 Chetcuti,Yolande Bull,2021-10-10 How did a conversation in a cafe with intensive care doctor Andrew Davies lead to my decision to become plant based We had both completed a Saturday morning exercise around the Botanical Gardens in Melbourne and then over coffee we chatted about my foray into celery juicing His question to me of why do you separate the juice from the fibre was pivotal and as a person raised around home grown food and with a deep respect for science and wellbeing I was interested in hearing more He told me the story about his wife s Aunt Dulcie who survived severe heart disease after adopting plant based eating and this sparked his interest and quest to learn more Andrew s research of medical literature and interviews with key medical experts formed over 70 episodes of his newnormalproject podcast He recommended I watch What the Health Conducting over 700 hours of research I was more than convinced about the health impacts of plant based eating I also became more compassionate and appreciative towards all animals and concerned about the condition of our planet I then started planning meals for my family for the week and this list grew into this book As a psychologist I use key principles to help you take small steps and provide you with easy to access information to help you
