Maeda,2009 In Chains of Babylon Daryl J Maeda presents a cultural history of Asian American activism in the late 1960s and early 1970s showing how the movement created the category of Asian American to join Asians of many ethnicities in racial solidarity Drawing on the Black Power and antiwar movements Asian American radicals argued that all Asians in the United States should resist assimilation and band together to oppose racism within the country and imperialism abroad As revealed in Maeda s in depth work the Asian American movement contended that people of all Asian ethnicities in the United States shared a common relationship to oppression and exploitation with each other and with other nonwhite peoples In the early stages of the civil rights era the possibility of assimilation was held out to Asian Americans under a model minority myth Maeda insists that it was only in the disruption of that myth for both African Americans and Asian Americans in the 1960s and 1970s that the full Asian American culture and movement he describes could emerge Maeda challenges accounts of the post 1968 era as hopelessly divisive by examining how racial and cultural identity enabled Asian Americans to see eye to eye with and support other groups of color in their campaigns for social justice Asian American opposition to the war in Vietnam unlike that of the broader antiwar movement was predicated on understanding it as a racial specifically anti Asian genocide Throughout he argues that cultural critiques of racism and imperialism the twin chains of Babylon of the title informed the construction of a multiethnic Asian American identity committed to interracial and transnational solidarity

National Library of Medicine Audiovisuals Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), Field and Service Robotics Alexander Zelinsky,2012-12-06 Joe Engelberger the pioneer of the robotics industry wrote in his 1989 book Robotics in Service that the inspiration to write his book came as a reaction to an industry sponsored forecast study of robot applications which predicted that in 1995 applications of robotics outside factories the traditional domain of industrial robots would amount to less than 1% of total sales Engelberger believed that this forecast was very wrong and instead predicted that the non industrial class of robot applications would become the largest class Engelbergers prediction has yet to come to pass However he did correctly foresee the growth in non traditional applications of robots Robots are now beginning to march from the factories and into field and service applications This book presents a selection of papers from the first major international conference dedicated to field and service applications of robotics This selection includes papers from the leading research laboratories in the world together with papers from companies that are building and selling new and innovative robotic technology It describes interesting aspects of robots in the field ranging from mining agriculture construction cargo handling subsea operations removal of landmines to terrestrial exploration It also covers a diverse range of service applications such as cleaning propagating plants and aiding the elderly and handicapped and gives considerable attention to the technology required to realise robust reliable and safe robots The Tokyo War Crimes Trial
