system that emphasises the curriculum and teacher centred focus instead of focusing on how students can be taught or learn. Research has shown that in Zimbabwe STEM teachers must apply inventive pedagogies and suitable learner centred STEM teaching approaches. As a result there is a need for more STEM related programs and courses in schools and universities to improve the opportunities for students to pursue careers in these fields. Another challenge is the need for more awareness about the opportunities and importance of STEM education and interest in STEM subjects among students which can be attributed to a lack of exposure and understanding of the relevance and importance of these fields in today's world. While lack of resources and other challenges hinder effectiveness, opportunity lies in promising pathways of policy and practice. In Zimbabwe there is a varying degree of success in the implemented competence based curriculum which emphasises inquiry based learning and STEM education. Finally there is a need for early exposure to STEM based career opportunities and for more collaboration between the government private sector and educational institutions to address these challenges and promote STEM education in Zimbabwe. This book uses Zimbabwe as an example to explore STEM education in poverty. By examining the successes and challenges of STEM education in Zimbabwe this book offers valuable insights into how STEM education can be integrated into the curriculum in countries with developing and emerging economies. This book is an essential resource for anyone interested in improving STEM education in underserved communities.

Zimbabwe: Mired in Transition Masunungure, Eldred V., Shumba, Jabusile M., 2014-04-03 Three years after the advent of Zimbabwe's Inclusive Government in February 2009 the country still awaits the elections that people hope will lead to a more enduring political settlement. Zimbabwe Mired in Transition reviews the experience of recent years, assesses the progress that has been made. What is the public mood and how has it changed? What steps have been taken to reform the media? How important is a new constitution? Although the economy has stabilised to some extent with the adoption of a multi currency regime industrial and agricultural production are depressed and investment inflows are limited what spaces exist for fiscal reform? Are local authority structures and the state bureaucracy equipped to handle the tasks that will be asked of them? In terms of two important areas the book extends its analysis further back than 2009. First is the issue of emigration. Estimates of the number of Zimbabweans in the diaspora range from three to four million what impact is this having on national development and to what extent might the trend of migration be reversed? The second concerns young people the chapter on which concludes We already have a lost generation those who were once called the born frees. Unless positive changes are made we will still have another. This collection of eleven essays examines in detail some of the pressing questions which Zimbabweans must ask as they chart a way forward.
