In the tradition of Jonathan Kozol this little book is driven by big questions What does it mean to be educated What is intelligence How should we think about intelligence education and opportunity in an open society Why is a commitment to the public sphere central to the way we answer these questions Drawing on forty years of teaching and research from primary school to adult education and workplace training award winning author Mike Rose reflects on these and other questions related to public schooling in America He answers them in beautifully written chapters that are both rich in detail a first grader conducting a science experiment a carpenter solving a problem on the fly a college student's encounter with a story by James Joyce and informed by a deep and powerful understanding of history the psychology of learning and the politics of education Rose decries the narrow focus of educational policy in our time the drumbeat of test scores and economic competition Why School will be embraced by parents and teachers alike and readers everywhere will be captivated by Rose s eloquent call for a bountiful democratic vision of the purpose of schooling

Affirmative Action for All Our Children: And Why College Education Should Be Free Alain F. Corcos, 2016-07-28 American public schools are in deep trouble They are still characterized by ethnic and class segregation grossly unequal teaching and learning facilities and governed by mammoth bureaucracies with a plethora of contradictory policies and goals For many low and medium income students college is still not an option due to high tuition rates and poor primary school education Is there any hope Affirmative Action for All Our Children And Why College Education Should Be Free tackles the hard truth and comes up with a compelling answer to solve all of these problems the Federal Government should completely take over the education system According to author Alain Corcos such a takeover needs to include the federal government Financing the entire education system from preschool to college Training teachers and paying their salaries Building and maintaining school facilities Developing the best curriculum to prepare all children to face today s world Providing tuition free college for students willing to give back by serving their nation in some capacity for two years between the ages of eighteen and twenty Affirmative Action for All Our Children And Why College Education Should Be Free lays out a detailed plan that paves the way for US public schools to become the best in the world However time is of the essence because any change will take at least two generations to affect the nation

Economic Inequality, Neoliberalism, and the American Community College Patrick Sullivan, 2017-05-11 This book aims to deepen public understanding of the community college and to challenge our longstanding reliance on a deficit model for defining this important powerful and transformative institution Featuring a unique combination of data and research Sullivan seeks to help redefine update and reshape public perception about community colleges This book gives serious attention to student voices and includes narratives written by community college students about their experiences attending college at an open admissions institution Sullivan examines the history of the modern community college and the economic model that is driving much of the current discussion in higher education today Sullivan argues that the community college has done much to promote social justice and economic equality in America since the founding of the modern community college in 1947 by the Truman Commission

Doing Time, Writing Lives Patrick W. Berry, 2018-01-24 Winner Coalition for Community Writing Outstanding Book Award 2019 Doing Time Writing Lives offers a much needed analysis of the teaching of college writing in U S prisons a racialized space that despite housing more than 2 million people remains nearly invisible to the general public Through the examination of a college in prison program that promotes the belief that higher education in prison can reduce recidivism and improve life prospects for the incarcerated and their families author Patrick W Berry exposes not only incarcerated students hopes and dreams for their futures but also their anxieties about whether education will help them Combining case studies and interviews with the author s own personal experience of teaching writing in prison this book chronicles the attempts of incarcerated students to write themselves back into a society that has erased their lived histories It challenges polarizing rhetoric often used to describe what literacy can and cannot deliver suggesting more nuanced and ethical ways of understanding literacy and possibility in an age of mass incarceration

The Class Sonia Livingstone, Julian Sefton-Green, 2016-05-03 An intimate look at how children network identify learn and grow in a connected world Read Online at connectedyouth.nyupress.org Do today's youth have more opportunities than their parents As they build their own social and digital networks does that offer new routes to learning and friendship How do they navigate the meaning of education in a digitally connected but fiercely competitive highly individualized world Based upon fieldwork at an ordinary London school The Class examines young people's experiences of growing up and learning in a digital world In this original and engaging study Livingstone and Sefton Green explore youth values teenagers perspectives on their futures and their tactics for facing the opportunities and challenges that lie ahead The authors follow the students as they move across their different social worlds in school at home and with their friends engaging in a range of activities from video games to drama clubs and music lessons By portraying the texture of the students everyday lives The Class seeks to understand how the structures of social class and cultural capital shape the development of personal interests relationships and autonomy Providing insights into how young people's social digital and learning networks enable or disempower them Livingstone and Sefton Green reveal that the experience of disconnections and blocked pathways is often more common than that of connections and new opportunities

Students as Curriculum William H. Schubert, Brian D. Schultz, 2025-05-30 This book explores possibilities for students to have a much greater role in curriculum than mere receivers of it In fact we suggest what happens when students are the curriculum

The Center of the World June Howard, 2018-10-25 Regional Writing and the Puzzles of Place Time is a study of literary regionalism It focuses on the fiction of the United States and considers the place of the genre in world literature Regionalism is usually understood to be a literature bound to the local but this study explores how regional writing shapes ways of imagining not only the neighborhood or the province but also the nation and ultimately the world Its key premise is that thinking about place always entails imagining time It analyzes how concepts crystallize across disciplines and in everyday discourse and proposes ways of revising American literary history and close readings of particular authors work It demonstrates for example the importance of the figure of the school teacher and the one room schoolhouse in local color and subsequent place focused writing Such representations embody the contested relation in modernity between localities and the knowledge they produce and books that carry metropolitan and cosmopolitan learning The volume discusses fiction from the nineteenth twentieth and twenty first centuries including works by Sui Sin Far Edith Eaton Sarah Orne Jewett Ernest Gaines Wendell Berry and Ursula LeGuin as well as romance novels and regional mysteries
