The Divorce Papers Susan Rieger, 2014-10-28 A sneakily clever Kevin Kwan novel of the lengths we'll go for that thing called love from the author of Like Mother Like Mother In her clever modern twist on the epistolary form Rieger excavates the humor and humanity from a most bitter uncoupling Emily Giffin The New York Times Book Review Editors Choice A witty first novel providing all the voyeuristic pleasure of snooping through someone else's inbox People Sophie Diehl is happily toiling away at an old line New England law firm when Mayflower descendant Mia Meiklejohn Durkheim strides through the door While dining at the most chic eatery in town Mia was handed a most unwanted substitute for the wine list divorce papers Sophie reluctantly steps away from her criminal law casework to conduct Mia's intake interview and to her dismay Mia insists she take the case Sophie is just who she needs to take on her soon to be ex and his thuggish lawyers For Sophie the whole affair sparks a hard look at the relationships in her own life with parents friends and lovers A rich layered novel told entirely through personal correspondence office memos e-mails articles handwritten notes and legal documents The Divorce Papers offers a direct window into the lives of an entertaining cast of characters never shy about speaking their minds

Walking Papers Francesco Clark, 2010-06-01 Walking Papers is the incredibly inspiring story of a young man who wouldn't give up Francesco Clark was a twenty four year old with a bright future when he went to Long Island for the weekend but a nocturnal dive into the pool's shallow end changed everything forever. Paralyzed from the neck down, Francesco was told by his doctors that he would never move from his bed or even breathe without assistance. But Francesco fought back. Within days he was breathing on his own. His father, a doctor himself, investigated every opportunity for experimental treatment, and Francesco used every resource available to speed his recovery. To avoid having his lungs painfully suctioned, he sang loudly for hours, and that was just the beginning. Francesco moved back home with his parents and began the long process toward recovery. Many doctors discourage patients with spinal cord injury from pursuing physical therapy beyond very basic movements, but Francesco embarked on a five-hour daily regimen, including the treadmill program that Christopher Reeve had made famous. Soon he astounded the medical establishment with his progress. Francesco's accident also left him unable to sweat out toxins, leaving his complexion poor. He and his father began to experiment, and the Clark's Botanicals skin care line was born. Now CB products are sold worldwide in stores such as Saks Fifth Avenue, and the company has won many major fashion awards and is enjoyed by a host of celebrities. The lessons Francesco learned about persistence from his recovery process and the loving support of his amazing family have both contributed to his incredible business success. Seven years after the accident, Francesco continues to improve and to surprise his doctors; for instance, he can now work on a computer. Walking Papers is the inspiring story of how, with individual determination and unconditional family support, Francesco Clark overcame extreme adversity and achieved an extraordinary triumph.
