descriptions and explanations of difficult procedures and concepts to make creating your own HTPC easier Use Your PC to Build an Incredible Home Theater System is meant for those home theater enthusiasts with some working knowledge of personal computers PCs who want to create the ultimate home theater experience A Home Theater Personal Computer HTPC is basically an ordinary PC used in conjunction with a high definition capable television monitor or video projector and a sound system The book is laid out chronologically and follows the authors activities as they assemble two HTPC systems starting with a detailed background of video and audio technologies to help readers understand what the HTPC can do An HTPC can do much more than play DVD movies on a HDTV ready television The convergence of computers and digital entertainment formats means that the PC platform is well suited to reproducing audio in many formats including converting older analog recordings to digital It is also great for capturing and editing home movies implementing a personal video recorder creating slide show presentations with digital pictures videoconferencing and much more Use Your PC to Build an Incredible Home Theater System will show readers how to set up an HTPC for the most complete home theater experience available

Syndicated Television Hal Erickson, 2024-10-09 Here is an excellent reference book on first run syndication the distribution of programs either made exclusively for non network play or of programs intended for network telecasts but ultimately making their debuts in syndication Bringing together information not easily found this work covers the classics such as Sea Hunt Highway Patrol The Merv Griffin Show and the Muppet Show as well as such once popular but now obscure productions as China Smith Ripcord and The Littlest Hobo Coverage goes back to 1947 and the book includes a number of series ignored in other works The first section is an overview of the concept of syndication from its earliest application in the newspaper world to the attempt by Fox Television to become a fourth network The next four sections each cover ten years of syndication listing the shows with full background who produced them and why who liked them and why etc alphabetically by title under the following genres Adventure Mystery Children s Comedy Drama Game Quiz Informational Music Variety Religious Sports Talk Interview Travel Documentary Westerns and Women s Communications Regulation, 2003

Subject to Change : Guerrilla Television Revisited Deirdre Boyle Professor of History New York University, 1997-02-25 Before the Internet camcorders and hundred channel cable systems predating the Information Superhighway and talk of cyber democracy there was guerilla television Part of the larger alternative media tide which swept the country in the late sixties guerilla television emerged when the arrival of lightweight affordable consumer video equipment made it possible for ordinary people to make their own television Fueled both by outrage at the day s events and by the writings of people like Marshall McLuhan Tom Wolfe and Hunter S Thompson the movement gained a manifesto in 1971 when Michael Shamberg and the raindance Corp published Guerilla Television As framed in this quixotic text the goal of the video guerilla was nothing less than a reshaping of the structure of information in America In Subject to Change Deidre Boyle tells the fascinating story of the first TV generation s dream of remaking television and their frustrated attempts at democratizing the medium Interweaving the narratives of three very different video collectives from the 1970s TVTV Broadside TV and University Community Video Boyle offers a thought provoking account of an earlier electronic utopianism one with significant implications for today's debates over free speech public discourse and the information explosion FCC Record United States.
