Else-Quest,Janet Shibley Hyde,2021-01-04 A psychology of women textbook that fully integrates transgender research issues and concerns With clear comprehensive and cutting edge coverage The Psychology of Women and Gender Half the Human Experience delivers an authoritative analysis of classical and up to date research from a feminist psychological viewpoint Authors Nicole M Else Quest and Janet Shibley Hyde examine the cultural and biological similarities and differences between genders noting how these characteristics can affect issues of equality Students will come away with a strong foundation for understanding the dynamic influences of gender sexual orientation and ethnicity in the context of psychology and society The Tenth Edition further integrates intersectionality throughout every chapter updates language for more transgender inclusion and incorporates new content from guidelines put forth from the American Psychological Association Psychology Don H. Hockenbury,Sandra E. Hockenbury,2008-12-19 More than any other psychology textbook Don and Sandra Hockenbury s Psychology relates the science of psychology to the lives of the wide range of students taking the introductory course Now Psychology returns in a remarkable new edition that shows just how well attuned the Hockenburys are to the needs of today s students and instructors Psychology began with a basic idea combine scientific authority with a narrative that engages students and relates to their lives From decades of experience teaching the Hockenburys created a book filled with cutting edge science and real life stories that draw students of all kinds into the course The Diagnostic System Jason Schnittker,2017-08-08 Mental illness is many things at once It is a natural phenomenon that is also shaped by society and culture It is biological but also behavioral and social Mental illness is a problem of both the brain and the mind and this ambiguity presents a challenge for those who seek to accurately classify psychiatric disorders. The leading resource we have for doing so is the American Psychiatric Association's Diagnostic and Statistical Manual, but no edition of the manual has provided a decisive solution and all have created controversy. In The Diagnostic System, the sociologist Jason Schnittker looks at the multiple actors involved in crafting the DSM and the many interests that the manual hopes to serve. Is the DSM the best tool for defining mental illness? Can we insure against a misleading approach? Schnittker shows that the classification of psychiatric disorders is best understood within the context of a system that involves diverse parties with differing interests. The public wants a better understanding of personal suffering. Mental health professionals seek reliable and treatable diagnostic categories. Scientists want definitions that correspond as closely as possible to nature. And all parties seek definitive insight into what they regard as the right target. Yet even the best classification system cannot satisfy all of these interests simultaneously. Progress toward an ideal is difficult and revisions to diagnostic criteria often serve the interests of one group at the expense of another. Schnittker urges us to become comfortable with the socially constructed nature of categorization and accept that a perfect taxonomy of mental health disorders will remain elusive. Decision making based on evolving though fluid understandings is not a weakness but an adaptive strength of the mental health profession even if it is not a solid foundation for scientific discovery or a reassuring framework for patients.

The Animals' Agenda Marc Bekoff, Jessica Pierce, 2017-04-18

A compelling argument that the time has come to use what we know about the fascinating and diverse inner lives of other animals on their behalf. Every day we are learning new and surprising facts about just how intelligent and emotional animals are. Did you know rats like to play and laugh and also display empathy and the ears and noses of cows tell us how they're feeling? At times we humans translate that knowledge into compassion for other animals. Think of the public outcry against the fates of Cecil the lion or the captive gorilla Harambe. But on the whole, our growing understanding of what animals feel is not resulting in more respectful treatment of them. Renowned animal behavior expert Marc Bekoff and leading bioethicist Jessica Pierce explore the real world experiences of five categories of animals, beginning with those who suffer the greatest deprivations of freedoms and choice: chickens, pigs, and cows in industrial food systems as well as animals used in testing and research, including mice, rats, cats, dogs, and chimpanzees. Next, Bekoff and Pierce consider animals for whom losses of freedoms are more ambiguous and controversial, namely individuals held in zoos and aquaria and those kept as companions. Finally, they reveal the unexpected ways in which the freedoms of animals in the wild are constrained by human activities and argue for a more compassionate approach to conservation. In each case, scientific studies combine with stories of individual animals to bring readers face to face with the wonder of our fellow beings as well as the suffering they endure and the major paradigm shift that is needed to truly ensure their well-being. The Animals' Agenda will educate and inspire people to rethink how we affect other animals and how we can evolve toward more peaceful and less violent ways of interacting with our animal kin in an increasingly human
