Back to the Land Dona Brown, 2011-06-01 For many going back to the land brings to mind the 1960s and 1970s hippie communes and the Summer of Love The Whole Earth Catalog and Mother Earth News More recently the movement has reemerged in a new enthusiasm for locally produced food and more sustainable energy paths But these latest back to the landers are part of a much larger story Americans have been dreaming of returning to the land ever since they started to leave it In Back to the Land Dona Brown explores the history of this recurring impulse Back to the landers have often been viewed as nostalgic escapists or romantic nature lovers But their own words reveal a more complex story In such projects as Gustav Stickley's Craftsman Farms Frank Lloyd Wright's Broadacre City and Helen and Scott Nearing's quest for the good life Brown finds that the return to the farm has meant less a going backwards than a going forwards a way to meet the challenges of the modern era Progressive reformers pushed for homesteading to help impoverished workers get out of unhealthy urban slums Depression era back to the landers wary of the centralizing power of the New Deal embraced a new third way politics of decentralism and regionalism Later still the movement merged with environmentalism To understand Americans response to these back to the land ideas Brown turns to the fan letters of ordinary readers retired teachers and overworked clerks recent immigrants and single women In seeking their rural roots Brown argues Americans have striven above all for the independence and self sufficiency they associate with the agrarian ideal Best Books for General Audiences selected by the American Association of School Librarians
