The Unspeakable Art Of Bill Viola A Visual Theology:

The Unspeakable Art of Bill Viola Ronald R. Bernier, 2014-05-19 The breach of art from religion is just one of the many unhappy legacies of modernism There was a time however when the aesthetic and the spiritual were of a piece This study of the work of American video artist Bill Viola considers the possible reemergence of a theological dimension to contemporary art a reenchantment of art as some have called it Using the high tech apparatus of modern video Viola s art is rooted precisely in this theological tradition of transcendent mystical experience and spiritual self concentration The technological apotheosis of modern image making high speed film high definition video LCD and plasma screens and sophisticated sound recording are put to use by Viola in ways that significantly challenge prevailing intellectual and artistic traditions and return us to the power of the Sublime that which by definition defeats language Viola s art as such converges with postmodern notions of the unrepresentable and with the ancient theological tradition of apophysis speaking away or unsaying The fullness of meaning then appears only as a promise of presence through embodied absence neither fully here and now nor entirely elsewhere and beyond This study seeks to define through the work of a courageous and thoughtful contemporary artist the theological sublime as an aesthetic of revelation

The Shape of Motion Jordan Schonig, 2022 In The Shape of Motion Cinema and the Aesthetics of Movement author Jordan Schonig provides a new way of theorizing cinematic motion by examining cinema s motion forms structures patterns or shapes of movement unique to the moving image From the wild and unpredictable motion of flickering leaves and swirling dust that captivated early spectators to the pulsing abstractions that emerge from rapid lateral tracking shots to the bleeding pixel formations caused by the glitches of digital video compression each motion form opens up the aesthetics of movement to film theoretical inquiry By pairing close analyses of onscreen movement in narrative and experimental films with concepts from Maurice Merleau Ponty Henri Bergson and Immanuel Kant Schonig rethinks longstanding assumptions within film studies such as indexical accounts of photographic images and analogies between the camera and the human eye Arguing against the intuition that cinema reproduces our natural perception of motion The Shape of Motion shows how cinema s motion forms do not merely transpose the movements of the world in front of the camera they transform them Pattern and Chaos in Art, Science and Everyday Life Sarah Horton, Victoria Mitchell, 2023-12-13 This collection explores critical and visual practices through the lens of interactions and intersections between pattern and chaos The dynamic of the inter relationship between pattern and chaos is such as to challenge disciplinary boundaries critical frameworks and modes of understanding perception and communication often referencing the in between territory of art and science through experimentation and visual scrutiny A territory of pattern chaos or chaos pattern begins to unfold Drawing upon fields such as visual culture sociology physics neurobiology linguistics or critical theory for example contributors have experimented with pattern and or chaos related forms processes materials sounds and language or have reflected on the work of other artists scientists and scholars Diagrams tessellations dust knots mazes folds creases flux virus fire and flow are indicative of processes through which pattern and chaos are addressed The contributions are organized into clusters of subjects which reflect the interdisciplinary terrain through a robust yet also experimental arrangement These are Pattern Dynamics Morph Flux Mutate Decompose Recompose Virus Social Imaginary and Nothings in Particular Postdigital Theologies Maggi Savin-Baden, John Reader, 2022-09-01 This book is about the relationships between technologies and the content of religious belief and practice A number of models are now starting to emerge but each of these depends on the theological or philosophical framework within which the debate is set At the same time there are dilemmas operating at different ends of the spectrum For example at one end there is a tendency towards subsuming the digital within the divine and at the other an instrumental stance relating to how technology is deployed Either of these stances could be said to ignore rather than acknowledge that the human itself is being changed as a result of the interactions with the digital The book explores the following areas Where is God to be found or present in the postdigital condition What are the implications of the postdigital condition for spirituality and indeed for the activity of God through the Holy Spirit How do concepts of transhumanism or posthumanism effect understandings of the incarnation Does the doctrine of the Trinity need revisiting in the light of the digital as medium of relationship Does Creation now include the postdigital What of the Kingdom of God now that the kingdom of the Tech giants is so powerful all consuming Religion and Contemporary Art Ronald R. Culture as Capital Slavko Kacunko, 2015-03-02 By following and reproducing the cultural turn the rhetoric of cultural mix and hybridism is disseminated today primarily in its crossing of trade barriers Cultures reduced to their exchange value function as capital an accumulative speculative and ultimately financial affair In some of its media and site un specific manifestations process art which aims to encompass both old and new media art seems to resist this pressure despite nonetheless not being protected from regulations and incorporations In the present collection of his recent essays Slavko Kacunko discusses the process art by crossing the disciplines of art history and comparative media visual and cultural studies As a first approximation several historiographical remarks on closed circuit video installations underline their importance as a core category of process art In the second part the problems of process art seen as a threshold of art history are further examined in another retroanalytical step in which concepts and objects related to mirror frame and immediacy are analyzed as the triple delimitation of visual culture studies In the third part previously outlined manifestations of what is termed the post visual condition are summarized and projected to the coreless core of the emerging art and research related to the coreless beings par excellence the bacteria

