Wang Shu Imagining The House:

Imagining the House □□, 2012 Buildings by Chinese architect Wang Shu this year's winner of the Pritzker Prize feature clear and simple contemporary designs that make use of traditional methods and materials The reuse of building materials is characteristic of his buildings Shu's design process always begins with an intense study of the location The architect spends as long as possible on the site absorbing its atmosphere He then produces drafts in the form of hand drawn sketches creating them in relatively quick succession Imagining the House follows this process in various buildings Photographic documentation of the locations elucidate Shu's on site research The reproductions of drawings in this book demonstrate how the designs change and become more concrete over the course of the process The book provides unique insights into the work of an architect who has hitherto received little attention in Europe thereby addressing a considerable omission in the publishing world

Thinking the Contemporary Landscape Christophe Girot, Dora Imhof, 2016-10-25 On the heels of our groundbreaking books in landscape architecture James Corner's Recovering Landscape and Charles Waldheim's Landscape Urbanism Reader comes another essential reader Examining our shifting perceptions of nature and place in the context of environmental challenges and how these affect urbanism and architecture the seventeen essayists in argue for an all encompassing view of landscape that integrates the scientific intellectual aesthetic and mythic into a new multidisciplinary understanding of the contemporary landscape A must read for anyone concerned about the changing nature of our landscape in a time of climate crisis

Architect Ruth Peltason, Grace Ong-Yan, 2017-11-07 In this completely revised and up to date edition the world's most accomplished architects Gehry Pei Meier Nouvel Piano and 37 more express their views on creativity inspiration and legacy in this visually stunning one of a kind collection The Pritzker Prize is the most prestigious international prize for architecture Architect includes all 42 recipients of the Pritzker Prize and captures in pictures and their own words their awe inspiring achievements Organized in reverse chronological order by laureate each chapter features four to six of the architect's major works including museums libraries hotels places of worship and more The text culled from notebooks interviews articles and speeches illuminates the architects influences and inspirations personal philosophy and aspirations for his own work and the future of architecture The book includes More than 1000 stunning photographs blueprints sketches and CAD drawings Architect offers an unprecedented view into the minds of some of the most creative thinkers dreamers and builders of the last three decades and reveals that buildings are political emotional and spiritual

Building Time David Leatherbarrow, 2020-11-26 While most books on architecture concentrate on spatial themes this book explores architecture's temporal dimensions Through a series of close readings of buildings both contemporary and classic it demonstrates the centrality of time in modern architecture and shows why an understanding of time is critical to understanding good architecture All buildings exist in time Even if designed for permanence they change slowly but inevitably They change use they accrue history and meaning they decay all of these processes are inscribed in time So too is the path traced by the sun through a building and the movements of the human body from room to room Time this book argues is the framework for our spatial experience of architecture and a key dimension of a building s structure and significance Building Time presents twelve close readings of buildings and artworks which explore this idea Examining works by distinctive modern architects from Eileen Gray to Ivaro Siza and Wang Shu it takes the reader in some cases literally step by step through a built work and provides insightful reflections on the importance of making space for time in architectural design This is a book for both theorists and for architectural designers Through it theorists will find a way to rethink the fundamental premises and aims of design work while designers will rediscover the order and ideas that shape the world around them its buildings interiors and landscapes

Wang Shu ,2012 Wang Shu was awarded the Pritzker Prize 2012 Shu s design process always begins with an intense study of the location The architect spends as long as possible on the site absorbing its atmosphere He then produces drafts in the form of hand drawn sketches creating them in relatively quick succession Imagining the House follows this process in various buildings Photographic documentation of the locations elucidate Shu s on site research The reproductions of drawings in this book demonstrate how the designs change and become more concrete over the course of the process The book provides unique insights into the work of an architect who has hitherto received little attention in Europe thereby addressing a considerable omission in the publishing world
