Water And Sanitation In Uganda World Bank Studies:

Water and Sanitation in Uganda Clarence Tsimpo, Quentin Wodon, 2019-01-10 This World Bank Study provides a basic diagnostic of access to safe water and sanitation in Uganda and their relationship with poverty The analysis relies on a series of nationally representative household surveys for the period 2002-13 as well as on qualitative data collection The study first relies on household surveys to analyze trends in access to safe water and some of the constraints faced by households for access The issue of the cost of water for households without a connection to the piped water network is discussed This includes a discussion of public stand pipes Next qualitative data are presented on the obstacles faced by households in accessing safe water The next two chapters are devoted to sanitation The focus is again first on analyzing household survey data about sanitation including with respect to toilets bathrooms waste disposal and hand washing and next on an analysis of qualitative data from focus groups and key informants Finally the study reviews some of the policies and programs that have been implemented in order to improve access to safe water and sanitation for the poor as well as options going forward

OECD Studies on Water Implementing the OECD Principles on Water Governance Indicator Framework and Evolving Practices OECD, 2018-03-21 Three years after the adoption of the OECD Water Governance Principles this report takes stock of their use and evolving practices and provides an indicator framework building on lessons learned from their implementation in different countries and contexts

Water and Wastewater Management in the Tropics Jens Lonholdt, 2005-05-31 Water and Wastewater Management in the Tropics provides the necessary conceptual framework and tools to assess all appropriate aspects of water and sanitation projects in developing countries Using the lessons learned from courses taught at the Technical University of Denmark Water and Wastewater Management in the Tropics is the concerted effort of a broad team including hard core engineers and practitioners as well as soft core environmental and institutional planners and economists with contributions from renowned researchers as well as seasoned project managers The first part of the book aims to give a basic understanding of international projects and addresses how to identify formulate select organise cost finance implement and manage water and wastewater management projects in developing countries Later chapters focus on three different types of water and wastewater management projects in a tropical context rural water and sanitation urban water and wastewater management and industrial water and wastewater management Water and Wastewater Management in the Tropics will appeal to graduate environmental engineering students but also to practitioners economists sociologists and institutional planners working with water and sanitation projects in developing countries Water Services in Small Towns Klaas Schwartz,Mireia Tutusaus,2019-05-15 The importance of small towns is gaining increased recognition as a result of two developments The first development concerns the possible role of small towns in migration flows and urbanization Development of small towns in the form of improved basic services and other amenities has been promoted in order to abate the impact of urbanization on large urban centres and to alleviate service provision pressures in major urban centers whilst stimulating rural economies and eventually prompting social transformations The second development concerns the targets set by the SDGs in 2015 SDG6 requires countries to ensure universal and equitable water services by 2030 This inclusive target requires that the water services needs of small towns are considered in the expansion of sustainable and equitable water services This book aims to contribute to the study of water services in small towns by critically examining different approaches and experiences of water supply in small towns It brings together empirical testimonies of how the implementation of reductionist models and the perseverance of certain principles underlying these models in the water sector have yielded suboptimal results Much remains to be done before achieving universal service coverage in small towns is likely In order to do that we should start speaking of small towns as a category on their own and continue the work in elaborating further what these are and how they work In Focus a book series that showcases the latest accomplishments in water research Each book focuses on a specialist area with papers from top experts in the field It aims to be a vehicle for in depth understanding and inspire further conversations in the sector The IMF and the World Bank at Sixty Ariel Buira,2005 The IMF and the World Bank at Sixty presents a selection of essays prepared for the Group of Twenty Four Developing Nations G24 by some of the foremost authorities in their fields which address these challenges and suggest the need for reform in several areas These essays have one fundamental aim to improve the functioning of the global economy and to better enable developing countries to share in the prosperity of recent decades The Human Rights to Water and Sanitation Léo Heller,2022-05-12 This analysis of the human rights to safe drinking water and sanitation HRtWS uncovers why some groups around the world are still excluded from these rights L o Heller former United Nations Special Rapporteur on the human rights to water and sanitation draws on his own research in nine countries and reviews the theoretical legal and political issues involved The first part presents the origins of the HRtWS their legal and normative meanings and the debates surrounding them Part II discusses the drivers mainly external to the water and sanitation sector that shape public policies and explain why individuals and groups are included in or excluded from access to services In Part III public policies guided by the realization of HRtWS are addressed Part IV highlights populations and spheres of living that have been particularly neglected in efforts to promote access to services Africa's Infrastructure World Bank,2009-12-01 Sustainable infrastructure development is vital for Africa s prosperity And now is the time to begin the transformation This volume is the culmination of an unprecedented effort to document analyze and interpret the full extent of the challenge in developing Sub Saharan Africa s infrastructure sectors As a result it represents the most comprehensive reference currently available on infrastructure in the region The book covers the five main economic infrastructure sectors information and communication technology irrigation power transport and water and sanitation Africa s Infrastructure A Time for Transformation reflects the collaboration of a wide array of African regional institutions and development partners under the auspices of the Infrastructure Consortium for Africa It presents the findings of the Africa Infrastructure Country Diagnostic AICD a project launched following a commitment in 2005 by the international community after the G8 summit at Gleneagles Scotland to scale up financial support for infrastructure development in Africa The lack of reliable information in this area made it difficult to evaluate the success of past interventions prioritize current allocations and provide benchmarks for measuring future progress hence the need for the AICD Africa s infrastructure sectors lag well behind those of the rest of the world and the gap is widening Some of the main policy relevant findings highlighted in the book include the following infrastructure in the region is exceptionally expensive with tariffs being many times higher than those found elsewhere Inadequate and expensive infrastructure is retarding growth by 2 percentage points each year Solving the problem will cost over US 90 billion per year which is more than twice what is being spent in Africa today However money alone is not the answer Prudent policies wise management and sound maintenance can improve efficiency thereby stretching the infrastructure dollar There is the potential to recover an additional US 17 billion a year from within the existing infrastructure resource envelope simply by improving efficiency For example improved revenue collection and utility management could generate US 3.3 billion per year Regional power trade could reduce annual costs by US 2 billion And deregulating the trucking industry could reduce freight costs by one half So raising more funds without also tackling inefficiencies would be like pouring water into a leaking bucket Finally the power sector and fragile states represent particular challenges Even if every efficiency in every infrastructure sector could be captured a substantial funding gap of 31 billion a year would remain Nevertheless the African people and economies cannot wait any longer Now is the time to begin the transformation to sustainable development

