Child, Adolescent and Family Refugee Mental Health Suzan J. Song, Peter Ventevogel, 2020-06-15 More than half of the 25.9 million refugees in the world are under the age of 18 and the mental health of these children and adolescents constitutes a growing global public health priority Refugee children and their families are at increased risk to develop mental health problems but they often face major challenges in accessing adequate treatment and mental health professionals frequently feel ill equipped to assist this group Refugees are faced with a plethora of issues including the ambiguous loss of loved ones psychological trauma related to past experiences of violence and atrocities the complexities of daily life as a refugee and the challenges to adapt to new systems of care and support Refugees life circumstances all too often undermine their agency as they face discrimination stigma and social isolation or exclusion Refugees are frequently disconnected from the usual family and community supports that they once had which creates additional mental distress As parents struggle with these changes their children often find it even more difficult to adapt and connect with them This all leads to increased prevalence of mental health conditions among refugees Humanitarian policies recommend family centered interventions that are multi sectoral multi disciplinary and focus on optimizing resource utilization Over the last decade a considerable body of research has emerged around socio ecological models of mental health family and community approaches and resilience and strengths based theories but these insights are insufficiently incorporated in the practice of mental health care for refugee children Clinicians often struggle to grasp the common unique stressors that families face and are not familiar with working with families as units for intervention Using culturally and contextually informed assessment methods and family oriented management approaches not only help individual children or adolescents but also their families This book aims to provide an overview of the latest theoretical insights from research on sociocultural aspects of mental health and connect these with clinical insights from practical mental health care provision Using strengths based resiliency oriented and family centered approaches can enrich clinical practice in refugee mental health but clinicians need to translate the emerging evidence into concrete steps and interventions This requires additional skills for the assessment and management of mental health conditions in refugee children and families The chapters in this book are written by a diverse group of authors using global multi disciplinary approaches The chapters provide examples from various contexts including refugees who are displaced to neighboring countries refugees on the move and refugees and asylum seekers in resettlement settings This book is therefore a unique resource for clinicians researchers and policy makers working on mental health issues of refugee children and adolescents around the world

Protecting Children Kathleen Kufeldt, Barbara Fallon, Brad McKenzie, 2021-06-25 Focusing on children who are subject to welfare intervention Protecting Children addresses the challenges and issues of the child welfare system and provides foundational knowledge on the theoretical and practical aspects of the field This edited collection begins with a review of key concepts including child development attachment and resilience theories social policies family law and ethics Highlighting the translation of theory into practice the contributors discuss current services and the search for best practice internationally as well as explore Indigenous child welfare and offer conclusions and recommendations to promote positive outcomes for children and families involved in the system Scholars researchers and practitioners from across the globe provide insight on a wide range of timely issues such as the risk of reductionism limits to predictability pragmatic issues as well as the disproportional presence in the care system of minority groups including Indigenous children children of new immigrants and refugees children in LGBTQ communities and children of the poor This foundational volume is an important resource for courses in social work and child welfare FEATURES includes contributions from researchers practitioners and scholars from Australia Canada New Zealand the United Kingdom and the United States highlights Indigenous authors and personal stories of service users and includes figures and tables throughout the text as well as section introductions and conclusions to situate main theories and concepts for students

Working with Child and Adolescent Mental Health: The Central Role of Language and Communication Susan McCool, 2023-09-04 In children mental health challenges and communication differences typically combine in complex and inter related ways Remarkably this crucial point is all too often forgotten and communication is overlooked Services are frequently fragmented leading professionals to look at children through distinct lenses of either mental health or communication meaning insights can be incomplete and important perspectives unshared Working with Child and Adolescent Mental Health makes the compelling case that communication is central and should be a primary consideration whenever we think about children s mental health With a practical focus and an easy to read format it suggests how this can be achieved by identifying how practitioners and services can work more cohesively to understand and optimise children s communication capacities This book includes Practical advice grounded in current research and presented in an easy to read digestible style Guidance to help practitioners competently and compassionately identify and respond to the needs of children and young people with complex combined communication and mental health needs Real life case studies from a wide range of settings unpicked to clearly illustrate topics discussed in the book and offer encouragement and inspiration to practitioners Checklists and questionnaires to help practitioners in daily practice Recommendations for and links to useful additional resources Tools to support reflection and enhancement for individual practitioners and services Essential reading for speech and language therapists psychologists mental health practitioners educators social workers and anyone else concerned with children s wellbeing and resilience this book highlights the transformational impact of placing communication at the heart of all efforts to support children and young people s mental health The Routledge
