Trauma And Rebirth Intergenerational Effects Of The Holocaust:

Trauma and Rebirth John J. Sigal, Morton Weinfeld, 1989-06 This volume examines the long term consequences of the Holocaust on survivors and their children some four decades after the war This book represents the culmination of nine years of collaborative effort consisting primarily of findings drawn from two sample surveys of Jewish residents in Montreal This volume covers new research topics that have been neglected in the survivor literature including personality familial interactions vocational achievements sociopolitical attitudes an excellent source of material from a sociopolitical and psychological perspective The assessment of the impact of a political movement on the attitudes and psychological status of a minority population is informative The study of a large group of Holocaust survivors adds significantly to the scientific literature in this area Contemporary Psychology The first empirical study of the psychological consequences of the Holocaust across three generations this book assesses the long term and intergenerational effects of severe victimization and of other forms of exposure to excessive prolonged stress Although there can be no doubt that there are negative psychological and physical consequences for the survivors of the Holocaust the authors present evidence here that contradicts the dominant thrust of previous studies which emphasized dysfunction in the family life of survivors and psychological impairment in their children In addition to an intensive study of Holocaust survivors and their families this book provides a yardstick against which the long term and cross generational impact of other potentially traumatic situations war earthquakes flood fire assault and so on may be measured The authors research for this volume spans the disciplines of psychology psychiatry sociology history and ethnic studies The book however is written in an accessible style easily understood by the nonprofessional reader The culmination of a nine year collaborative effort Trauma and Rebirth consists primarily of findings drawn from two sample surveys of Jewish residents in Montreal One survey focuses on Holocaust survivors the second on children of survivors Both include control groups and draw from unbiased nonclinical and non self selected populations Students and scholars of modern Jewish life and the Holocaust or anyone interested in the study of trauma and victimization will find Trauma and Rebirth an invaluable resource

Intergenerational Trauma and Healing Melissa Leal, Beth Rose Middleton, Melissa Moreno, 2021-03-11 This Special Issue of Genealogy explores the topic of Intergenerational Trauma and Healing Authors examine the ways in which traumas individual or group and affecting humans and non humans that occurred in past generations reverberate into the present and how individuals communities and nations respond to and address those traumas Authors also explore contemporary traumas how they reflect ancestral traumas and how they are being addressed through drawing on both contemporary and ancestral healing approaches The articles define trauma broadly including removal from homelands ecocide genocide sexual or gendered violence institutionalized and direct racism incarceration and exploitation and across a wide range of spatial home to nation and temporal intergenerational ancestral and contemporary scales Articles also approach healing in an expansive mode including specific individual healing practices community based initiatives class action lawsuits group wide reparations health interventions cultural approaches and transformative legal or policy decisions Contributing scholars for this issue are from across disciplines including ethnic studies genetics political science law environmental policy public health humanities etc They consider trauma and its ramifications alongside diverse mechanisms of healing and or rearticulating self community and nation Holocaust Trauma Natan P. F.

Kellermann,Natan P.F. Kellermann,2009 Holocaust Trauma offers a comprehensive overview of the long term psychological effects of Holocaust trauma It covers not only the direct effects on the actual survivors and the transmission effects upon the offspring but also the collective effects upon other affected populations including the Israeli Jewish and the societies in Germany and Austria It also suggests various possible intervention approaches to deal with such long term effects of major trauma upon individuals groups and societies that can be generalized to other similar traumatic events The material presented is based on the clinical experience gathered from hundreds of clients of the National Israeli Center for Psychosocial Support of Holocaust Survivors and the Second Generation AMCHA an Israeli treatment center for this population and from facilitating groups of Austrian German participants in Yad Vashem and Europe as well as an upon an extensive review of the vast literature in the field a long awaited text from one of the most experienced and knowledgeable psychologists in the world The text is groundbreaking in its sensitivity historical grounding insight and scholarship Michael A Grodin M D International Handbook of Multigenerational Legacies of Trauma Yael Danieli,2013-03-09 In this extraordinary new text an international array of scholars explore the enduring legacy of such social shocks as war genocide slavery tyranny crime and disease Among the cases addressed are instances of genocide in Turkey Cambodia and Russia the plight of the families of Holocaust survivors atomic bomb survivors in Japan and even the children of Nazis the long term effects associated with the Vietnam War and the war in Yugoslavia and the psychology arising from the legacy of slavery in America Parenthood and the Holocaust Dan Bar-On,2002 Wronged by Empire Manjari Chatterjee Miller,2013-08-21

