who took over the city's perpetually last place soccer team. He had a straightforward work ethic and a favorite song, a silly pop song done by a local band, You'll Never Walk Alone. Soon he would have entire stadiums singing along, tens of thousands of people all dressed in the team color red, as Liverpool began to win. And soon too there was something else those thousands of people would chant as one: Shank lee Shank lee. In Red or Dead, the acclaimed writer David Peace tells the stirring story of the real-life working-class hero who lifted the spirits of an entire city in turbulent times. But Red or Dead is more than a fictional biography of a real man and more than a thrilling novel about sports. It is an epic novel that transcends those categories until there's nothing left to call it but as many of the world's leading newspapers already have: a masterpiece.

Thing of Beauty Jackson Mac Low, 2009-05 Jackson Mac Low's poetry and prose exceeds narrow definitions of artists by movements or poets by style. His work began with and returned to timeless subjects such as children, animals, love, war, death, and God, diverging at points into rigorously imposed structures, systems, and chance operations in an effort to suppress the ego in his art. At one point embarrassed by his depth of feeling, Mac Low confesses to being an existential poet, a declaration that the title of the poem A Lack of Balance But Not Fatal contradicts with modest and generous humor. This is an important and often very moving anthology of Mac Low's thought at the same time as it reflects the preoccupations of his generation and ranges over a wide variety of approaches to writing and art-making. Thing of Beauty is a manifesto; the term Mac Low would use to describe expressions of personal truth, and his are beautiful. Kristine Stiles, Professor of Art History, Duke University. In this generous selection of Jackson Mac Low's work, we can see first-hand the poet's profound understanding of the physics of language and his exuberant articulation of the sounds of words in unpredictable motions. The multiplicity of Mac Low's forms and his rejection of any hierarchy among the forms of poetry—objective and subjective, expository or nonrepresentational, lyric and epic—along with his refusal to identify poetic composition with a characteristic voice of the poet and his rejection of traditional aesthetic standards of beauty are among the chief marks of his iconoclastic genius. Mac Low's magnificent and multidimensional poems open vast expanses for the imagination to inhabit. Charles Bernstein. This is one of the great watershed events in recent publishing history. Mac Low's reputation has exploded on the poetry scene since his death. Hannah Higgins, author of Fluxus Experience. Acts of Narrative Carol Jacobs, Henry Sussman, 2003. This outstanding collection brings together essays that reflect on the nature of narrative, literary criticism, and history from a variety of theoretical and disciplinary perspectives ranging from deconstruction, psychoanalysis, and trauma theory to narratology, technology, economics, and aesthetics. Acts of Narrative includes responses from renowned scholars across a wide range of disciplines: philosopher Jacques Derrida, the literary critic J. Hillis Miller, W. J. T. Mitchell, well-known for his reflections on the visual world, and Cathy N. Davidson, one of the founders of the field of trauma theory. These essays are brilliant in their readings of other texts but are also striking in the manner in which each becomes itself a narrative performance. Moreover, what starts out as an exercise in theorizing and reading moves more often than not into a meditation on social and political issues crucial
