The Victorian Fern Craze Shire Library:

The Victorian Fern Craze Sarah Whittingham, 2010-01-19 Fern Fever or Pteridomania to give it its official name hit Britain between 1837 and 1914 and peaked between 1840 and 1890 Although in previous centuries ferns played an important role in customs and folklore it was only in this period that they were coveted for aesthetic reasons and that man's passion for them reached its zenith The craze for collecting ferns reached such epidemic proportions that it affected the very existence of some species The fern craze started to gather momentum in the 1840s books and magazines maintained that fern growing was a hobby that anyone could enjoy as ferns would grow in the glazed fernery garden shady yard window box or even indoors in Wardian Cases The mania also spread from the living plant to depicting it in architecture and the decorative arts Even roads villas and terraced houses were named after the fern This book the first to deal exclusively with the subject for nearly forty years looks at the how the craze developed the ways in which ferns were incorporated into garden and home and the spread of the fern through Victorian material and visual culture This Victorian Life Sarah A. Chrisman, 2015-11-03 Part memoir part micro history this is an exploration of the present through the lens of the past We all know that the best way to study a foreign language is to go to a country where it is spoken but can the same immersion method be applied to history How do interactions with antique objects influence perceptions of the modern world From Victorian beauty regimes to nineteenth century bicycles custard recipes to taxidermy experiments oil lamps to an ice box Sarah and Gabriel Chrisman decided to explore nineteenth century culture and technologies from the inside out Even the deepest aspects of their lives became affected and the more immersed they became in the late Victorian era the more aware they grew of its legacies permeating the twenty first century Most of us have dreamed of time travel but what if that dream could come true Certain universal constants remain steady for all people regardless of time or place No matter where when or who we are humans share similar passions and fears joys and triumphs In her first book Victorian Secrets Chrisman recalled the first year she spent wearing a Victorian corset 24/7 In This Victorian Life Chrisman picks up where Secrets left off and documents her complete shift into living as though she were in the nineteenth century Women Poets in the Victorian Era Fabienne Moine, 2016-03-09 Examining the place of nature in Victorian women's poetry Fabienne Moine explores the work of canonical and long neglected women poets to show the myriad connections between women and nature during the period At the same time she challenges essentialist discourses that assume innate affinities between women and the natural world Rather Moine shows Victorian women poets mobilised these alliances to defend common interests and express their engagement with social issues While well known poets such as Elizabeth Barrett Browning and Christina Rossetti are well represented in Moine's study she pays particular attention to lesser known writers such as Mary Howitt or Eliza Cook who were popular during their lifetimes or Edith Nesbit whose verse has received scant critical attention so far She also brings to the fore the poetry of many non professional poets Looking to their immediate cultural environments for inspiration these women reconstructed the natural world in poems that raise questions about the validity and the scope of representations of nature ultimately questioning or undermining social practices that mould and often fossilise cultural identities

Environment and Ecology in the Long Nineteenth-Century Mark Frost, 2024-10-22 This volume includes sources relating to a range of social and cultural contexts including the proliferation of natural history crazes ferns aquaria orchids etc debates about the social and environmental impacts of changing land use in town and country debates about demographics population and resources inspired by Thomas Malthus attempts to preserve landscapes e g The Commons Preservation Society debates about hunger poverty and disease in the countryside particularly during the Hungry Forties and relating to the Captain Swing and Chartist disturbances the rise of land Utopianism and rural Utopian community projects the rise of new forms of rural leisure aesthetic engagements with rural environments and new world travel and debates about pollution especially water pollution The volume will also turn to a range of literary sources from the period prior to 1858 to illustrate the ways in which changing attitudes to environments emerged in fiction These include extracts from Dickens's early works the hunting novels of R S Surtees the social novels of Harriet Martineau Charlotte Tonna Charles Kingsley and Margaret Oliphant John Ruskin's environmental fairytale The King of the Golden River Chartist fiction Victorian children's fiction and adventure novels
