Economic Growth and Development in the Tropics Sook Rei Tan,Haejin Jang,Jacob Wood,2024-02-06 The living standards and scale of development around the world are vastly unequal One notable observation is that much of the poverty stricken area is located between the tropics of Cancer and Capricorn By contrast affluent nations are situated in more temperate zones Such a phenomenon gives weight to the geography hypothesis that seeks to explain the occurrence of global economic inequality by placing an emphasis on the importance of natural elements such as location and climate in determining the economic conditions of a nation. This book concentrates exclusively and in depth on the key economic phenomena and factors which shape tropical economies today. It examines contemporary economic problems confronting the tropical countries and provides policy recommendations that align with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals set in the 2030 Agenda. It contains research works and case studies of tropical economies that are related to the area of development and environment economics. The book's themes range from economic growth, poverty reduction, income inequality, economic globalization, international trade, capital flow, financial development and institutional development to environmental sustainability within the Tropics. Recognizing the dynamism and diversity of the tropics, the book encompasses empirical and policy analyses that address the key economic issues and challenges in the region so as to provide an important platform from which new policymaking initiatives can flourish. This book will draw readership primarily from the fields of economics and public policy, particularly under the subject areas of development and environment economics as well as discussions in the sustainability policy space.

Tourism, Planning, and Community Development Rhonda Phillips, Sherma Roberts, 2013-09-13. The intersection of community development, tourism and planning is a fascinating one. Tourism has long been used as a development strategy in both developed and developing countries from the national to local levels. These approaches have typically focused on economic dimensions with decisions about tourism investments, policies and venues driven by these economic considerations. More recently, the conversation has shifted to include other aspects: social and environmental, to better reflect sustainable development concepts. Perhaps most importantly, is the richer focus on the inclusion of stakeholders. An inclusionary participatory approach is an essential ingredient of community development and this brings both fields even closer together. It reflects an approach aimed at building on strengths in communities and fostering social capacity and capital. In this book, the dimensions of the role tourism plays in community development are explored. A panoply of perspectives are presented tackling such questions as: can tourism heal? How can tourism development serve as a catalyst to overcome social injustices and cultural divides? This book was originally published as a special issue of Community Development.

World Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology Abstracts, 1979. Community-Based Tourism in the Developing World Peter Wiltshier, Alan Clarke, 2019-10-16. This book analyses community-based approaches to developing and regenerating tourism destinations in the developing world, addressing this central issue in sustainable tourism practices. It reviews a variety of systems useful for analysing and understanding management issues to offer new insight into the skills and resources that are needed for implementation, ongoing monitoring and review of community-based tourism. Adopting a multidisciplinary approach, this book explores alternatives to the dominant interpretation which argues against tourism as a benefit for community development. International case studies throughout the book illustrate and vouch for tourism as a transformative force while clarifying the need to manage expectations in sustainable tourism for community development rejuvenation and regeneration Emphasis is placed on accruing relevant decision support material and creating services products and management approaches that will endure and adapt as change necessitates This will be of great interest to upper level students researchers and academics in the fields of tourism impacts sustainability ethics and development as well as the broader field of geography

Building Community Capacity for Tourism Development G. Moscardo, 2008 A lack of entrepreneurial capacity limited understanding of tourism markets and a lack of community understanding of tourism and its impacts have been identified as barriers to effective tourism development in peripheral regions This book provides an analysis of this issue within tourism development practice
