Contemporary Asian America Min Zhou,James V. Gatewood,2007-01-01 How does one capture the delightful irony of Edith Wharton s prose or the spare lyricism of Kate Chopin s Kathleen Wheeler challenges the reader to experiment with a more imaginative method of literary criticism in order to comprehend more fully writers of the Modernist and late Realist period In examining the creative works of seven women writers from the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Wheeler never lets the mystery and magic of literature be overcome by dry critical analysis Modernist Women Writers and Narrative Art begins by evaluating how Edith Wharton Kate Chopin and Willa Cather all engaged in an ironic critique of realism They explored the inadequacies of this form in expressing human experience and revealed its hidden often contradictory assumptions Building on the foundation that Wharton Chopin and Cather established Jean Rhys Katherine

Contemporary Asian American Communities Linda Trinh Võ, Rick Bonus, 2009 Once thought of in terms of geographically bounded spaces Asian America has undergone profound changes as a result of post 1965 immigration as well as the growth and reshaping of established communities This collection of original essays demonstrates that conventional notions of community of ethnic enclaves determined by exclusion and ghettoization now have limited use in explaining the dynamic processes of contemporary community formation Writing from a variety of perspectives these contributors expand the concept of community to include sites not necessarily bounded by space formations around gender class sexuality and generation reveal new processes as well as the demographic diversity of today s Asian American population The case studies gathered here speak to the fluidity of these communities and to the need for new analytic approaches to account for the similarities and differences between them Taken together these essays forcefully argue that it is time to replace the outworn concept of a monolithic Asian America
