What Can Behavioral Economics Teach Us about Teaching Economics? Supriya Sarnikar, 2015-11-19 Sarnikar cites evidence of frequent misconceptions of economics amongst students graduates and even some economists and argues that behavioral economists are uniquely qualified to investigate causes of poor learning in economics She conducts a review of the economics education literature to identify gaps in current research efforts and suggests a two pronged approach to fill the gaps an engineering approach to the adoption of innovative teaching methods and a new research program to enhance economists understanding of how learning occurs To facilitate research into learning processes Sarnikar provides an overview of selected learning theories from psychology as well as new data on hidden misconceptions amongst beginning students of economics She argues that if they ask the right questions economists of all persuasions are likely to find surprising lessons in the answers of beginning students of economics Condensed Guide for the Stanford Revision of the Binet-Simon Intelligence Tests Lewis M.
