Transforming The Robocops Changing Police In South Africa:

Transforming the Robocops Monique Marks, 2005 The structure uniform equipment and training of the South African Police Service have changed since apartheid says Marks sociology U of KwaZulu Natal the force proclaims a community oriented service ethic hires more women and black personnel in high positions and is rarely rather than often excessively violent during demonstrations and protests Still she asks how much the police have changed and whether it is really to change them or indeed to change the police anywhere

Police Community Support Officers Megan O'Neill, 2019-04-18 Police Community Support Officers Cultures and Identities within Pluralised Policing presents the first in depth ethnographic study of Police Community Support Officers PCSOs since the creation of the role in 2002 Situated within the tradition of police ethnographies this text examines the working worlds of uniformed patrol support staff in two English police forces Based on over 350 hours of direct observation and 33 interviews with PCSOs and police constables in both urban and rural contexts Police Community Support Officers offers a detailed analysis of the operational and cultural realities of pluralised policing from within Using a dramaturgic framework the author finds that PCSOs have been undermined by their own organisations from the beginning which has left a lasting legacy in terms of their relationships and interactions with police officer colleagues The implications of this for police cultures community policing approaches and the success of pluralisation are examined The author argues that while PCSOs can have similar occupational experiences to constables their particular circumstances have led to a unique occupational culture one which has implications for existing police culture theories The book considers these findings in light of budget reductions and police reforms occurring across the sector processes in which PCSOs are particularly vulnerable

Speaking Truths to Power Jarrett Blaustein, 2015 The Routledge International Handbook of Criminology and Human Rights Leanne Weber, Elaine Fishwick, Marinella Marmo, 2016-08-25 The Routledge International Handbook of Criminology and Human Rights brings together a diverse body of work from around the globe and across a wide range of criminological topics and perspectives united by its critical application of human rights law and principles This collection explores the interdisciplinary reach of criminology and is the first of its kind to link criminology and human rights This text is divided into six sections each with an introduction and an overview provided by one of the editors The opening section makes an assessment of the current standing of human rights within the discipline Each of the remaining sections corresponds to a substantive area of harm prevention and social control which together make up the main core of contemporary criminology namely criminal law in practice transitional justice peacemaking and community safety policing in all its guises traditional and emerging approaches to criminal justice and penalty both within and beyond the prison This Handbook forms an authoritative foundation on which future teaching and research about human rights and criminology can be built This multi disciplinary text is an essential companion for criminologists sociologists legal scholars and political scientists

Peacemaking and Peacebuilding in South Africa Liz

Carmichael, 2022 It is now 30 years since the National Peace Accord NPA was signed in South Africa bringing to an end the violent struggle of the Apartheid era and signalling the transition to democracy Signed by the ANC Alliance the Government the Inkatha Freedom Party and a wide range of other political and labour organizations on 14 September 1991 the parties agreed in the NPA on the common goal of a united non racial democratic South Africa and provided practical means for moving towards this end codes of conduct for political organizations and for the police the creation of national regional and local peace structures for conflict resolution the investigation and prevention of violence peace monitoring socio economic reconstruction and peacebuilding This book written by one of those involved in the process that evolved provides for the first time an assessment and in depth account of this key phase of South Africa's history The National Peace Campaign set up under the NPA mobilized the silent majority and gave peace an unprecedented grassroots identity and legitimacy The author describes the formulation of the NPA by political representatives with Church and business facilitators which ended the political impasse constituted South Africa's first experience of multi party negotiations and made it possible for the constitutional talks Codesa to start She examines the work of the Goldstone Commission which prefigured the TRC as well as the role of international observers from the UN EU Commonwealth and OAU Exploring the work of the peace structures set up to implement the Accord the National Peace Committee and Secretariat the 11 Regional Peace Committees and 263 Local Peace Committees and over 18 000 peace monitors Carmichael provides a uniquely detailed assessment of the NPA the on the ground peacebuilding work and the essential involvement of the people at its heart Filling a significant gap in modern history this book will be essential reading for scholars students and others interested in South Africa's post Apartheid history as well as government agencies and NGOs involved in peacemaking globally