The Crisis of Innovation in Water and Wastewater Duncan A. Thomas,Roger R. Ford,2005-01-01 This is an extremely well researched and documented book The authors hypothesis is that the current water and wastewater sector is failing the populations of the western world by clinging to orthodox and short term visions of new technology and innovation and also failing the developing nations by believing that delivery of western world high technology solutions is a contribution to humanitarian development This is the crisis of innovation To many practitioners in the water industry the book will be perceived to be hypercritical of the incrementalism conservative and dogged traditionalism of the sector but in fact it is stimulating and positive In the latter chapters an alternate more holistic model of water development is described There needs to be a movement from large central infrastructure resources to distributed systems that are more appropriate to local needs and can be coupled with environmentally sustainable energy sources and practices Tim Lack European Topic Centre on Water UK Whilst acknowledging a massive leap from standpipe to universal water provision in 100 years in developed countries the authors of this book see problems for global sustainable water supply and wastewater removal in the future Using the UK water industry as an example they describe the global water industry as risk averse and unwilling to innovate a view that is encouraged by the institutional and financial regimes under which it works The book explores the reasons for concern and sets out some hard hitting views on how the water industry is failing to identify and tackle the essential problems in a world which is becoming ever more depleted of fresh water The concluding chapter brings to a focus the problems of the crisis in innovation and gives some concrete suggestions for tackling them This volume should raise the awareness of policymakers and regulators technologists and concerned members of the public Peter Chave Independent Consultant and formerly Head of Pollution Control National Rivers Authority UK This significant new book highlights a little acknowledged but potentially catastrophic crisis of innovation in the global water sector which institutions and industries are frighteningly ill equipped to tackle or even accept It suggests potential new technology and policy approaches to overcome both current and future problems The book explores how technological innovation is vital to help provide sustainable water in both the UK and developing countries However innovation is being overlooked in the face of global trends to privatize and regulate water utilities The authors highlight how the global water sector is failing to respond to increasingly complex world needs and continues to build largely unsustainable centralized infrastructures opposing more appropriate distributed and local modern technologies The book also includes suggestions for potentially innovative technology and policy solutions to meet escalating global water and wastewater demands Importantly the authors adopt a long term perspective that crosses both disciplinary and institutional boundaries and include an international comparative perspective covering a diverse range of examples and countries This comprehensive book will have a broad appeal amongst researchers and academics with an interest in technology management innovation studies geography and development studies It will also be a valuable asset for water regulators and governmental and non governmental organisations working in this field Drawers of Water II John Thompson,2001

