ordination into the Anglican clergy there he discovered that baptism made no apparent difference to the morals and behaviour of his new peers He began to question his faith Correspondence with his father about the issue failed to set his mind at peace inciting instead his father's wrath As a result the young Butler emigrated in September 1859 to New Zealand He was determined to change his life He wrote of his arrival and life as a sheep farmer on Mesopotamia Station in A First Year in Canterbury Settlement 1863 After a few years he sold his farm and made a handsome profit But the chief achievement of these years were the drafts and source material for much of his masterpiece Erewhon Butler returned to England in 1864 settling in rooms in Clifford's Inn near Fleet Street where he would live for the rest of his life In 1872 he published his Utopian novel Erewhon which made him a well known figure He wrote a number of other books including a moderately successful sequel Erewhon Revisited before his masterpiece and semi autobiographical novel The Way of All Flesh appeared after his death Butler thought its tone of satirical attack on Victorian morality too contentious to publish during his life time and thereby shied away from further potential problems Samuel Butler died aged 66 on 18th June 1902 at a nursing home in St John's Wood Road London He was cremated at Woking Crematorium and accounts say his ashes were either dispersed or buried in an unmarked grave

Unconscious Memory Samuel Butler, 2015-05-12

Unconscious Memory By Samuel Butler As this paper contains nothing which deserves the name either of experiment or discovery and as it is in fact destitute of every species of merit we should have allowed it to pass among the multitude of those articles which must always find their way into the collections of a society which is pledged to publish two or three volumes every year We wish to raise our feeble voice against innovations that can have no other effect than to check the progress of science and renew all those wild phantoms of the imagination which Bacon and Newton put to flight from her temple

Opening Paragraph of a Review of Dr Young's Bakerian Lecture Edinburgh Review January 1803 p 450

Young's work was laid before the Royal society and was made the 1801 Bakerian Lecture But he was before his time The second number of the Edinburgh Review contained an article levelled against him by Henry afterwards Lord Brougham and this was so severe an attack that Young's ideas were absolutely quenched for fifteen years Brougham was then only twenty four years of age Young's theory was reproduced in France by Fresnel In our days it is the accepted theory and is found to explain all the phenomena of light Times Report of a Lecture by Professor Tyndall on Light April 27 1880

Intellectual Agency and Virtue Epistemology: A Montessori Perspective Patrick Frierson, 2019-12-12 Drawing on the work of Maria Montessori and contemporary virtue epistemologists such as Linda Zagzebski and Jason Baehr Intellectual Agency and Virtue Epistemology presents a new interpretation of the nature of intellectual agency and its associated virtues Focusing on Montessori s interpretation of specific virtues including sensory attentiveness intellectual love and intellectual humility it discusses why these are virtues why one can be held responsible for them and how they relate to each other Moreover it considers pedagogical implications of considering these capacities to be virtues Intellectual Agency and Virtue Epistemology not only reveals the value of seeing Montessori as a virtue epistemologist it encourages educationalists to take seriously the cultivation of intellectual virtues as an important part of the education of children

Collective Memory & the Historical Past Jeffrey Andrew Barash, 2016-11-25 Barash seeks to safeguard history from mythology deep and wide ranging yet the author s prose is clear and accessible Highly recommended Choice There is one critical way we honor great tragedies by never forgetting Collective remembrance is as old as human society itself serving as an important source of social cohesion yet as Jeffrey Andrew Barash shows in this book it has served novel roles in a modern era otherwise characterized by discontinuity and dislocation Drawing on recent theoretical explorations of collective memory he elaborates an important new philosophical basis for it one that unveils profound limitations to its scope in relation to the historical past Crucial to Barash s analysis is a look at the radical transformations that symbolic configurations of collective memory have undergone with the rise of new technologies of mass communication He provocatively demonstrates how such technologies capacity to simulate direct experience especially via the image actually makes more palpable collective memory s limitations and the opacity of the historical past which always lies beyond the reach of living memory Thwarting skepticism however he eventually looks to literature specifically writers such as Walter Scott Marcel Proust and W G Sebald to uncover subtle nuances of temporality that might offer inconspicuous emblems of a past historical reality A highly insightful and erudite book on the complex relationship of the past to the present It raises a host of important questions about memory and history
