Value-Added Taxes in Central and Eastern European Countries A Comparative Survey and Evaluation

OECD,European Union,1998-10-09 This study offers a comparative evaluation of the main features of the VAT systems between the ten countries of Central and Eastern Europe and provides a commentary on the development of the VAT systems in line with the VAT legislation of the EU Modernizing VATs in Africa Sijbren Cnossen,2019-07-16 Most African countries are in dire need of more tax revenue In 28 out of 45 countries with a value added tax VAT total tax revenue as a percentage of GDP is around 15% or less falling short of what is necessary to finance basic human and economic development Far from being revenue raising instruments current African VATs are riddled with exemptions exclusions and zero rates on domestic goods and services that depress revenue are highly distortionary and greatly complicate the administration of VAT Modernizing VATs in Africa enables policymakers professionals and students to analyse African tax systems to ascertain how they can be modernized It explains the case for VAT base broadening over rate increasing arguing that exemptions and zero rates mainly accrue benefits for higher income groups Even more persuasively it demonstrates that the net result of fiscal systems can be equalizing if the revenue of broad based VATs is used to finance in kind transfers such as healthcare and education VAT modernization should be used to enable governments to finance development Modernizing VATs in Africa puts a compelling case forward for how and why this can be achieved Value-added Taxes in Central and Eastern European Countries Centre for Co-operation with Non-members,1998 This is the first study of the Value Added Tax VAT systems of the ten countries of Central and Eastern Europe preparing for integration into the European Union EU Occasional Papers ,1993 Equivalence of the Production and Consumption Methods of Calculating the Value-added Tax Base Anthony J. within the federal politics of Russia while Chapters five and six examine case studies India in fiscal federalism in which the determination of fiscal outcomes is to a considerable degree a matter of bargaining between political entities in the center and in the periphery In both cases it appears that large scale distortions away from an ideal tax system emerge as a result suggesting corruption can be fought by increasing functional specialization within a tax bureaucracy The last chapter looks at the problem of opportunistic taxation particularly regarding the African context and studies various ways in which the problem can be alleviated
