Urgent Times Policing And Rights In Inner City Communities New Democracy Forum:

Urgent Times Tracey L. Meares, 1999-11-10 Tracey Meares and Dan Kahan have performed a great public service They have opened up a major debate on a promising idea about how to keep streets safe without throwing out essential legal safeguards If you live where I live you know that s a life and death issue The Reverend Eugene F Rivers 3d from the Foreword Through a searching examination of the constitutional and moral issues of community policing Tracey Meares and Dan Kahan challenge us to reconsider our ideas about how to fight urban crime and about the role of rights in a democracy Activists and legal scholars including Alan Dershowitz and Jean Bethke Elshtain offer spirited responses The New Democracy Forum series is a civic treasure A truly good idea carried out with intelligence and panache Robert Pinsky The New Democracy Forum is a series of short paperback originals exploring creative solutions to our most urgent national concerns

Who Defended The Country? Elaine Scarry, 2003-05-15 Through a minute by minute analysis of the phone calls official reports responses and reported actions of passengers on two hijacked flights United Airlines 93 which crashed in Pennsylvania and American Airlines 77 which crashed into the Pentagon Elaine Scarry offers a dramatic retelling of their fate and some startling conclusions Leading off a provocative debate she asks if the difficulty we had as a country in defending ourselves on September 11 suggests serious flaws in our national security The need to act in a matter of minutes has been invoked to justify military arrangements increasingly outside the citizenry s control yet the only successful defense on September 11 was carried out after a vote by the passengers themselves on hijacked Flight 93 Arguments made at the time of the writing of the Constitution judged that the only plausible way to defend the home ground was to have actions measured against the norms of civilian life the military had to be held within a civil frame Scarry asks have we strayed too far from this model Does our authoritarian conception of national defense diminish our capacity to protect ourselves Is it legal Is it moral Responding to her argument are nine prominent thinkers and writers from across the political spectrum including Richard Falk Ellen Willis Admiral Eugene Carroll and Antonia Chayes

