Narrative Hospitality in Late Victorian Fiction Rachel Hollander, 2013 Bringing together poststructuralist ethical theory with late Victorian debates about the morality of literature this book reconsiders the ways in which novels engender an ethical orientation or response in their readers explaining how the intersections of nation family and form in the late realist English novel produce a new ethics of hospitality Hollander reads texts that both portray and enact a unique ethical orientation of welcoming the other a narrative hospitality that combines the Victorians commitment to engaging with the real world with a more modern awareness of difference and the limits of knowledge While classic nineteenth century realism rests on a sympathy based model of moral relations novels by authors such as George Eliot Thomas Hardy and Olive Schreiner present instead an ethical recognition of the distance between self and other Opening themselves to the other in their very structure and narrative form the visited texts both represent and theorize the ethics of hospitality anticipating twentieth century philosophy s recognition of the limits of sympathy As colonial conflicts nationalist anxiety and the intensification of the woman question became dominant cultural concerns in the 1870s and 80s the problem of self and other known and unknown began to saturate and define the representation of home in the English novel This book argues that in the wake of an erosion of confidence in the ability to understand that which is unlike the self a moral code founded on sympathy gave way to an ethics of hospitality in which the concept of home shifts to acknowledge the permeability and vulnerability of not only domestic but also national spaces Concluding with Virginia Woolf s reexamination of the novel s potential to educate the reader in negotiating relations of alterity in a more fully modernist moment Hollanders suggest that the late Victorian novel embodies a unique and previously unrecognized ethical mode between Victorian realism and a post World War I ethics of modernist form

Evelyn Waugh Ann Slater, 2016 This study shows how Evelyn Waugh transformed his own experiences into painfully comic brilliantly constructed novels

J.M. Coetzee and the Limits of Cosmopolitanism K. Hallemeier, 2013-11-07 Drawing on postcolonial and gender studies as well as affect theory the book interrogates cosmopolitan philosophies Through analysis of J M Coetzee s later fiction Hallemeier invites the re imagining of cosmopolitanism particularly as it is performed through the reading of literature

Novels and the Sociology of the Contemporary Arpad Szakolczai, 2016-04-14 This book substantiates two claims First the modern world was not simply produced by objective factors rooted in geographical discoveries and scientific inventions to be traced to economic technological or political factors but is the outcome of social cultural and spiritual processes Among such factors beyond the Protestant ethic Max Weber the rise of the absolutist state and its disciplinary network Michel Foucault or court society Norbert Elias a prime role is played by theatre The modern reality is deeply theatricalized Second a special access for studying this theatricalized world is offered by novels The best classical novels not simply can be interpreted as describing a world like the theatre but they capture and present a world that has become thoroughly transformed into a global theatre The theatre effectively transformed the world and classical novels effectively analyze this theatricalized reality much better than the main instruments supposedly destined to study reality philosophy and sociology Thus instead of using the technique of sociology to analyze novels the book will treat novels as a royal road to analyze a theatricalized reality in order to find our way back to a genuine and meaningful life Romancing God Lynn S. Neal, 2006 In the world of the evangelical romance novel sex and desire are mitigated by an omnipresent third party the divine Thus romance is not just an encounter between lovers but a triangle of affection man woman and God Although this literature is often Hauntology Katy

Shaw, 2018-04-16 Post millennial writings function as a useful prism through which we can understand contemporary English culture and its compulsion to revisit the immediate past The critical practice of hauntology turns to the past in order to make sense of the present to understand how we got to this place and how to build a better future Since the Year 2000 popular culture has been inundated with representations of those who occupy a space between being and non being and defy ontological criteria This Pivot explores a range of contemporary English literatures from the poetry of Simon Armitage and the drama of Jez Butterworth to the fiction of Zadie Smith and the stories of David Peace that collectively unite to represent a twenty first century world full of specters reminiscence and representations of spectral encounters These specters become visible and significant as they interact with a range of social political and economic discourses that continue to speak to the contemporary period The enduring fascination with the spectral offers valuable insights into a contemporary English culture in which spectral manifestations signal towards larger social anxieties as well as to specific historical events and recurrent cultural preoccupations The specter confronts the contemporary with the necessity of participation encouraging the realisation that we must engage with it in order to create meaning Narrative agency is the primary motivating force of its return and the repetition of the specter functions to highlight new meanings and perspectives Harnessing hauntology as a lens through which to consider the specters haunting twenty first century English writings this Pivot examines the emergence of a vein of hauntological literature that profiles the pervasive presence of the past in our new millennium

