The War Geoffrey C. Ward,Ken Burns,2007-09-11 The vivid voices that speak from these pages are not those of historians or scholars They are the voices of ordinary men and women who experienced and helped to win the most devastating war in history in which between 50 and 60 million lives were lost Focusing on the citizens of four towns Luverne Minnesota Sacramento California Waterbury Connecticut Mobile Alabama The War follows more than forty people from 1941 to 1945 Woven largely from their memories the compelling unflinching narrative unfolds month by bloody month with the outcome always in doubt All the iconic events are here from Pearl Harbor to the liberation of the concentration camps but we also move among prisoners of war and Japanese American internees defense workers and schoolchildren and families who struggled simply to stay together while their men were shipped off to Europe the Pacific and North Africa Enriched by maps and hundreds of photographs including many never published before this is an intimate profoundly affecting chronicle of the war that shaped our world The Challenge of Nation-Building Rebecca Patterson,2014-09-17 In the last decades the United States Army has often been involved in missions other than conventional warfare These include low intensity conflicts counterinsurgency operations and nation building efforts Although non conventional warfare represents the majority of missions executed in the past sixty years the Army still primarily plans organizes and trains to fight conventional ground wars Consequently in the last ten years there has been considerable criticism regarding the military s inability to accomplish tasks other than conventional war Failed states and the threat they represent cannot be ignored or solved with conventional military might In order to adapt to this new reality the U S Army must innovate This text examines the conditions that have allowed or prevented the U S Army to innovate for nation building effectively By doing so it shows how military leadership and civil military relations have changed Nation building refers to a type of military occupation where the goal is regime change or survival a large number of ground troops are deployed and both military and civilian personnel are used in the political administration of an occupied country with the goals of establishing a productive economy and a stable government Such tasks have always been a challenge for the U S military which is not normally equipped or trained to undertake them Using military effectiveness as the measurement of innovative success the book analyzes several U S nation building cases including post World War II Germany South Korea from 1945 1950 the Vietnam War and Operation Iraqi Freedom By doing so it reveals the conditions that enabled military innovation in one unique case Germany while explaining what prevented it in the others This variation of effectiveness leads to examine prevailing military innovation theories threat based accounts quality of military organizations and civil military relations This text comes at a critical time as the U S military faces dwindling resources and tough choices about its force structure and mission orientation It will add to the growing debate about the role of civilians military reformers and institutional factors in military innovation and effectiveness American