Can Working Families Ever Win? Jody Heyman, 2002-07-17 Jody Heymann takes on the American belief that creating a better life for your children is simply a matter of working hard She argues that poor parents don t have a fair chance Because our nation fails to provide essential supports it is virtually impossible for these individuals to succeed at work while caring well for their children Because of the twin demands of work and family that poor parents face the health and education of their children suffer These kids often lack adequate preschool childcare or school age care which reduces their own potential to succeed Heymann shows how intergenerational poverty is perpetuated by outdated labor policies and suggests what must be done to help families A wide range of thinkers respond The New Democracy Forum is a series of short paperback originals exploring creative solutions to our most urgent national concerns A civic treasure A truly good idea carried out with intelligence and panache Robert Pinsky disadvantage of women and people of color to make the system more fair Yet for over twenty years it has been repeatedly attacked for being unfair to whites and even an American Guinier and Sturm begin with a critique of affirmative action as it stands now arguing that a system of selection that determines qualification from test scores and then adds on factors like race and gender doesn't work either for the people it includes or the people it leaves out But they go further asking us to rethink how we evaluate merit Marshaling lively examples from education and the workplace they expose the failure of tests to predict success They provide evidence that people's success depends on the opportunities they have to perform and that institutions do best when they are open to unanticipated contributions Offering a model of selection based on performance not prediction the authors reconception of an old ideal suggests at once a smart business practice and a step toward the promise of democratic opportunity Paul Osterman Stephen Steinberg Peter Sacks and others respond NEW DEMOCRACY FORUM A series of short paperback originals exploring creative solutions to our most urgent national concerns The series editors for Boston Review Joshua Cohen and Joel Rogers aim to foster politically engaged intellectually honest and morally serious debate about fundamental issues both on and off the agenda of conventional politics What's Wrong With a Free Lunch? Philippe Van Parijs, 2001-05-08 Our politicians insist that we live in a time of unprecedented prosperity yet more and more Americans are pointing out that the richest 1% of our society holds more wealth than the bottom 90% put together In this timely book economist Philippe Van Parijs has a simple plan for addressing not only poverty but other social ills everyone would be paid a universal basic income UBI at a level sufficient for subsistence Everyone including those who make no social contribution who spend their mornings bickering with their partner surf off Malibu in the afternoon and smoke pot all night Van Parijs argues that a UBI would reduce unemployment improve women's lives and prevent the environmental damage caused by overproduction and fast growth At the heart of his proposal is the intention to secure real freedom for all because it offers the greatest possible opportunity to those with the least opportunities He acknowledges that an idle surfer might not deserve a UBI but that the surfer's good luck would be no different than the good fortune enjoyed by those who benefit from the current distribution of resources Responses to this controversial proposal vary Some are in favor of a basic income but only if it's tied to work Others find the entire proposal unrealistic and unaffordable Almost all agree however that it is time for us to talk about this issue NEW DEMOCRACY FORUM A series of short paperback originals exploring creative solutions to our most urgent national concerns The series editors for Boston Review Joshua Cohen and Joel Rogers aim to foster politically engaged intellectually honest and morally serious debate about fundamental issues both on and off the agenda of conventional politics Do Americans Shop Too Much? Juliet Schor, 2000 Juliet Schor breaks a taboo by exposing Americans shopping habits to moral society Schor disapproves of unfettered private consumption not only because we already use up so much but also because overspending to bolster a sense of self does not lead to happiness Along with her critique Schor suggests intriguing ideas for making status goods accessible for all for example imposing high taxes on expensive items to subsidize lines of affordable luxury goods A firestorm of responses follow from economist Robert Frank and others The New Democracy Forum is a series of short paperback originals exploring creative solutions to our most urgent national concerns A civic treasure A truly good idea carried out with intelligence and panache Robert Pinsky Metro Futures Daniel D. Luria,1999-11-10 The future of America is the future of our cities Restoring their health and wealth is the key to advancing racial justice to raising and equalizing wages to promoting equal opportunity to saving our environment I urge you to read and consider Metro Futures The Reverend Jesse L Jackson Sr from the Foreword Metro Futures shifts the discussion of urban issues from despair over inner city problems to solutions that link urban and suburban well being With its specific state and federal policy recommendations Metro Futures offers timely hope for meaningful change The New Democracy Forum series is a civic treasure A truly good idea carried out with intelligence and panache Robert Pinsky The New Democracy Forum is a series of short paperback originals exploring creative solutions to our most urgent national concerns Beyond Backyard Environmentalism Archon Fung,Bradley Karkkainen,2000 When we think of environmental action we draw upon images from the disaster of Love Canal or from A Civil Action stories of lone activists fighting the government or some corporation against all odds In their provocative essay Sabel Fung and Karkkainen demonstrate that an effective alternative is emerging Before environmental disasters occur citizen groups are collaborating with experts business leaders and local and federal governments to figure out what is best for their own neighborhoods These examples point to more than successful environmental action they represent a model of grassroots democracy that can be applied to the needs of any community Back cover For Love of Country? Martha Nussbaum,2002-06-06 After the terrorist attacks on the Pentagon and the World Trade Center American flags appeared everywhere Is patriotism a good response at a time of national crisis What does it mean for us to think of ourselves as a nation first With our connections to the world growing stronger and more vital than ever Martha C Nussbaum argues that we should distrust conventional patriotism as parochial and instead see ourselves first of all as citizens of the world Sixteen prominent writers and thinkers respond including Benjamin R Barber Sissela Bok Nathan Glazer Robert Pinsky Elaine Scarry Amartya Sen and Michael Walzer NEW DEMOCRACY FORUM A series of short paperback originals exploring creative solutions to our most urgent national concerns The series editors for Boston Review Joshua Cohen and Joel Rogers aim to foster politically engaged intellectually honest and morally serious debate about fundamental issues both on and off the agenda of conventional politics Will Standards Save Public Education? Deborah Meier,2000-04-24 Somewhere there is a place of sanity where education is intense and substantive It s in that place that Deborah Meier has been working all these years Her voice conveys a life of struggle in the front lines victories and losses hopes and disappointments It s a voice our nation needs to hear Jonathan Kozol from the Foreword Acclaimed educator Deborah Meier offers a fresh take on standardized tests While others have criticized standards and what they measure Meier rejects the very idea of a centralized authority that dictates how and what teachers teach Standardization she argues prevents citizens including teachers from emerging as thoughtful responsible adults seriously engaged with shaping their own schools classrooms and communities As a result young people can t learn from them how to be thoughtful responsible adults and good citizens the primary goal of public education in a democracy The New Democracy Forum is a series of short paperback originals exploring creative solutions to our most urgent national concerns A civic treasure A truly good idea carried out with intelligence and panache Robert Pinsky

Who's Qualified? Lani Guinier, Susan Sturm, 2001-07-08 Affirmative action originated as a plan to correct the historical
