Wilderness Key Ideas In Geography:

Wilderness Phillip Vannini, April Vannini, 2016-04-14 Wilderness provides a multidisciplinary introduction into the diverse ways in which we make sense of wilderness how we conceptualise it experience it interact with and imagine it Drawing upon key theorists philosophers and researchers who have contributed important knowledge to the topic this title argues for a relational and process based notion of the term and understands it as a keystone for the examination of issues from conservation to more than human relations The text is organized around themed chapters discussing the concept of wilderness and its place in the social imagination wilderness regulation and management access travel and tourism representation in media and arts and the use of wilderness for education exploration play and therapy as well as its parcelling out in parks reserves or remote wastelands The book maps out the historical transformation of the idea of wilderness highlighting its intersections with notions of nature and wildness and teasing out the implications of these links for theoretical debate It offers boxes that showcase important recent case studies ranging from the development of adventure travel and eco tourism to the practice of trekking to the changing role of technology use in the wild Summaries of key points further readings Internet based resources short videos and discussion questions allow readers to grasp the importance of wilderness to wider social cultural political economic historical and everyday processes Wilderness is designed for courses and modules on the subject at both postgraduate and undergraduate levels The book will also assist professional geographers sociologists anthropologists environmental and cultural studies scholars to engage with recent and important literature on this elusive concept Communities in Transition: Protected Nature and Local People in Eastern and Central Europe Saska Petrova, 2016-05-23 The role of local people in contemporary nature conservation practices is often poorly understood or neglected This book therefore examines questions of local participation at the nature society nexus within national parks in the transitional context of Central and Eastern Europe CEE The post 1990 reconfiguration of conservation paradigms in this part of the world has re opened various age old debates about the protection and administration of natural heritage Further complicating the situation has been the introduction of market based principles which has embedded the entire process in broader dynamics of neoliberalization and the capitalist space economy Providing an integrated perspective on why how and for whom nature conservation practices have been implemented in CEE this book sheds further light upon the mechanisms through which such practices both redefine and are affected by the everyday life of people living in national parks Offering a critical global review of the environmental motivations and power interests behind the creation of national parks as well as a typology of the relations between local people and the dynamics of nature protection in them this work challenges the dichotomy between developed and developing countries that pervades much of the academic literature on nature protection Author Saska Petrova highlights the lessons that can be learnt by applying the experiences of local community participation in environmental management in CEE to other locations undergoing major systemic change in their