Routledge International Handbook of Police Ethnography Jenny Fleming, Sarah Charman, 2023-01-31 Ethnography has a long history in the humanities and social sciences and has provided the base line in the field of police studies for over 60 years We have recently witnessed a resurgence in ethnographic practice among police scholars and this Handbook is a response to that revival Students and academics are returning to the ethnography arena and the study of police in situ to explain the evocative worlds of the police The list of ethnographic sites is vast and all have fed the rejuvenation of ethnographic endeavour Together they suggest innovation theoretical depth broad geographical boundaries multi site experiments and multi disciplinarity all of which are central to the exploration of police and policing in the twenty first century This Handbook encapsulates the revival of police ethnography by exploring its multidisciplinary field and cataloguing the ongoing ethnographic work It offers an original and international contribution to the field of police studies and research methods providing a comprehensive and overarching guide to police ethnography We see the previous classics in every page and still note the influence of the early ethnographers At the same time we see the innovative breadth and diversity of these narratives The aim of this Handbook is to highlight the mosaic that is police ethnography at a point in time and note with pleasure its contribution to the field once more

Ethnography may be messy difficult and at times uncooperative but its results offer a unique insight into the perspectives of people and organisations that can hide in plain sight An accessible and compelling read this Handbook will provide a sound and essential reference source for academics researchers students and practitioners engaged in police and criminal justice studies

The Government of Disasters Lydie Cabane,2023-09-22 This book examines the history of disaster management in South Africa showing how experts professionals and policymakers have crafted and implemented disaster policies from the mid twentieth century to the present day It assesses the ways in which states become concerned with disasters the extent to which disaster management contributes toward state formation and who and what disaster management protects It also considers the ways in which the politics of protection continuously shift as political regimes change In telling the story of how policies surrounding disaster protection have evolved in South Africa the book demonstrates how the security apparatus that shaped disaster management was re oriented in the twenty first century towards development alongside bureaucratic reforms that aimed to democratize the state By examining the wider context of the globalization of disaster management it also highlights the often unrecognised role of experts from Africa Latin America and Asia in shaping global disaster policies The book will appeal to scholars and students of disaster governance public policy state formation and African politics

Police Culture in a Changing World Bethan Loftus,2012-01-19 This fascinating new title offers an ethnographical investigation of contemporary police culture based on extensive field work across a range of ranks and units in the UK s police force By drawing on over 600 hours of direct observation of operational policing in urban and rural areas and interviews with over 60 officers the author assesses what impact three decades of social economic and political change have had on police culture She offers new understandings of the policing of ethnicity gender and sexuality and the ways in which reform initiatives are accommodated and resisted within the police The author also explores the attempts of one force to effect cultural change both to improve the working conditions of staff and to deliver a more effective and equitable service to all groups in society Beginning with a review of the literature on police culture from 30 years ago the author goes on to outline the new social economic and political field of contemporary British policing Taking this as a starting point the remaining chapters present the main findings of the empirical research in what is a truly comprehensive analysis of present day policing culture

Policing: Toward an Unknown Future John Crank,Colleen Kadleck,2013-12-16 The enclosed papers are the culmination of a project Dr John Crank and Dr Colleen Kadleck carried out assessing issues facing the police into the early 21st century The papers are future oriented in the sense that they anticipate trends visible today Everywhere the contributing scholars found that the organizational concept practice and function of the police were undergoing transition Yet the seeming state level hardening of the police function was ubiquitous Two themes were noteworthy On the one hand in developing or second world countries police face endemic problems of corruption organized crime and drugs Police in response are undergoing centralization and intensification of law enforcement activities In countries with first world economies Canada the United States and Australia contributors discovered trends toward expansion of the police function a trend described by Brodeur as toward high policing It reflects the growing reliance on surveillance for crime control and for the tracking of minority indigenous and immigrant populations in crime prevention efforts The results suggest that governments sometimes encouraged by their citizenry seem increasingly to rely on the police to deal with a broad array of social as well as criminal problems This book was originally published as a special issue of Police Practice and Research

Criminology and the Anthropocene Cameron Holley, Clifford Shearing, 2017-10-16 The Anthropocene signals a new age in Earth's history a human age where we are revealed as a powerful force shaping planetary systems What might criminology be in the Anthropocene What does the Anthropocene suggest for future theory and practice of criminology This book seeks to contribute to this research agenda by examining contrasting and interrogating different vantage points aspects and thinking within criminology Bringing together a range of multidisciplinary chapters at the cutting edge of thinking and environmental rethinking in criminology this book explores a mix of key intractable problems of the Anthropocene including climate change and overexploitation of natural resources that cause environmental insecurities crime and corruption related human insecurity and fortified spaces and the rise of new risks and social harms Of interest to scholars in the fields of criminology sociology and environmental studies this book provides readers with a basis for analysing the challenges of and possible approaches to the Anthropocene at all levels local national regional and international and discusses the future of criminology for improving social policies and practices