Although India and China have very different experiences of colonialism they respond to that history in a similar way by treating it as a collective trauma As a result they have a strong sense of victimization that affects their foreign policy decisions even today Wronged by Empire breaks new ground by blending this historical phenomenon colonialism with mixed methods including archival research newspaper data mining and a new statistical method of content analysis to explain the foreign policy choices of India and China two countries that are continuously discussed but very rarely rigorously compared By reference to their colonial past Manjari Chatterjee Miller explains their puzzling behavior today More broadly she argues that the transformative historical experience of a large category of actors ex colonies who have previously been neglected in the study of international relations can be used as a method to categorize states in the international system In the process Miller offers a more inclusive way to analyze states than do traditional theories of international relations Recovering from Genocidal Trauma Myra Giberovitch,2014-01-01 Recovering from Genocidal Trauma is a comprehensive guide to understanding Holocaust survivors and responding to their needs In it Myra Giberovitch documents her twenty five years of working with Holocaust survivors as a professional social worker researcher educator community leader and daughter of Auschwitz survivors

Holocaust Theater Gene A. Plunka, 2017-12-22 Facts about the Holocaust are one way of learning about its devastating impact but presenting personal manifestations of trauma can be more effective than citing statistics Holocaust Theater addresses a selection of contemporary plays about the Holocaust examining how collective and individual trauma is represented in dramatic texts and considering the ways in which spectators might be swayed viscerally intellectually and emotionally by witnessing such representations onstage Drawing on interviews with a number of the playwrights alongside psychoanalytic studies of survivor trauma this volume seeks to foster understanding of the traumatic effects of the Holocaust on subsequent generations Holocaust Theater offers a vital account of theater's capacity to represent the effects of Holocaust trauma

Reparations for Victims of Genocide, War Crimes and Crimes Against Humanity Carla Ferstman, Mariana Goetz, Alan Stephens, 2009 This book provides detailed analyses of systems that have been established to provide reparations to victims of genocide crimes against humanity and war crimes and the way in which these systems have worked and are working in practice Many of these systems are described and assessed for the first time in an academic publication The publication draws upon a groundbreaking Conference organised by the Clemens Nathan Research Centre CNRC and REDRESS at the Peace Palace in The Hague with the support of the Dutch Carnegie Foundation Both CNRC and REDRESS had become very concerned about the extreme difficulty encountered by most victims of serious international crimes in attempting to access effective and enforceable remedies and reparation for harm suffered In discussions between the Conference organisers and Judges and officials of the International Criminal Court it became ever more apparent that there was a great need for frank and open exchanges on the question of effective reparation between the representatives of victims of NGOs and IGOs and other experts It was clear to all that the many current initiatives of governments and regional and international institutions to afford reparations to victims of genocide crimes against humanity and war crimes could benefit greatly by taking into full account the wide and varied practice that had been built up over several decades In particular the Hague Conference sought to consider in detail the long experience of the Conference on Jewish Material Claims against Germany the Claims Conference in respect of Holocaust restitution programmes as well as the practice of truth commissions arbitral proceedings and a variety of national processes to identify common trends best practices and lessons This book thus explores the actions of governments as well as of national and international courts and commissions in applying processing implementing and enforcing a variety of reparations schemes and awards Crucially it considers the entire complex of issues from the perspective of the beneficiaries survivors and their communities and from the perspective of the policy makers and implementers tasked with resolving technical and procedural challenges in bringing to fruition adequate effective and meaningful reparations in the context of mass victimisation

Cross-Cultural Assessment of Psychological Trauma and PTSD John P. Wilson, Catherine C. So-Kum Tang, 2007-07-17 This work is a vital set of insights and guidelines that will contribute to more aware and meaningful practice for mental health professionals Focusing equally on theoretical concepts culturally valid assessment methods and cultural adaptation in trauma and resilience an array of experts present the cutting edge of research and strategies Extended case studies illustrate an informative range of symptom profiles comorbid conditions and coping skills as well as secondary traumas that can occur in asylum seekers