Water and Post-Conflict Peacebuilding Erika Weinthal,Jessica J. Troell,Mikiyasu Nakayama,2014-02-24 As a basic human need the provision of safe water is among the highest priorities of government and humanitarian interventions during post conflict recovery and peacebuilding In the aftermath of war water sanitation and infrastructure play a critical role in the recovery of livelihoods and economic development Moreover shared waters have great potential for interstate cooperation assisting to rebuild trust following conflict and to prevent a return to conflict This volume draws on studies from around the world to create a framework for understanding how water resources decisions and activities can facilitate or undermine peacebuilding in a post conflict setting OECD Studies on Water Innovative Financing Mechanisms for the Water Sector OECD,2010-03-12 This report examines innovative mechanisms that can help attract new financial resources into water and sanitation services In particular it focuses on mobilising market based repayable financing Applied Groundwater Studies in Africa Segun Adelana,Alan MacDonald,2008-09-23 Groundwater is Africa s most precious natural resource providing reliable water supplies for many people Further development of groundwater resources is fundamental to increasing access to safe water across the continent to meet coverage targets and reduce poverty There is also an increasing interest in the use of groundwater for irrigated Handbook of Water Economics Ariel Dinar,Kurt Schwabe,2015-09-25 Water scarcity whether in the quality or quantity dimension afflicts most countries Decisions on water management and allocation over time space and among uses and users involve economic considerations This Handbook assembles research that represents recent thinking and applications in water economics The book chapters are written by leading scholars in the field who address issues related to its use management and value The topics cover analytical methods sectoral and intersectoral water issues and issues associated with different sources of water Meeting Development Goals in Small Urban Centres Un-Habitat,2012-05-04 Half of the world s people live in urban areas and roughly a third of these live in desperate poverty without access to basic amenities Taking on the themes of UN HABITAT s Water and Sanitation in the World s Cities 2003 this new volume focuses on the deficiencies in the provision of water and sanitation where most of the populations of the developing world live in towns and small cities Drawing on extensive unpublished research and 15 commissioned papers from experts involved in designing and implementing innovative projects around the world this is the first major study of the problems facing the smaller urban centres that are recognized to be of enormous importance by governments international agencies NGOs and service providers Tackling these problems is a crucial part of development and of good governance and critical to meeting the Millennium Development Goals The volume will be essential reading for all professionals and researchers in the relevant fields and a valuable resource for teachers and students of urban development World Bank Research Program World Bank,2002 Water Services Management and Governance Tapio Katko,Petri S. Juuti,Klaas Schwartz,2012-10-14 Water Services Management and Governance focuses on water services water supply wastewater services and deals with connections between water resources and services and water resources It covers water supply mainly in urban communities sanitation and pollution control and water resources and their linkages to water services This book is divided in to four key sections relating to governance frameworks technology and socio ecological interactions government and governance and long terms policies The chapters analyse the complexity of the water services sector based on a historical analysis of developments within the sector The underlying conviction is that only by understanding past trends processes and developments can the current situation in the water services be understood Only through this understanding can policies for sustainable water services in the future be formulated The four key sections relate to governance frameworks technology and socio ecological interactions government and governance and long terms policies Water Services Management and Governance raises awareness that an understanding of the past is a necessity to explore potential probable and preferable futures It is an essential basis for water sector reforms in any country region or community The book is written for experts in water utilities ministries municipalities NGOs donor agencies private companies and regulators as well as students and researchers in water policy and governance and the management of water resources services and infrastructure Editors Dr Petri S Juuti is a historian and Adjunct Professor in the universities of Tampere Oulu and Turku Tapio S Katko Civil engineer Adjunct Professor UNESCO Chairholder in Sustainable Water Services at Tampere University of Technology Finland Klaas Schwartz Senior Lecturer Urban Water Governance in the Department of Integrated Water Systems and Governance at the UNESCO IHE Institute for Water Education Delft the Netherlands Assistant Editor Riikka P Rajala Environmental Engineer Post Doctoral researcher in University of Tampere Finland
