Veld Management In South Africa:

Veld Management in South Africa Neil Melbourne Tainton, 1999 This text is a synthesis of research in production and management since the inception of the discipline as an agricultural science in the 1930s All the ecological regions are covered extensively but the main emphasis is on the three biomes grassland savanna and karoo which produce the bulk of the forage supporting the domestic livestock conservation and the game farming industries The book has an audience beyond the borders of South Africa in the grassland and savanna areas which stretch through southern and central Africa

Aspects of Veld Management in South Africa and South West Africa D. G. Wilcox, 1977 Veld Management in South Africa. [With a Map.] J. D. SCOTT (M.Sc.), 1947 Wildland Fire Management Handbook for Sub-Sahara Africa Johann Georg Goldammer, Cornelis De Ronde, 2004 Africa is a fire continent Since the early evolution of humanity fire has been harnessed as a land use tool Many ecosystems of Sub Sahara Africa that have been shaped by fire over millennia provide a high carrying capacity for human populations Rangelands: A Resource Under Siege P. J. Joss, P. W. Lynch, O. B. Williams, 1986 This volume comprises the proceedings of the Second International Rangelands Congress held in Adelaide Australia in May 1984 and includes some 350 contributions drawn from 43 different countries The Congress addressed the problem of the conflict between land users and the degradation of this valuable resource Some 40% of the Earth's land surface is arid or alpine and therefore unsuitable for agricultural cultivation Collectively these lands are known as rangelands and in their natural state they constitute a habitat for grazing animals both domestic and wild Despite their low productivity rangelands have been used for thousands of years as a source of food and fibre but other uses such as mining tourism recreation and conservation are exerting increasing demands The result is often conflict between land users and degradation of the resource Pasture Management in South Africa Neil Melbourne Tainton, 2000 Covers the major aspects of pasture production and management This title focusses on species selection pasture establishment fertilizer grazing and forage management and livestock related aspects of nutrient supplementation and feed budgeting It is useful to students and practitioners beyond South Africa's borders Vegetation science applications for rangeland analysis and management P.T. Tueller, 2012-12-06 Natural grasslands pastures and meadows are among the vegetation types most frequently investigated with phytosociological methods This was one of the reasons why volume 13 Application of vegetation science to grassland husbandry and agriculture edited by W Krause appeared as one of the first volumes of this handbook It appeared under the chief editorship of Prof R Tiixen and in his time main emphasis of the handbook was placed on Zürich Montpellier methods and the European vegetation When we redesigned the handbook we felt the need to include other methods and aims of grassland analyses as well as a more global coverage of grasslands Especially the natural dry and semidry areas of the world needed to be covered was very fortunate in getting Prof Tueller of the University of Reno I Nevada as an editor for this volume He and the colleagues he motivated to compile volume 14 on Application of vegetation science to rangeland analysis and management have created a truly global coverage of the topics interesting for vegetation analyses in natural grasslands Since volume 13 covered the problems of anthropogenically created grasslands this topic was not expressly treated in order to avoid duplication For the same reason no specific attempt was made to get more papers from Europe and the temperate forest region in general The cooperation with Dr Tueller has been very rewarding for me

Management of Semi-Arid Ecosystems B.H. Walker, 2012-12-02 Extensive regions of the world have a climate which whilst permitting development of a continuous vegetative cover is too dry for successful annual cropping These are the semi arid areas where land use is based on the natural vegetation Easily degraded and difficult to maintain they are under increasing pressure as expanding human populations move in and endeavour to force a living from them As a result they contain some of the worst examples of resource degradation This book examines the problems and opportunities involved in man's use of semi arid areas The authors are all actively involved in research and land management in the areas discussed Each chapter begins with a detailed up to date account of the ecology of the region its climate soils vegetation fauna and main ecological characteristics This is followed by a history of land use problems involved in its management a review of current research and recommended land use practices The common features of semi arid ecosystems are brought together in a final section The National Agricultural Directory 2009, 2009

Soil Degradation and Restoration in Africa Rattan Lal, B. A. Stewart, 2019-07-09 Soil degradation is a widespread problem in Africa resulting in decreased agricultural productivity while demand for food continues to increase Degradation is caused by accelerated erosion acidification contamination depletion of soil organic matter and plant nutrients and salinization The major cause of soil degradation in Africa is uncontrolled and excessive grazing in the savanna regions followed by deforestation and the use of inappropriate and extractive farming practices Perpetual neglect of the health of soils in Africa can exacerbate the already serious problems of food and nutritional insecurity and environmental degradation Food and nutritional security of the growing population of Africa can only be achieved if degraded soils are restored and soils of agroecosystems are managed prudently and sustainably Ignoring soils and taking the fragile finite and precious soil resources for granted is the principal cause of poverty hunger and environmental degradation The downward spiral must be reversed through soil restoration measures based on translating science into action This book describes the soils of Africa processes of soil degradation extent and severity of soil degradation and the impacts of degradation processes on food and nutritional security Features Explores the extent and severity of soil degradation in Africa Analyzes the cause effect relationship between anthropogenic activities and soil degradation Reviews processes of soil degradation in Africa including erosion salinization nutrient depletion and decline of soil organic matter Addresses the effect of climate change on soil degradation in Africa Explains how soil degradation causes food and nutritional insecurity Part of the Advances in Soil Sciences series this volume is specifically devoted to the processes and factors that cause soil degradation and the challenges and potential for remediation and restoration of soil health in Africa

Veld Management in South Africa J. D. Scott, 1947 Soil Conservation in South Africa, 1946-1959 Everil Hart, 1970 Karoo Veld Ecology and Management, 2006 Karoo veld promotes an ecosystem health approach to veld assessment recognising that soil plants insects and wild animals work with the land user to sustain the productivity and value of Karoo veld Biotic Diversity in Southern Africa Brian J. Huntley, 1989 The maintenance of the world's rich variety of plants animals microorganisms and ecosystems has at last been recognized as a critical need for mankind's survival and prosperity The issue is no longer the concern of a small group of nature conservationists but has entered the agendas of major organizations such as the World Bank the Brundtland Commission the World Health Organization and FAO South African scientists and administrators have a unique resource of information understanding and experience in the field of biotic diversity management This volume assesses the conservation status of southern African biota and ecosystems the value of biotic diversity to southern African people and approaches to the evaluation protection and monitoring of biotic diversity in the region Veld and Pasture Management in South Africa Neil Melbourne Tainton, 1981 Experiments in Veld Management R.
