Water And Post Conflict Peacebuilding Post Conflict Peacebuilding And Natural Resource Management:

Water and Post-Conflict Peacebuilding Erika Weinthal, Jessica J. Troell, Mikiyasu Nakayama, 2014-02-24 As a basic human need the provision of safe water is among the highest priorities of government and humanitarian interventions during post conflict recovery and peacebuilding In the aftermath of war water sanitation and infrastructure play a critical role in the recovery of livelihoods and economic development Moreover shared waters have great potential for interstate cooperation assisting to rebuild trust following conflict and to prevent a return to conflict This volume draws on studies from around the world to create a framework for understanding how water resources decisions and activities can facilitate or undermine peacebuilding in a post conflict setting Governance, Natural Resources and Post-Conflict Peacebuilding Carl Bruch, Carroll Muffett, Sandra Nichols, 2016-04-07 When the guns are silenced those who have survived armed conflict need food water shelter the means to earn a living and the promise of safety and a return to civil order Meeting these needs while sustaining peace requires more than simply having governmental structures in place it requires good governance Natural resources are essential to sustaining people and peace in post conflict countries but governance failures often jeopardize such efforts This book examines the theory practice and often surprising realities of post conflict governance natural resource management and peacebuilding in fifty conflict affected countries and territories It includes thirty nine chapters written by more than seventy researchers diplomats military personnel and practitioners from governmental intergovernmental and nongovernmental organizations The book highlights the mutually reinforcing relationship between natural resource management and good governance Natural resource management is crucial to rebuilding governance and the rule of law combating corruption improving transparency and accountability engaging disenfranchised populations and building confidence after conflict At the same time good governance is essential for ensuring that natural resource management can meet immediate needs for post conflict stability and development while simultaneously laying the foundation for a sustainable peace Drawing on analyses of the close relationship between governance and natural resource management the book explores lessons from past conflicts and ongoing reconstruction efforts illustrates how those lessons may be applied to the formulation and implementation of more effective governance initiatives and presents an emerging theoretical and practical framework for policy makers researchers practitioners and students Governance Natural Resources and Post Conflict Peacebuilding is part of a global initiative to identify and analyze lessons in post conflict peacebuilding and natural resource management The project has generated six books of case studies and analyses with contributions from practitioners policy makers and researchers Other books in this series address high value resources land water livelihoods and assessing and restoring natural resources Water and Post-Conflict Peacebuilding Erika Weinthal, Jessica J. Troell, Mikiyasu Nakayama, 2014-02-24 Water is a basic human need and despite predictions of water wars shared waters have proven to be the natural resource with the greatest potential for interstate cooperation and local confidence building Indeed water management plays a singularly important role in rebuilding trust after conflict and in preventing a return to conflict. Featuring nineteen case studies and analyses of experiences from twenty eight countries and territories in Africa Asia Europe the Americas and the Middle East and drawing on the experiences of thirty five researchers and practitioners from around the world this book creates a framework for understanding how decisions governing water resources in post conflict settings can facilitate or undermine peacebuilding. The lessons will be of value to practitioners in international development and humanitarian initiatives policy makers students and others interested in post conflict peacebuilding and the nexus between water management and conflict. Water and Post Conflict Peacebuilding is part of a global initiative to identify and analyze lessons in post conflict peacebuilding and natural resource management. The project has generated six edited books of case studies and analyses with contributions from practitioners policy makers and researchers. Other books in this series address high value resources land livelihoods assessing and restoring natural resources and governance.

