

INTRODUCTION

SentiDial is a full-featured, economical industrial autodialer. Users can monitor 8 discrete inputs (normally open or normally ground) and 4 analog inputs (voltage or current level) and control 1 relay output and 3 open collector outputs remotely via telephone. Upon sensing an alarm condition, SentiDial automatically alarms via a user programmable list of phone numbers with specific user recordable voice messages stored in solid state memory or optional alphanumeric text pages. Configuration is via a friendly menu driven interface that does not require special training for system operation. The standard SentiDial features a rugged, metal case. As an option, users can purchase the SentiDial integrated into a fiberglass or steel NEMA 4X case with integrated battery, charger, power supply, and space for a cellphone for rugged applications.

TAP PAGING

Telocator Alphanumeric Protocol (TAP) is standard format for sending text paging information to a paging terminal from a computer or other intelligent machines. This option allows the SentiDial to send text messages associated with an alarm condition through an on-site paging terminal or wide-area paging service. Individual alarm messages can be up to 180 characters long allowing a detailed description of each alarm condition to be sent as a page.
