Europe and Extraterritorial Asylum Maarten Den Heijer, 2012-03-01 Increasingly European and other Western states have sought to control the movement of refugees outside their borders To do this states have adopted a variety of measures including carrier sanctions interception of migrants at sea posting of immigration officers in foreign countries and external processing of asylum seekers This book focuses on the legal implications of external mechanisms of migration control for the protection of refugees and irregular migrants The book explores how refugee and human rights law has responded to the new measures adopted by states and how states have sought cooperation with other actors in the context of migration control The book defends the thesis that when European states attempt to control the movement of migrants outside their territories they remain responsible under international law for protecting the rights of refugees as well as their general human rights It also identifies how EU law governs and constrains the various types of pre border migration enforcement employed by EU Member States and examines how unfolding practices of external migration control conform with international law This is a work which will be essential reading for scholars and practitioners of asylum and refugee law throughout Europe and the wider world The book received The Max van der Stoep Human Rights Award 2011 first prize category dissertations and the Erasmianum Study Prize 2011 Journal Arkansas. Sherry, Eileen M Fischer, 2017-05-25 Contemporary Consumer Culture Theory contains original research essays written by the premier thought leaders of the discipline from around the world that reflect the maturation of the field Customer Culture Theory over the last decade The volume seeks to help break down the silos that have arisen in disciplines seeking to understand consumer culture and speed both the diffusion of ideas and possibility of collaboration across frontiers Contemporary Consumer Culture Theory begins with a re evaluation of some of the fundamental notions of consumer behaviour such as self and other branding and pricing and individual vs communal agency then continuing with a reconsideration of role configurations as they affect consumption examining in particular the ramifications of familial gender ethnic and national aspects of consumers lived experiences The book move on to a reappraisal of the state of the field examining the rhetoric of inquiry the reflexive history and critique of the discipline the prospect of redirecting the effort of inquiry to practical and humanitarian ends the neglected wellsprings of our intellectual heritage and the ideological underpinnings of the evolving construction of the concept of the brand Contemporary Consumer Culture Theory is a reflective assessment in theoretical empirical and evocative keys of the state of the field of consumer culture theory and an indication of the scholarly directions in which the discipline is evolving providing reflection upon a rapidly expanding discipline and altered consumption scapes by some of its prime movers A History of the Laws of War: Volume 3

Alexander Gillespie, 2011-10-07 This unique work of reference traces the origins of the modern laws of warfare from the earliest times to the present day Relying on written records from as far back as 2400 BCE and using sources ranging from the Bible to Security Council Resolutions the author pieces together the history of a subject which is almost as old as civilisation itself The author shows that as long as humanity has been waging wars it has also been trying to find ways of legitimising different forms of combatants and ascribing rules to them protecting civilians who are either inadvertently or intentionally caught up between them and controlling the use of particular classes of weapons that may be used in times of conflict Thus it is that this work is divided into three substantial parts Volume 1 on the laws affecting combatants and captives Volume 2 on civilians and Volume 3 on the law of arms control This third volume deals with the question of the control of weaponry from the Bronze Age to the Nuclear Age In doing so it divides into two parts namely conventional weapons and Weapons of Mass Destruction The examination of the history of arms control of conventional weapons begins with the control of weaponry so that one side could achieve a military advantage over another This pattern which only began to change centuries after the advent of gunpowder was later supplemented by ideals to control types of conventional weapons because their impacts upon opposing combatants were inhumane By the late twentieth century the concerns over inhumane conventional weapons were being supplemented by concerns over indiscriminate conventional weapons The focus on indiscriminate weapons when applied on a mass scale is the core of the second part of the volume Weapons of Mass Destruction are primarily weapons of the latter half of the twentieth century Although both chemical and biological warfare have long historical lineages it was only after the Second World War that technological developments meant that these weapons could be applied to cause large scale damage to non combatants this is unlike nuclear weapons which are a truly modern invention Despite being the newest Weapon of Mass Destruction they are also the weapon of which most international attention has been applied although the frameworks by which they were contained in the last century appear inadequate to address the needs of current times As a work of reference this set of three books is unrivalled and will be of immense benefit to scholars and practitioners researching and advising on the laws of warfare It also tells a story which throws fascinating new light on the history of international law and on the history of warfare itself Journal Arkansas.
