

THE WEB OF POVERTY

The background of the book cover is a dark, atmospheric illustration. It depicts a large, multi-story building, possibly a tenement or a factory, with several windows. A large, light-colored spider web is superimposed over the scene, its threads stretching across the sky and the building. The overall tone is somber and evocative, suggesting themes of entrapment and hardship.

The Web of Poverty Anne-Marie Ambert,1998 Ambert sociology York U Toronto discusses poverty in the US and Canada in terms of its societal systemic and personal origins effects on neighborhoods schools families women children the elderly and minority groups role in creating delinquency subculture and influence on the individual s health development and genetic endowments Paper edition unseen 24 95 Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The Web of Poverty Anne-Marie Ambert,1998 Instructor's Manual Anne-Marie Ambert,1998 Social constructionism and theology [electronic resource] Chris A. M. Hermans,2002 Practical theology starts its theological reflections from practices aims at analyzing empirically practices and is directed towards the transformation of these practices From this practice orientation there is a strong connection between practical theology and the social sciences Social constructionism is a growing theory within the social sciences This volume offers a theological and social scientific reflection on this emerging concept of social constructionism Social Dynamics of the Life Course Walter R. Heinz,Victor W. Marshall, In the last two decades research on the life course has successfully combined and integrated different and rather isolated fields of social concerns such as the labor market family solidarity education employment retirement and social policy It has also developed a special focus on crucial problems of sociological research which includes the understanding of micromacro phenomena the dynamics of social change and international comparisons Contributors to this volume take an international comparative approach in applying the life course theoretical framework to issues of work and career Life course research focuses on the relationship between institutions and individuals across the life span and illuminates the impact of modernization on the shaping of biographies Industrial service societies are characterized by historically new contingencies of living arrangements and biographies These contingencies differ according to the extent to which life course patterns are regulated by social institutions In the continental European context institutional frameworks continue to define the timing and sequencing of transitions across the life course In less regulated market societies like the United States and Great Britain biographies and living arrangements are shaped more by the interaction of markets social networks and individual decisions In active welfare states institutional resources and rules continue to mediate the effects of social change on the life course What the editors and contributors to this fine compendium anticipate is a change on the cultural level toward more equality This trend supports young people and women in particular in their expectations concerning an egalitarian relationship This expectation is not taken for granted from the point of view of the male partner but has to be negotiated in decisionmaking processes as an issue that concerns the couple as a unit Thus the way in which people interact is profoundly impacted by the values and goals of equity demands Walter R Heinz is professor of sociology and social psychology and director Graduate School of Social Sciences University of Bremen Victor W Marshall is professor of sociology and director of the Institute on Aging University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Carolina Stepfamilies Roni Berger,2020-04-01 Combining theoretical
