Understanding Climate Change Adaptation Lessons From Community Based Approaches:

Understanding Climate Change Adaptation Jonathan Ensor, Rachel Berger, 2009 This book asks how can agencies assist local communities adapting to change By what mechanisms can communities make the most of emerging information Can effective community based approaches be scaled up It is essential reading for NGO practitioners students government and NGO policy makers who wish to gain an understanding of adaptation

Community-based Adaptation to Climate Change Hannah Reid, 2009 Focuses on the approaches to climate change adaptation which are community based and participatory This title highlights the participatory methods to help communities analyze the causes and effects of climate change integrate scientific and community knowledge and plan appropriate adaptation measures

Community-based adaptation Hannah Reid, 2017-10-02 Community based adaptation CBA to climate change is based on local priorities needs knowledge and capacities Early CBA initiatives were generally implemented by non government organisations NGOs and operated primarily at the local level Many used bottom up participatory processes to identify the climate change problem and appropriate responses Small localised stand alone initiatives are insufficient to address the scale of challenges climate change will bring however The causes of vulnerability such as market or service access or good governance also often operate beyond the project level Larger organisations and national governments have therefore started to implement broader CBA programmes which provide opportunities to scale up responses and integrate CBA into higher levels of policy and planning This book shows that it is possible for CBA to remain centred on local priorities but not necessarily limited to work implemented at the local level Some chapters address the issue of mainstreaming CBA into government policy and planning processes or into city or sectoral level plans e g on agriculture Others look at how gender and children s issues should be mainstreamed into adaptation planning itself and others describe how tools can be applied and finance delivered for effective mainstreaming This book was published as a special issue of Climate and Development

Climate Change Adaptation and Development Tor Håkon Inderberg, Siri Eriksen, Karen O'Brien, Linda Sygna, 2014-11-20 Climate change poses multiple challenges to development It affects lives and livelihoods infrastructure and institutions as well as beliefs cultures and identities There is a growing recognition that the social dimensions of vulnerability and adaptation now need to move to the forefront of development policies and practices This book presents case studies showing that climate change is as much a problem of development as for development with many of the risks closely linked to past present and future development pathways Development policies and practices can play a key role in addressing climate change but it is critical to question to what extent such actions and interventions reproduce rather than address the social and political structures and development pathways driving vulnerability The chapters emphasise that adaptation is about much more than a set of projects or interventions to reduce specific impacts of climate change it is about living with change while also transforming the processes that contribute to vulnerability in the first place This book will help students in the field of climate change and development to make sense of adaptation as a social process and it will provide practitioners policymakers and researchers working at the interface between climate change and development with useful insights for approaching adaptation as part of a larger transformation to sustainability

The Political Ecology of Climate Change Adaptation Marcus Taylor, 2014-11-17 This book provides the first systematic critique of the concept of climate change adaptation within the field of international development Drawing on a reworked political ecology framework it argues that climate is not something out there that we adapt to Instead it is part of the social and biophysical forces through which our lived environments are actively yet unevenly produced From this original foundation the book challenges us to rethink the concepts of climate change vulnerability resilience and adaptive capacity in transformed ways With case studies drawn from Pakistan India and Mongolia it demonstrates concretely how climatic change emerges as a dynamic force in the ongoing transformation of contested rural landscapes In crafting this synthesis the book recalibrates the frameworks we use to envisage climatic change in the context of contemporary debates over development livelihoods and poverty With its unique theoretical contribution and case study material this book will appeal to researchers and students in environmental studies sociology geography politics and development studies
