Dear Sir/Madam

RE: Data sharing between UK Border Agency and local authorities

I am writing to tell you about recent changes to the UK Border Agency family returns process and how those changes are likely to lead to requests for greater data sharing between our agencies. These requests will be in order to safeguard and promote the welfare of children, a statutory duty which the UK Border Agency shares with a number of other bodies. I very much hope you will be able to co-operate with any requests that we make.

UK Border Agency Responsibility

The UK Border Agency is required by Section 55 of the Borders, Citizenship and Immigration Act 2009 to carry out its functions having regard to the need to safeguard and promote the welfare of children. Making optimum use of information that relates to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children which is held by other bodies, including local authorities, can play an important part in this.

In our experience, such information can be particularly helpful when considering the safe and effective return of children and families who have been determined by both the UK Border Agency and the Judiciary as not having a right to remain in the United Kingdom. Most of these information requests will arise when families have reached a particular stage in the immigration process called the ensured return stage, and a formal, comprehensive plan for family return is being prepared. This is explained below.

The returns process

In response to the Government's commitment to end the detention of children for immigration purposes, the UK Border Agency introduced in March 2011, a radically
