graphic novels and other forms probably don't realize that horror literature is not only one of the most popular types of literature but one of the oldest. People have always been mesmerized by stories that speak to their deepest fears. Horror Literature through History shows 21st century horror fans the literary sources of their favorite entertainment and the rich intrinsic value of horror literature in its own right. Through profiles of major authors, critical analyses of important works, and overview essays focused on horror during particular periods as well as on related issues such as religion, apocalypticism, social criticism, and gender, readers will discover the fascinating early roots and evolution of horror writings as well as the reciprocal influence of horror literature and horror cinema. This unique two-volume reference set provides wide coverage that is current and compelling to modern readers who are of course also eager consumers of entertainment. In the first section, overview essays on horror during different historical periods situate works of horror literature within the social, cultural, historical, and intellectual currents of their respective eras, creating a seamless narrative of the genre's evolution from ancient times to the present. The second section demonstrates how otherwise unrelated works of horror have influenced each other, how horror subgenres have evolved, and how a broad range of topics within horror, such as ghosts, vampires, religion, and gender roles, have been handled across time. The set also provides alphabetically arranged reference entries on authors, works, and specialized topics that enable readers to zero in on information and concepts presented in the other sections.

The Order of Sounds Francois J. Bonnet, 2019-01-15 This study of the subtlety, complexity, and variety of modes of hearing maps out a sonorous archipelago, a heterogeneous set of shifting sonic territories shaped by the vicissitudes of desire and discourse. Profoundly intimate yet immediately giving onto distant spaces, both an organ of fear and an echo chamber of anticipated pleasures, an uncontrollable flow subject to unconscious selection and augmentation, the subtlety, complexity, and variety of modes of hearing has meant that sound has rarely received the same philosophical attention as the visual. In The Order of Sounds, Francois J. Bonnet makes a compelling case for the irreducible heterogeneity of sound, navigating between the physical models constructed by psychophysics and refined through recording technologies and the synthetic production of what is heard. From primitive vigilance and sonic mythologies to digital sampling and sound installations, he examines the ways in which we make sound speak to us in an analysis of listening as a plurivocal phenomenon, drawing on Foucault, Deleuze, and Guattari, Barthes, Nancy, Adorno, and de Certeau, and experimental pioneers such as Tesla, Bell, and Rautava. Stringent critiques of the soundscape and reduced listening demonstrate that univocal ontologies of sound are always partial and politicized; for listening is always a selective fetishism, a hallucination of sound filtered by desire and convention, territorialized by discourse and its authorities. Bonnet proposes neither a disciplined listening that targets sound itself nor an ocean of sound in which we might lose ourselves, but instead maps out a sonorous archipelago, a heterogeneous set of shifting sonic territories shaped and aggregated by the vicissitudes of desire and discourse. Marshland Gareth E. Rees, 2013-10-28 Marshland is a deep map of the east London marshes, a blend of local history, folklore, and weird fiction where nothing is quite as it seems Cocker spaniel by his side Rees wanders the marshes of Hackney Leyton and Walthamstow avoiding his family and the pressures of life He discovers a lost world of Victorian filter plants ancient grazing lands dead toy factories and tidal rivers on the edgelands of a rapidly changing city Ghosts are his friends As strange tales of bears crocodiles magic narrowboats and apocalyptic tribes begin to manifest themselves Rees embarks on a psychedelic journey across time and into the dark heart of London It soon becomes clear that the very existence of the marshland is at threat For on all sides the developers are closing in
