The Politics of Water Resource Development in India John R Wood, 2007-04-04 This book is about the politics of water resource development and management in India with special reference to the Narmada river waters dispute The author draws on a wealth of studies on Narmada as also his own research to analyse the controversy from the perspective of a political scientist The author analyses three aspects of the conflict over developing the waters of the Narmada The politics of the inter state river water dispute over Narmada waters in the context of Indian centre state and inter state relationships and the constitutional and legal mechanisms for resolving disputes among riparian states The Narmada upstream downstream politics implicit in the battle between downstream Gujarat and Rajasthan versus upstream Madhya Pradesh and Maharashtra The much publicized struggle between those for and others against the construction of the gigantic Sardar Sarovar dam Given the highly contentious nature of these struggles the author objectively highlights how and why the outcomes of such struggles have largely depended on the realities of power Engaging Well, Forging Bonds Louisa-May Khoo, Jason Boh, 2018 Integrating the Planning of Airports and the City Kay Teck Cheong, 2019 Planning, Development and Management of Sustainable Cities Tan Yigitcanlar, Md. (Liton) Kamruzzaman, 2019-04-30 The concept of sustainable urban development has been pushed to the forefront of policymaking and politics as the world wakes up to the impacts of climate change and the destructive effects of the Anthropocene Climate change has emerged to be one of the biggest challenges faced by our planet today threatening both built and natural systems with long term consequences which may be irreversible While there is a vast body of literature on sustainability and sustainable urban development there is currently limited focus on how to cohesively bring together the vital issues of the planning development and management of sustainable cities Moreover it has been widely stated that current practices and lifestyles cannot continue if we are to leave a healthy living planet to not only the next generation but also to the generations beyond The current global school strikes for climate action known as Fridays for Future evidences this The book advocates the view that the focus needs to rest on ways in which our cities and industries can become green enough to avoid urban ecocide This book fills a gap in the literature by bringing together issues related to the planning development and management of cities and focusing on a triple bottom line approach to sustainability Sediment Management in Water Resources Projects Dr. B.
