Mathematical structures and theories that give up the local continuous topology and embrace nonlocality are called nonlocal structures. They often have structural properties that show that nonlocality makes it mathematically more clear that it is a game. In this essay, I will discuss the two types of nonlocal structures, namely, the geometrical effects about the structural properties of space-time that are used to create nonlocality. The second part of the essay is that with the help of the ideas of nonlocality, I will discuss the possibility of using the ideas of nonlocality to create a new type of nonlocality. Finally, I will discuss the ideas of nonlocality and the ideas of nonlocality and the ideas of nonlocality and the ideas of nonlocality.
