Theories Of Child Abuse And Neglect Differential Perspectives Summaries And Evaluations:

Theories of Child Abuse and Neglect Oliver C. S. Tzeng, Jay W. Jackson, Henry Karlson, 1991-05-30 This book was prepared under the impetus of desperate need in academic institutions and clinical and social services for a comprehensive introduction to the diverse theories about child abuse and neglect etiologies During the past three decades professionals in different occupational fields have been actively involved in the identification intervention treatment and prevention of child victimization and its detrimental consequences This book describes summarizes and evaluates more than 40 of the theoretical viewpoints that have been proposed in the literature and used for clinical practice as well as academic research

Handbook of Empirical Social Work Practice, Volume 2 John S. Wodarski, Bruce A. Thyer, 1998-01-29 Covers key social problems and practice related issues The last two decades in social work have seen tremendous strides in field research from the development of improved research designs to more accurate methods of problem measurement and outcome analysis Drawing upon these significant advances the two volume handbook of Empirical Social Work Practice brings together empirically validated interventions for many of the psychosocial problems most frequently encountered by social workers in their daily practice Unlike other books in the field that employ a theory based approach to treatment this handbook focuses on the best supported methods of helping clients with particular problems irrespective of theoretical biases offering clinicians a valuable compendium of practice guidelines for treatment Edited and authored by recognized experts in the field the Handbook of Empirical Social Work Practice is clearly written and organized for easy reference Volume Two covers key social problems and practice related issues including Crime homelessness and unemployment Domestic violence and sexual abuse Family conflict and preservation Practice approaches for older clients Empirically based supervision With information that is at once accessible and up to date the Handbook of Empirical Social Work Practice is a vital source of guidance for today's clinical social workers and other practicing mental health professionals as well as students One of the best tools to promote the values of the social work profession is that of empirical social work practice Telling the truth is one of these values and discovering the truth is something that empirical research is very good at This book presents credible reviews of contemporary empirical literature pertaining to selected behavioral affective and intellectual disorders and their psychosocial assessment and treatment That such a book is now possible is a striking affirmation of the merits of the approach to social work called empirical clinical practice from the Handbook of Empirical Social Work Practice

Psychology, Human Growth and Development for Social Work Emma Zara O'Brien,2020-04-09 This exciting new edition is an engaging and accessible introduction to understanding human behaviour and development from a psychological perspective Written by a psychologist with extensive teaching experience it offers a clear and systematic exploration of psychological concepts and research and discussion of their relevance for social work practice The psychological framework provides thematic coherence for a uniquely wide range of material from brain development to communication skills psychiatric diagnoses to forms of discrimination With a logical and intuitive structure it s perfect for Human Growth and Development modules and a range of other Social Work modules with psychological content enabling students to see how different elements of theory and research connect together for practical application Motivation and Child Maltreatment

David J. Hansen,2000-01-01 In this volume the concept of motivation is used to shed light on a range of complex issues surrounding the maltreatment of children Cathy Spatz Widom investigates the role of motivation in the intergenerational transmission of violence where victimized children themselves become perpetrators of violence as adults Joel S Milner looks at the way abusive parents process social information related to children The biological psychological and social contextual regulatory processes in maltreated children are considered by Dante Cicchetti and Sheree L Toth Deborah Daro discusses the current status of efforts to eliminate maltreatment of children and offers an alternative model for approaching the concept and practice of prevention John R Lutzker addresses the challenges of and procedures for applied research on the treatment of abusive parents In his concluding essay Ross A Thompson highlights the important themes focusing on child maltreatment that underlie this volume Victims of Obtrusive Violence G.K. Lieten,2015-08-21 This volume describes how children's experience with violence may affect and endanger their education as well as their physical safety and their general well being. It includes all forms of physical, psychological, and sexual abuse and neglect against children at home, at school, and in public spaces in two different areas of Kenya: rural and urban, while taking into account its environmental and cultural factors. This volume is unique not only because of its focus on a less researched yet highly acute social problem but also because it provides inside knowledge by giving the children a voice through their direct participation in the data collection.

Child Maltreatment John E.B. Myers, 2011-05-02 Specifically created to complement the Third Edition of the APSAC Handbook on Child Maltreatment, this collection of 23 carefully selected articles on child abuse and neglect parallels the structure of the Handbook. It is also a great companion to other Sage books such as Barnett's Family Violence Across the Lifespan and Miller and Perrin's Child Maltreatment.

Black Intimacies Shirley Ann Hill, 2005 In Black Intimacies: A Gender Perspective on Families and Relationships, Shirley A. Hill applies a gender lens to the multiple systems of oppression that have shaped the lives of African American women and men. She challenges the image of a monolithic black population, a legacy of the civil rights movement that she argues is impossible to sustain in the postmodern era. Through a critique of intersectionality theory, Hill examines the ways in which gender has affected experiences of intimacy, family relationships, child rearing, and motherhood for contemporary African Americans. Drawing on ethnographic material, interviews, and scholarly research, Hill's work rethinks the cultural and historical definitions of black identity and reconceptualizes the various forms of oppression faced by black women. This book will be useful to students and instructors of African American Studies, Gender Studies, Sociology, Anthropology, Marriage and Family, and Social Work.

Advances in Child Abuse Prevention Knowledge Deborah Daro, Anne Cohn Donnelly, Lee Ann Huang, Byron J. Powell, 2015-06-05 This book addresses new avenues in child abuse prevention research that will expand our capacity to protect children. These new avenues result from the emergence of new research methods made possible through technologic advances, an understanding of the benefits of cross disciplinary research and learning, and the entrance of many young scholars in the field. The book explores what these avenues produce in terms of clarifying the complex problems that continue to limit our progress in addressing child maltreatment and promoting optimal child development. Specifically, the book showcases individual contributions from emerging scholars and shows how these scholars use the frameworks and advanced methods to shape their work, apply their findings, and define their learning communities. The book highlights the benefits of creating explicit and extended opportunities for researchers to network across disciplines and areas of interest. The primary authors are young scholars from universities across the U.S. who have worked together as Fellows of the Doris Duke Fellowships for the Promotion of Child Well Being, seeking innovations to prevent child abuse. Through this program, the Fellows have engaged in a robust self-generating learning network designed to create the type of ongoing professional linkages and decision-making style that fosters an interdisciplinary and team planning approach to research design and policy formation.
