Huebner, 2001 Since 1991 the city of Joliet Illinois has commissioned painters for a series of public murals Free to use their own styles and follow their particular visions the artists gave Joliet a diverse and dramatic body of public art that is also a statement of civic pride and a revival of a venerable midwestern tradition Arrayed with color plates of the murals and accompanied by biographical sketches of the artists this impressive volume documents the rich ethnic racial and cultural heritage that informs the art An old industrial city thirty five miles south of Chicago Joliet has a mixed ethnic population The murals of Joliet reflect this diversity featuring the experiences of African Americans Mexican Americans Italian Americans German and Irish immigrants and the city's Slovenian community Bold colorful pieces acknowledge industrial and natural resources including the Illinois and Michigan Canal the Des Plaines River the region's limestone quarries and the Sauk trail

They pay tribute to the area's farmers as well as to individuals such as labor leader Samuel Gompers and the dancer choreographer and anthropologist Katherine Dunham. Above all, Murals The Great Walls of Joliet documents the profound transformation in the local mentality wrought by the development of public art in the city. Underwritten by a community group, Friends of Community Public Art, the Joliet murals project stands as a model for modern municipal patronage, evidence of a population's decision to invest in public art to enrich its environment and express the ideals of the whole community.

Painting the Gospel Kymberly N. Pinder, 2016-01-30. Innovative and lavishly illustrated, Painting the Gospel offers an indispensable contribution to conversations about African American art, theology, politics, and identity in Chicago. Kymberly N. Pinder escorts readers on an eye-opening odyssey to the murals, stained glass, and sculptures dotting the city's African American churches and neighborhoods. Moving from Chicago's oldest black Christ figure to contemporary religious street art, Pinder explores ideas like blackness in public art for black communities and the relationship of Afrocentric art to Black Liberation Theology. She also focuses attention on art excluded from scholarship due to racial or religious particularity. Throughout, she reflects on the myriad ways private black identities assert public and political goals through imagery. Painting the Gospel includes maps and tour itineraries that allow readers to make conceptual, historical, and geographical connections among the works. Engaging Classrooms and Communities Through Art Beth Krensky, Seana Lowe Steffen, 2009. The book combines case studies with diverse groups across the country that are using different media, including mural arts, dance, and video, with an informed introduction to the theory and history of community-based art. It is a perfect handbook for those looking to transform their communities through art.
