The Western Pacific Challenge Of Sustainable Growth:

The Western Pacific Alan Alexander Burnett,1992 The economic miracle of the Western Pacific is under threat from recent increases in population growth energy demand and environmental degradation In this wide ranging book Alan Burnett assesses the economic and political prospects of the four groups of Western Pacific countries experiencing major environmental changes Australasia South Asia Indo China and North East Asia including China The Western Pacific discusses the challenges facing the government as a consequence of population pressures and the degradation of forest rural industrial and urban environments Alan Burnett concludes that recent literature on sustainable growth including the Brundtland Report of 1987 appears little better than utopian as world population steadily rises towards eight billion This instructive and illuminating book successfully bridges the areas of economic development environmental studies and international relations in a powerful statement that will be essential reading for economists political scientists and policymakers throughout the world

The Western Pacific Alexander Burnett,1994 China's Economic Growth T. Cannon,2000-06-01 Economic reforms in China began in 1979 and initiated some of the most fundamental changes ever to occur in any country While allowing some of the most astonishing economic growth the world has seen they have also induced some of the most profound social and environmental shifts

The Far East and Australasia 2003 Europa Publications,2002 A unique survey of each country in the region It includes an extensive collection of facts statistics analysis and directory information in one accessible volume

The United Nations in Southeast Asia and the South Pacific Roderic Alley,2016-07-27 This study of the United Nations in Southeast Asia and the South Pacific evaluates the organization's role and performance in Cambodia and over refugees regarding human rights development environment and the needs of women within regional cooperation and as an instrument of state policy These cases illustrate how multilateral conduct through the United Nations provides a barometer indicating the intensity with which policy initiatives and values are sustained by relevant governmental interests alike In the regional settings considered conduct towards and within the UN has amplified unresolved value differences regarding relations with major powers sustainability and national identity