Visual Theology Robin Margaret Jensen, Kimberly J. Vrudny, 2009 At least

since the time of Paul see Acts 18 Christians have wrestled with the power and danger of religious imagery in the visual arts It was not until the middle of the twentieth century that there emerged in Western Christianity an integrated academic study of theology and the arts Here one of the pioneers of that movement H Wilson Yates along with fourteen theologians examine how visual culture reflects or addresses pressing contemporary religious questions The aim throughout is to engage the reader in theological reflection mediated and enhanced by the arts This beautifully illustrated book includes more than fifty images in full color

Transforming Christian Thought in the Visual Arts Sheona Beaumont, Madeleine Emerald Thiele, 2021-07-06 This volume explores how the visual arts are presenting and responding to Christian theology and demonstrates how modern and contemporary artists and artworks have actively engaged in conversation with Christianity Modern intellectual enquiry has often been reluctant to engage theology as an enriching or useful form of visual analysis but critics are increasingly revisiting religious narratives and Christian thought in pursuit of understanding our present day visual culture In this book an international group of contributors demonstrate how theology is often implicit within artworks and how regardless of a viewer's personal faith it can become implicit in a viewer's visual encounter Their observations include deliberate juxtaposition of Christian symbols imaginative play with theologies the validation of non-confessional or secular public engagement and inversions of biblical interpretation Case studies such as an interactive Easter glow sticks as sacrament and visualisation of the Bible's polyphonic voices enrich this discussion Together they call for a greater interpretative generosity and more nuance around theology's cultural contexts in the modern era By engaging with theology culture and the visual art this collection offers a fresh lens through which to see the interaction of religion and art As such it will be of great use to those working in Religion and the Arts Visual Art Material Religion Theology Aesthetics and Cultural Studies

Projects, Bill Viola Museum of Modern Art (New York, N.Y.), 1979 Transformations in Persons and Paint Chloë R. Reddaway, 2015 How can pictures help people to relate to God and what can historical Christian images offer the viewer today A compelling theological encounter between Renaissance frescoes and the modern viewer Transformations in Persons and Paint looks at images from the viewer's position standing in a series of Florentine chapels surrounded by frescoes and discovering their powerful capacity to communicate what it means to live in a post-Resurrection world Proving that there is still plenty to say about works by Giotto Taddeo Gaddi Masolino Masaccio Fra Angelico and Ghirlandaio this book uncovers previously overlooked theological content and demonstrates the rewards of attentive interaction between a modern viewer and historical images Within the growing body of work on theology and the arts this is a rare example of what can happen when a theological gaze is turned towards some of the classics in the canon of Christian art while speaking directly to the modern viewer Chloë Reddaway offers a new model of theological viewing inhabiting both period and modern perspectives and reinvigorating our understanding of the incarnational nature of Christian art by taking account of the particular physicality of images especially as it is experienced through sacred space within and around them Through close and imaginative encounters with images a series of critical devotional interpretations transforms beautiful artefacts into living explorations of the Incarnation and its consequences the transformation and transfiguration that it enables the particularity and interconnectedness of the created world the generative capacity of liminal and apparently empty spaces and the nature of vocation and conformity to Christ

Bill Viola Bill Viola, 2017 The Video Installation Art of Bill Viola Kyra Seely, 2000 Bill Viola Bill Viola, J. Hoberman, Donald Burton Kuspit, 1987 Strangeness and Recognition Chloë R. Reddaway, 2019 How do you paint a figure who is fully human and fully divine How do you paint Christ Strangeness and Recognition takes a fresh look at well known Renaissance paintings of Christ and shows how surprising and deeply strange they can be This book brings an imaginative and affective theological perspective to the viewing experience as it explores the twin roles played by strangeness and recognition in responding to the challenge of creating and relating to images of Christ By confounding expectations and defamiliarising subject matter the ambiguity and mystery of these paintings disturbs viewers expectations and reconnects them with the extraordinary mystery of the Incarnation While neither words nor images can fully describe God through a questioning challenging dialogue with paintings whose visual language disrupts itself viewers can be brought to the limits of their own understanding and can enter into transformative and personlike relationships with paintings These personal exchanges lead through estrangement to the rediscovery of the familiar within the strange and the renewed within the familiar and to the ultimately unspeakable unpaintable mystery of the Incarnation Drawing on a diverse range of theologians philosophers art historians and art theorists and building on her own earlier work Chloe Reddaway shows the theological potential of Christian images even when they are far removed from their original contexts A major contribution to the emerging field of visual theology this book will appeal to scholars of theology and art history alike as well as to the museum going public Bill Viola, 2022 Visual Faith William A.
