Arctic Passages Kieran Mulvaney, 2025-05-13 Almost two centuries after British explorer Sir John Franklin and his men died amid paralyzing cold and ice in pursuit of the mythical Northwest Passage the Arctic is melting at an alarming pace Instead of working together to reduce greenhouse gas emissions countries are racing to control newly ice free waters and the riches in the seabed below But by choosing self interest over cooperative action they may be condemning the world to an uninhabitable future Arctic Passages reminds us that while we go about our lives climate change is unspooling slowly but insidiously spawning extreme weather events that will be increasingly difficult to ignore Ultimately the fate of the Arctic will be decided by the developed world and how it decides to take action if it s not too late The Ice at the End of the World Jon Gertner, 2019 An urgent account of the explorers and scientists racing to understand the rapidly melting ice sheet in Greenland a dramatic harbinger of climate change As Greenland s ice melts and runs off into the sea it not only threatens to affect hundreds of millions of people who live in coastal areas It will also have drastic effects on ocean currents weather systems economies and migration patterns

Richard,William Fitzhugh,2014-08-05 Maine to Greenland is a testament to one of the world's great geographic regions the Maritime Far Northeast For more than three decades William W Fitzhugh and Wilfred E Richard have explored the Northeast's Atlantic corridor and its fascinating history habitat and culture The authors powerful personal essays and Richard's stunning photography transport readers to this vibrant region joining Smithsonian archaeological expeditions and trekking in vast and amazing terrain Following Fitzhugh and Richard's travels north from Maine to the Canadian Maritimes Newfoundland and northern Quebec then to Labrador Baffin and Ellesmere islands and Greenland we view incredible landscapes uncover human history and meet luminous personalities along the way Fully illustrated with 350 full color photographs Maine to Greenland is the first in depth treatment of the Northeast Atlantic corridor and essential for armchair travelers locals tourists or anyone who has journeyed there Today green technology climate change and the opening of the Arctic Ocean have transformed the Maritime Far Northeast from an icy frontier into a global resource zone and an increasingly integrated international crossroads In our rapidly converging world we have much to learn from the Maritime Far Northeast and how its variety of cultures have adapted to rather than changed their environments during the past ten thousand years Maine to Greenland is not only a complete account of the region's unique culture and environment but also a timely reminder that amidst the very real consequences of climate change the inhabitants of the Maritime Far Northeast can show us grounded and sustainable ways of living At Home in the Cold Katherine Crooks,2025-12-18 In the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries the idea of home came into focus as a place of warmth and comfort associated with interior spaces and feminine touches In the same period writing about the Arctic as a frigid and inhospitable landscape proliferated American readers were fascinated by stories of Arctic exploration and supposedly heroic feats of survival by rugged white men Moving between these opposing pictures were a handful of white and northern Indigenous women who travelled between the eastern Arctic and America between 1890 and 1940 in connection with exploratory expeditions Their journeys and recollections challenged prevailing ideas about home the North and the rightful place of women At Home in the Cold brings to light the histories of five women involved in Arctic exploration The stories of three white women explorers Mina Hubbard Josephine Peary and her daughter Marie Peary reveal the importance of middle class domestic ideology to understanding the history of Arctic exploration as they sought to transform the Arctic into a more familiar environment Their journeys are considered alongside the stories of two northern women Eqariusaq from Greenland and Elizabeth Ford born in Labrador who travelled to the United States in connection with Arctic expeditions They too made comparisons of eastern Arctic and American environments that were rooted in their experiences of the Arctic as a natural home Representations of the Arctic as a difficult place to live continue to dominate outsider perceptions of the North as an inferior region with significant implications for northern residents today At Home in the Cold considers the colonial implications of home and domestic ideology in the Arctic context Explorers Journal Ernest
