Establishing and

Sustaining Learning-Centered Community Colleges Christine Johnson McPhail, 2005-01-31 Today's most prominent thought leaders weigh in on the learning paradigm calling for institutional change and responsibility for learning positive outcomes. This book helps leaders develop structures and processes that allow for more flexibility and creativity. Explore all facets of the learning paradigm from developing a change receptive environment and engaging constituencies to strategic planning governance and more.

From Polarisation to Multispecies Relationships Janet J. McIntyre-Mills, Yvonne Corcoran-Nantes, 2021-08-05 This book explores the concept of multi species relationships and suggests critical systemic pathways to protect shared habitats. This book discusses how the eradication of species as a result of rapid urbanisation places humanity at risk. This book demonstrates how narrow anthropocentrism has focused on the rights of human beings at the expense of other species and the environment. This book explores a priori norms and a posteriori measures and indicators to include and protect multiple species. This book aims to strengthen institutional capacity and powers to address and extend the UN 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda by drawing on local wisdom but also the need to implement laws to prevent ecocide. This book highlights that our fragile interdependence requires a recognition of our hybridity and interconnectedness within the web of life and suggests ways to reframe policy within and beyond the nation state to support living systems of which we are a strand.

Decolonizing Educational Relationships fatima Pirbhai-Illich, Fran Martin, Shauneen Pete, 2023-12-06 The authors present a novel way of thinking and a robust foundation for de colonizing educational relationships in Higher and Teacher Education illustrated by examples of applications to practice. A hybrid style of writing weaves their own narratives into the text drawing on their experiences in a range of educational settings.

Decolonizing Social Work Mel Gray, John Coates, Michael Yellow Bird, Tiani Hetherington, 2016-05-13 Riding on the success of Indigenous Social Work Around the World this book provides case studies to further scholarship on decolonization a major analytical and activist paradigm among many of the world's Indigenous Peoples including educators tribal leaders activists scholars politicians and citizens at the grassroots level. Decolonization seeks to weaken the effects of colonialism and create opportunities to promote traditional practices in contemporary settings. Establishing language and cultural programs honouring land claims teaching Indigenous history science and ways of knowing self esteem programs celebrating ceremonies restoring traditional parenting approaches tribal rites of passage traditional foods and helping and healing using tribal approaches are central to decolonization. These insights are brought to the arena of international social work still dominated by western based approaches. Decolonization draws attention to the effects of globalization and the universalization of education methods of practice and international development that fail to embrace and recognize local knowledges and methods. In this volume Indigenous and non Indigenous social work scholars examine local cultures beliefs values and practices as central to decolonization. Supported by a growing interest in spirituality and ecological awareness in international social work they interrogate trends issues and debates in Indigenous social work theory practice methods and education models including a section on Indigenous research approaches The diversity of perspectives decolonizing methodologies and the shared struggle to provide effective professional social work interventions is reflected in the international nature of the subject matter and in the mix of contributors who write from their contexts in different countries and cultures including Australia Canada Cuba Japan Jordan Mexico New Zealand South Africa and the USA Win-Win Influence: How to Enhance Your Personal and Business Relationships (with NLP) Roger R. Pazzani,2014-02-25 This book presents a theory of learning new causal relationships by making use of perceived regularities in the environment general knowledge of causality and existing causal knowledge Integrating ideas from the psychology of causation and machine learning the author introduces a new learning procedure called theory driven learning that uses abstract knowledge of causality to guide the induction process Known as OCCAM the system uses theory driven learning when new experiences conform to common patterns of causal relationships empirical learning to learn from novel experiences and explanation based learning when there is sufficient existing knowledge to explain why a new outcome occurred Together these learning methods construct a hierarchical organized memory of causal relationships As such OCCAM is the first learning system with the ability to acquire via empirical learning the background knowledge required for explanation based learning Please note This program runs on common lisp Recreating Relationships Helen Christiansen,Linda Goulet,Caroline Krentz,Mhairi Maeers,1997-02-27 The efforts of collaborative inquiry and community building in education are described by exploring a multitude of collaborative experiences in educational settings The authors reflect upon many types of collaborative experiences in ways that will ring true for readers They challenge educators at all levels to think about the multiple meanings and implications of collaboration by telling real stories about real people involved in collaborative experiences within schools and educational institutions Counselling in Cultural Contexts Nancy Arthur,2019-01-11 This accessible practice building reference establishes a clear social justice lens for providing culturally responsive and ethical multicultural counseling for all clients Rooted in the principles of Culture

Infused Counseling the book's practical framework spotlights the evolving therapeutic relationship and diverse approaches to working with clients' personal and relational challenges including at the community and system levels. Case studies illustrate interventions with clients across various identities from race, gender, and class to immigration status, sexuality, spirituality, and body size, emphasizing the importance of viewing clients' presenting concerns within the contexts of their lives. Chapters also model counselor self-awareness so readers can assess their strengths, identify their hidden assumptions, and evolve past basic cultural sensitivity to actively infusing social justice as an ethical stance in professional practice. Included in the chapters: Culture-infused counseling emphasizing context, identities, and social justice; Decolonizing and indigenous approaches; Social class awareness; Intersectionality of identities; Clients' spiritual and religious beliefs; Weight bias as a social justice issue; Culturally responsive and socially just engagement in counseling women; Life making in therapeutic work with transgender clients; Socially just counseling for refugees; Multi-level systems approaches to interventions. While Counseling in Cultural Contexts is geared toward a student training audience, practicing professionals will also find the case study format of the book to be informative and stimulating. The Relationship Training Manual for Men David Unger, 2008-09 A self-help manual specifically targeted for men. Knowing and Not Knowing in Intimate Relationships Paul C.

Rosenblatt, Elizabeth Wieling, 2013-07-25 In the extensive literature on couples and intimacy, little has been written about knowing and not knowing as people experience and understand them. Based on intensive interviews with thirty-seven adults, this book shows that knowing and not knowing are central to couple relationships. They are entangled in love, sexual attraction, trust, commitment, caring, empathy, decision making, conflict, and many other aspects of couple life. Often the entanglement is paradoxical. For example, many interviewees revealed that they hungered to be known and yet kept secrets from their partner. Many described working hard at knowing their partner well and yet there were also things about their partner and their partner's past that they wanted not to know. This book's qualitative phenomenological approach builds on and adds to the largely quantitative social psychological communications and family field literature to offer a new and accessible insight into the experience of intimacy. The Mentor-Disciple Relationship in the Visual Arts and Beyond Gaetano A. LaRoche, 2024-07-01 This book undertakes a deep examination of mentor and disciple relationships in the development of artists. It draws upon a variety of relationships and models including an in-person mentor, a mentor or apprentice scenario, and non-physical mentors such as historical figures in order to investigate their history and philosophy. This volume specifically addresses the role of mentoring in the lives of contemporary aspiring artists, asking if and how mentoring can be considered a form of human nurturance. Deep historical inspections and philosophical inquiries are combined with analyses of interviews with contemporary artists ranging from 35 to 101 years old. These holistic insights present the subject of mentoring in the arts from the multiple angles of art history and relevant ideas about the benefits of nurturance and acceptance in human development. Using artists' biographies and discussions of their work, this book sheds light on the role that mentoring has played in their development and can play in contemporary education It will appeal to artists art history teachers educators art students and art scholars
