Vocational Education Magazine, 1924 Proceedings of the Third Triennial Conference, Held at Washington, May 31-June 11, 1936 Associated Country Women of the World, 1937 Emerson and Environmental Ethics Susan Dunston, 2018-09-15 At the core of Emerson's philosophy is his view as a naturalist that we are made of the same atoms as the world is In counterpoint to this identity he noted the fluid evolution and diversity of combinations and configurations of those atoms Thus he argued our relation and connection to the world are not occasional or recreational but everywhere and always and also reciprocal ongoing and creative He declared he would be a naturalist which for him meant being a knowledgeable lover of nature Emerson's famous insistence on an original relation to the universe centered on morally creative engagement with the environment It took the form of a nature literacy that has become central to contemporary environmental ethics The essential argument of this book is that Emerson's integrated philosophy of nature ethics and creativity is a powerful prototype for a diverse range of contemporary environmental ethics After describing Emerson's own environmental literacy and ethical aesthetic and creative practices of relating to the natural world Dunston delineates a web of environmental ethics that connects Emerson to contemporary eco feminism living systems theory Native American science Asian philosophy and environmental activism Critical Realism, Environmental Learning and Social-Ecological Change Leigh Price, Heila Lotz-Sistka, 2015-12-14 Southern Africa where most of these book chapters originate has been identified as one of regions of the world most at risk of the consequences of environmental degradation and climate change At the same time it is still seeking ways to overcome the century long ravages of colonial and apartheid impositions of structural and epistemic violence Research deliberations and applied research case studies in environmental education and activism from this region provide an emerging contextualized engagement that is related to a wider internationally articulated quest to achieve social ecological justice resilience and sustainability through educational interventions This book introduces a decade of mainly southern African critical realist environmental education research and thinking that asks the question How can we facilitate learning processes that will lead to the flourishing of the Earth s people and ecosystems in more socially just ways The environmental education research topics represented in this book are wide ranging However they all exhibit the common theme of social justice and wanting to create change towards a better future All the authors have used critical realist or critical realist influenced research methodologies Offering contributions from a small but growing community of researchers working with critical realism in the global South this book will be of interest to students scholars and practitioners in the areas of environmental education sustainability development and the philosophy of critical realism in general
