The Web Of Life A New Understanding Of Living Systems:

The Web of Life Fritjof Capra, 1997-09-15 The vitality and accessibility of Fritjof Capra's ideas have made him perhaps the most eloquent spokesperson of the latest findings emerging at the frontiers of scientific social and philosophical thought. In his international bestsellers The Tao of Physics and The Turning Point he juxtaposed physics and mysticism to define a new vision of reality. In The Web of Life Capra takes yet another giant step setting forth a new scientific language to describe interrelationships and interdependence of psychological, biological, physical, social, and cultural phenomena: the web of life. During the past twenty-five years, scientists have challenged conventional views of evolution and the organization of living systems and have developed new theories with revolutionary philosophical and social implications. Fritjof Capra has been at the forefront of this revolution. In The Web of Life Capra offers a brilliant synthesis of such recent scientific breakthroughs as the theory of complexity, Gaia theory, chaos theory, and other explanations of the properties of organisms, social systems, and ecosystems. Capra's surprising findings stand in stark contrast to accepted paradigms of mechanism and Darwinism and provide an extraordinary new foundation for ecological policies that will allow us to build and sustain communities without diminishing the opportunities for future generations. Now available in paperback for the first time, The Web of Life is cutting-edge science writing in the tradition of James Gleick's Chaos, Gregory Bateson's Mind and Matter, and Ilya Prigogine's Order Out of Chaos. African Environmental and Human Security in the 21st Century Helen E. Purkitt, 2009

The New Net Zero Bill Maclay, 2014 The new threshold for green building is not just low energy; it's net zero energy. In The New Net Zero, sustainable architect Bill Maclay charts the path for designers and builders interested in exploring green design's new frontier: net zero energy structures that produce as much energy as they consume and are carbon neutral. In a nation where traditional buildings use roughly 40 percent of the total fossil energy, the interest in net zero building is growing enormously among both designers interested in addressing climate change and consumers interested in energy efficiency and long-term savings. Maclay, an award-winning net zero designer whose buildings have achieved high performance goals at affordable costs, makes the case for a net zero future, explains net zero building metrics, integrated design practices, and renewable energy options, and shares his lessons learned on net zero teambuilding. Designers and builders will find a wealth of state-of-the-art information on such considerations as air, water, and vapor barriers, embodied energy, residential and commercial net zero standards, monitoring, and commissioning, insulation options, costs, and more. The comprehensive overview is accompanied by several case studies which include institutional buildings, commercial projects, and residences. Both new building and renovation projects are covered in detail. The New Net Zero is geared toward professionals exploring net zero design but also suitable for nonprofessionals seeking ideas and strategies on net zero options that are beautiful and renewably powered. Local Natures, Global Responsibilities, 2010-01-01 In the New Literatures in English, nature has long been a paramount issue; the environmental devastation caused by colonialism has left its legacy with particularly disastrous consequences for the most vulnerable parts of the world At the same time social and cultural transformations have altered representations of nature in postcolonial cultures and literatures It is this shift of emphasis towards the ecological that is addressed by this volume A fast expanding field ecocriticism covers a wide range of theories and areas of interest particularly the relationship between literature and other texts and the environment Rather than adopting a rigid agenda the interpretations presented involve ecocritical perspectives that can be applied most fruitfully to literary and non literary texts Some are more general holistic approaches literature and other cultural forms are a living organism part of an intellectual ecosystem implemented and sustained by the interactions between the natural world both human and non human and its cultural representations Nature itself is a new interpretative category in line with other paradigms such as race class gender and identity A wide range of genres are covered from novels or films in which nature features as the main topic or protagonist to those with an ecocritical agenda as in dystopian literature Other concerns are nature as a cultural construct gendered natures and the city country dichotomy The texts treated challenge traditional Western dualisms human animal man nature woman man While such global phenomena as media old or new tourism and catastrophes permeate many of these texts there is also a dual focus on nature as the inexplicable elusive Other and the need for human agency and global responsibility
