply them In further support of my position I also seek to present the view and necessary evidence that the application of international law related to human security is majorly dependent on State policy and not the adequacy or otherwise of the law Humanity's duty to protect human security interests in both conflict and non conflict situations is deemed essential Accordingly the need for a comprehensive and inclusive International legal framework on human security is justified In the wake of the security issues that we have been confronted with in the past and those that continue to threaten our concerted safety deliberations surrounding the adequacy or otherwise of International law related to human security vis vis modern challenges are inevitable

The United Nations in the Twenty-First Century Marcus Franda, 2006-06-02 The United Nations in the Twenty First Century analyzes the significance of the many forces and events affecting the UN's efforts at reform It provides a detailed examination of these processes for all of the major UN organs and agencies including chapters on the Secretaries

Security in the 21st Century Alex Conte, 2017-11-30 This exceptional volume examines international security issues by way of case studies of the conflicts in Afghanistan and Iraq Each of these raises significant issues concerning the use of force between states and the role of the United Nations in maintaining international peace and security Alex Conte examines international terrorism and the intervention in Afghanistan including the controversial policy of pre-emptive strikes in the war on terror and discusses the role adopted by the United Nations in the political and economic reconstruction of states subjected to conflict Analyzing events in Iraq since 1990 he assesses the legality of the current war and leads to an examination of the role of the UN in maintaining peace and security and possible options for reform and accountability The study will be a valuable guide for all those keen to understand the use of international law and the United Nations in the first two major conflicts of the 21st century and their implications for the future role of the United Nations The United Nations in the 21st Century Karen A.
