

6. Gently lower the back of the wig into position. Carefully keep a tiny bit of space between the wig and the head, so that the wig does not catch on any pincurls. Whenever possible, hold the wig foundation rather than the styled hair or lace front.

7. The first pins that go in the wig should be those on the crown of the head. These pins hold the wig in position while the edges get glued and finishing pins are attached. See Figure 8-20.

8. The front of the wig should get pinned or glued in place. Spirit gum goes on the skin under the lace. Gently pinch the CF lace and lift the sides to apply the glue. For most stage situations, only a small portion of the front lace needs glue. For film, the front edge is trimmed back and the entire edge is glued.

9. Press the lace into the spirit gum or Telesis adhesive while the adhesive is still wet and tacky. With spirit gum, a clean velour puff will press the lace down as well as remove any excess spirit gum from between the lace threads. A small piece of real chamois or clean nylon stocking cap also works. For film, a porcupine quill is a great tool for pressing lace down in between the hairs. This or any other pointy slender object will not mash the hairs into the glue, which will be visible on screen.
