From biosynthesis to pharmacology Shoib Ahmad Baba, Nasheeman Ashraf, 2016-11-04 This book is a product of years of research on saffron biology. It intends to give a broad but concise overview of the various aspects of apocarotenoid biosynthesis in Crocus sativus, its regulation and pharmacology. Crocus sativus L. of family Iridaceae is an important medicinal plant. The dried stigma of C. sativus flower is considered as the world's costliest spice. Saffron is the source of unique carotenoid-derived molecules called apocarotenoids which include crocin, crocetin, picrocrocin, and safranal. These molecules are synthesized in the tissue and developmental stage-specific manner. Besides providing colour, aroma, and flavour to the spice, these molecules have tremendous medicinal importance. The book uncovers major concepts of apocarotenoid biosynthesis and provides deeper and more complete understanding about their biotechnological and pharmacological applications. The book is divided into three sections. The first section provides a general introduction of C. sativus, its apocarotenoids, their biosynthesis, regulation, and transport. The second section provides information about the carotenoid cleavage dioxygenases (CCDs) which are the key players in apocarotenoid biosynthesis. The classification of plant CCDs, their structure, reaction mechanism, biotechnological application, are thoroughly discussed. The final section deals with the major pharmacological properties of C. sativus apocarotenoids ranging from their role as anticancer to their utility as neuroprotective molecules. This is a one-of-its-kind book on Crocus sativus. It will be useful for the researchers working on Crocus sativus, students, and also practitioners involved in extraction and biosynthesis of the useful medical components.

Mechanical Ventilation from Pathophysiology to Clinical Evidence Giacomo Bellani, 2022-03-16 This book aims to give a comprehensive overview of the current challenges and solutions posed to the health care professionals who need to use mechanical ventilation to treat their patients. Mechanical ventilation is a cornerstone of the treatment of critically ill patients, as also dramatically underlined by the recent COVID-19 pandemic. The topic is not simple to approach since it requires integration of multiple data which in turn result from complex interplays between patient's condition and ventilatory settings. While technological development empowered advanced monitoring and decision support, these also increase the burden of data on the practitioners. Furthermore, considering that sometimes mechanical ventilation is seen under two apparently opposite approaches: physiology vs. protocols, the book aims to reconcile these two aspects. And this has been done by each author following the above trajectory in their chapters. The exposure of the topic begins from the pathophysiology, i.e. the physiology of the disease, so that the reader can better understand the concept and rationale of any given approach. At the same time, any rationale or hypothesis for as much as supported by physiology must hold at the proof of clinical research and evidence, which is summarized in each chapter. In summary, the purpose is that the readers understand not only which is the best clinical practice to adopt but also why and which mechanisms this is based upon and how to approach a novel issue they might encounter. The book addressed to physicians, nurses, and respiratory therapists features chapters on novel or hot topics like obviously COVID-19 ECMO but also MV in low resource setting. The Other "F" Word John Danner, Mark