Intelligence of Apes and Other Rational Beings Duane M. Rumbaugh, David A. Washburn, 2008-10-01 What is animal intelligence In what ways is it similar to human intelligence Many behavioral scientists have realized that animals can be rational can think in abstract symbols can understand and react to human speech and can learn through observation as well as conditioning many of the more complicated skills of life Now Duane Rumbaugh and David Washburn probe the mysteries of the animal mind even further identifying an advanced level of animal behavior emergents that reflects animals natural and active inclination to make sense of the world Rumbaugh and Washburn unify all behavior into a framework they call Rational Behaviorism and present it as a new way to understand learning intelligence and rational behavior in both animals and humans Drawing on years of research on issues of complex learning and intelligence in primates notably rhesus monkeys chimpanzees and bonobos Rumbaugh and Washburn provide delightful examples of animal ingenuity and persistence showing that animals are capable of very creative solutions to novel challenges The authors analyze learning processes and research methods discuss the meaningful differences across the primate order and point the way to further advances enlivening theoretical material about primates with stories about their behavior and achievements Unconditional Q. B. Tyler, 2019-03-10 It only takes one moment to change the course of someone's life One moment to link two souls forever That moment came when I pulled her out of her darkest hour The tragedy that threatened to swallow her whole and shatter her innocence Save her Protect her Love her I vowed Ten years later my vows are the same But I'm different She's different We're different And the feelings threatening to break free have the power to destroy everything I'll stop at nothing to keep her safe but what if the very thing she needs protection from is me This book contains elements of taboo and is intended for mature audiences Evelyn Waugh Revisited Ravi K Dhar, 2021-12-19 Born on 28 October 1903 to Arthur Waugh 1866-1943 and Catherine Charlotte Raban 1870-1954 Arthur Evelyn St John Waugh 1903-1966 popularly known by his pen name Evelyn Waugh wrote thirteen major novels apart from short stories travelogues essays news stories and non-fiction In the maze of his prolific writings the quintessential Waugh often escaped the critical scrutiny of critics and reviewers who often charged him with being a bitter critic of modern Britain without presenting an alternative moral vision or else that his novels play up an untenable nostalgia for the aristocratic values of the feudal past and a preoccupation with thrusting his religion on others This book attempts to tear through the foggy veil of such critiques to revisit and redeem the real Waugh as represented in his creative works The study argues that the claim of Evelyn Waugh to be recognised as a major twentieth century novelist in English literature rests on his creative use of comedy to convey his unique vision of life The book highlights the centrality of the ubiquitous metaphor of the ever revolving wheel of life to an understanding of his comic vision and art The metaphor helps to define not just the division of this world into static dynamic and religious characters but also the weltanschauung that drives them to lead their lives in a particular way Based on this Waugh's novels are amenable to classification into lesser and greater comedies The book argues that while the lesser comedies play up the absurdity of belief in the Enlightenment philosophy of progress the greater comedies present the grandeur of life in the spiritual resurrection of the central characters Black Professional Women in Recent American Fiction Carmen Rose Marshall, 2015-01-24 The last three decades of the 20th century have marked the triumph of many black professional women against great odds in the workplace Despite their success few novels celebrate their accomplishments Black middle class professional women want to see themselves realistically portrayed by protagonists who work to achieve significant productivity and visibility in their careers desire stability in their personal lives aspire to accrue wealth and live elegantly though not consumptively The author contends that most recent American realistic fiction fails to represent black professional women protagonists performing their work effectively in the workplace Identifying the extent to which contemporary novels satisfy the readerly desires of black middle class women readers this book investigates why the readership wants the texts as well as what they prefer in the books they buy It also examines the technical and cultural factors that contribute to the lack of books with self empowered black professional female protagonists and considers The Salt Eaters by Toni Cade Bambara and Waiting to Exhale by Terry McMillan two novels that function as significant markers in the development of contemporary black women writers texts

The Open Book M. Jensen, 2016-04-30 The Open Book is a provocative study of literary influence at work in English writing from Hardy to Woolf Jensen reimagines the links between text and context as she endeavors to historicize literary influence by taking Bloomian anxiety and Kristevan intertextuality into fields of actual history and biography Jensen both borrows from and deconstructs the ideas of these theorists as she reads the texts of Hardy Stephen Woolf Mansfield and Middleton Murry By doing so The Open Book offers a fresh and pragmatic opening onto the relation between personal cultural and institutional history on the one hand and literary history on the other

Security and Hospitality in Literature and Culture Jeffrey Clapp, Emily Ridge, 2015-10-05 With contributions from an international array of scholars this volume opens a dialogue between discourses of security and hospitality in modern and contemporary literature and culture The chapters in the volume span domestic spaces and detention camps the experience of migration and the phenomena of tourism interpersonal exchanges and cross cultural interventions The volume explores the multifarious ways in which subjects citizens communities and states negotiate the mutual and potentially exclusive desires to secure themselves and offer hospitality to others From the individual s telephone and data to the threshold of the family home to the borders of the nation sites of securitization confound hospitality s injunction to openness gifting and refuge In demonstrating an interrelation between ongoing discussions of hospitality and the intensifying attention to security the book engages with a range of literary cultural and geopolitical contexts drawing on work from other disciplines including philosophy political science and sociology Further it defines a new interdisciplinary area of inquiry that resonates with current academic interests in world literature transnationalism and cosmopolitanism