Livelihoods, Natural Resources, and Post-Conflict Peacebuilding Helen Young, Lisa Goldman, 2015-04-10. Sustaining and strengthening local livelihoods is one of the most fundamental challenges faced by post conflict countries. By degrading the natural resources that are essential to livelihoods and by significantly hindering access to those resources conflict can wreak havoc on the ability of war torn populations to survive and recover. This book explores how natural resource management initiatives in more than twenty countries and territories have supported livelihoods and facilitated post conflict peacebuilding. Case studies and analyses identify lessons and opportunities for the more effective design of interventions to support the livelihoods that depend on natural resources from land to agriculture forestry fisheries and protected areas. The book also explores larger questions about how to structure livelihoods assistance as part of a coherent integrated approach to post conflict redevelopment. Livelihoods and Natural Resources in Post Conflict Peacebuilding is part of a global initiative to identify and analyze lessons in post conflict peacebuilding and natural resource management. The project has generated six books of case studies and analyses with contributions from practitioners policy makers and researchers. When a country emerges from violent conflict the management of the environment and natural resources has important implications for short term peacebuilding and long term stability particularly if natural resources were a factor in the conflict. They play a major role in the national economy or broadly support livelihoods. Only recently however have the assessment harnessing and restoration of the natural resource base become essential components of post conflict peacebuilding. This book by thirty five authors examines the experiences of more than twenty countries and territories in assessing post conflict environmental damage and natural resource degradation and their implications for human health livelihoods and security. The book also illustrates how an understanding of both the risks and opportunities associated with natural resources can help decision makers manage natural resources in ways that create jobs sustain livelihoods and contribute to economic recovery and reconciliation without creating new grievances or significant environmental degradation Finally the book offers lessons from the remediation of environmental hot spots restoration of damaged ecosystems and reconstruction of the environmental services and infrastructure necessary for a sustainable peace Assessing and Restoring Natural Resources in Post Conflict Peacebuilding is part of a global initiative to identify and analyze lessons in post conflict peacebuilding and natural resource management The project has generated six books of case studies and analyses with contributions by practitioners policy makers and researchers Other books address highvalue resources land water livelihoods and governance High-Value

Natural Resources and Post-Conflict Peacebuilding Pivi Lujala,2012-03-29 For most post conflict countries the transition to peace is daunting In countries with high value natural resources including oil gas diamonds other minerals and timber the stakes are unusually high and peacebuilding is especially challenging Resource rich post conflict countries face both unique problems and opportunities They enter peacebuilding with an advantage that distinguishes them from other war torn societies access to natural resources that can yield substantial revenues for alleviating poverty compensating victims creating jobs and rebuilding the country and the economy Evidence shows however that this opportunity is often wasted Resource rich countries do not have a better record in sustaining peace In fact resource related conflicts are more likely to relapse Focusing on the relationship between high value natural resources and peacebuilding in post conflict settings this book identifies opportunities and strategies for converting resource revenues to a peaceful future Its thirty chapters draw on the experiences of forty one researchers and practitioners as well as the broader literature and cover a range of key issues including resource extraction revenue sharing and allocation and institution building The book provides a concise theoretical and practical framework that policy makers researchers practitioners and students can use to understand and address the complex interplay between the management of high value resources and peace High Value Natural Resources and Post Conflict Peacebuilding is part of a global initiative led by the Environmental Law Institute ELI the United Nations Environment Programme UNEP the University of Tokyo and McGill University to identify and analyze lessons in natural resource management and post conflict peacebuilding The project has generated six edited books of case studies and analyses with contributions from practitioners policy makers and researchers Other books in the series address land water livelihoods assessing and restoring natural resources and governance Land and Post-Conflict Peacebuilding Jon

Unruh,Rhodri Williams,2013-07-18 Claims to land and territory are often a cause of conflict and land issues present some of the most contentious problems for post conflict peacebuilding Among the land related problems that emerge during and after conflict are the exploitation of land based resources in the absence of authority the disintegration of property rights and institutions the territorial effect of battlefield gains and losses and population displacement In the wake of violent conflict reconstitution of a viable land rights system is crucial an effective post conflict land policy can foster economic recovery help restore the rule of law and strengthen political stability But the reestablishment of land ownership land use and access rights for individuals and communities is often complicated and problematic and poor land policies can lead to renewed tensions In twenty one chapters by twenty five authors this book considers experiences with and approaches to post conflict land issues in seventeen countries and in varied social and geographic settings Highlighting key concepts that are important for understanding how to address land rights in the wake of armed conflict the book provides a theoretical and practical framework for policy makers researchers practitioners and students Land and Post Conflict Peacebuilding is part of a global initiative to identify and analyze lessons in post conflict peacebuilding and natural resource management The project has generated six edited books of case studies and analyses with contributions from practitioners policy makers and researchers Other books in the series address high value resources water livelihoods assessing and restoring resources and governance
