Unbounded Practice Women And Landscape Architecture In The Early Twentieth Century:

Unbounded Practice Thaïsa Way, 2013 Women have practiced as landscape architects for over a century since the founding of the practice as a profession in the United States in the 1890s They came to landscape architecture as gardeners garden designers horticulturalists and fine artists They simultaneously shaped the profession while reflecting contemporary practice It is all the more surprising then that the history of women in American landscape design has received relatively little attention Tha sa Way corrects this oversight in Unbounded Practice Women and Landscape Architecture in the Early Twentieth Century Describing design practice in landscape architecture during the first half of the twentieth century the book serves as a narrative both of women such as Beatrix Jones Farrand Marian Cruger Coffin Annette Hoyt Flanders Ellen Biddle Shipman Martha Brookes Hutcheson and Marjorie Sewell Cautley and of the practice as it became a profession Winner of a 2008 David R Coffin Publication Grant awarded by the Foundation for Landscape Studies

Women in Landscape Architecture Louise A. Mozingo, Linda Jewell, 2011-12-22 While many fields struggle to specify feminine contributions the work of women has always played a fundamental role in American landscape architecture Women claim responsibility for many landscape types now taken for granted including community gardens playgrounds and streetscapes This collection of essays by leaders in the discipline addresses the ways that gender has influenced the history design practice and perception of landscapes It highlights women s relation to landscape architecture presents the professional efforts of women in the landscape realm examines both the perception and experience of landscapes by women and speculates on ways to re imagine gender and the landscape

Women, Modernity, and Landscape Architecture Sonja Dümpelmann, John Beardsley, 2015-02-11 Modernity was critically important to the formation and evolution of landscape architecture yet its histories in the discipline are still being written This book looks closely at the work and influences of some of the least studied figures of the era established and less well known female landscape architects who pursued modernist ideals in their designs The women discussed in this volume belong to the pioneering first two generations of professional landscape architects and were outstanding in the field They not only developed notable practices but some also became leaders in landscape architectural education as the first professors in the discipline or prolific lecturers and authors As early professionals who navigated the world of a male dominated intellectual and menial work force they were exponents of modernity In addition many personalities discussed in this volume were either figures of transition between tradition and modernism like Silvia Crowe Maria Teresa Parpagliolo or they fully embraced and furthered the modernist agenda like Rosa Kliass Cornelia Oberlander The chapters offer new perspectives and contribute to the development of a more balanced and integrated landscape architectural historiography of the twentieth century Contributions come from practitioners and academics who discuss women based in USA Canada Brazil New Zealand South Africa the former USSR Sweden Britain Germany Austria France and Italy Ideal reading for those studying landscape history women s studies and cultural geography

Women in Scandinavian Landscape Architecture Svava Riesto, Henriette Steiner, 2024-12-02

Women were active in landscape architecture in Scandinavia throughout the twentieth century yet little is known about their contribution. This volume therefore asks where are the women in Scandinavian landscape architecture. It thus presents new knowledge about women's contributions to the shaping of modern cities and landscapes in the Scandinavian welfare states. With chapters by some of the most respected architectural and landscape architectural historians as well as up and coming scholars and practice based artistic researchers, the book makes three major contributions. First it asks the previously neglected question of women's contributions to twentieth century landscape architecture in Denmark, Sweden and Norway. Second it does so from a transnational perspective bringing together researchers from Scandinavia and Finland. Third it documents how collaborative formats for knowledge creation can generate new insights and fruitful links between researchers and research materials. The book brings to light new knowledge and new forms of architectural historical work on the contributions of many women landscape architects to designed open spaces

Cornelia Hahn Oberlander Susan Herrington, 2014-01-01

Cornelia Hahn Oberlander is one of the most important landscape architects of the twentieth century yet despite her lasting influence few outside the field know her name. Her work has been instrumental in the development of the late twentieth century design ethic and her early years working with architectural luminaries such as Louis Kahn and Dan Kiley prepared her to bring a truly modern and audaciously abstract sensibility to the landscape design tradition. In Cornelia Hahn Oberlander: Making the Modern Landscape Susan Herrington draws upon archival research, site analyses and numerous interviews with Oberlander and her collaborators to offer the first biography of this adventurous and influential landscape architect. Born in 1921, Oberlander fled Nazi Germany at the age of eighteen with her family going on to become one of the few women to graduate from Harvard University's Graduate School of Design in the late 1940s. For six decades she has practiced socially responsible and ecologically sensitive planning for public landscapes including the 1970s design of the Robson Square landscape and its adjoining Provincial Law Courts, one of Vancouver's most famous spaces. Herrington places Oberlander within a larger social and aesthetic context, chronicling both her personal and professional trajectory and her work in New York, Philadelphia, Vancouver, Seattle, Berlin, Toronto and Montreal. Oberlander is a progenitor of some of the most significant currents informing landscape architecture today, particularly in the area of ecological focus. In her thorough biography, Herrington draws much deserved attention to one of the truly important figures in landscape architecture.

Mariana Griswold Van Rensselaer Judith K. Major, 2013-04-23

Mariana Griswold Van Rensselaer 1851-1934 was one of the premier figures in landscape writing and design at the turn of the twentieth century, a moment when the amateur pursuit of gardening and the increasingly professionalized landscape design field were beginning to diverge. This intellectual biography the first in depth study of the versatile critic and author reveals Van Rensselaer's vital role in this moment in the history of landscape architecture Van Rensselaer was one of the new breed of American art and architecture critics closely examining the nature of her profession and bringing a disciplined scholarship to the craft She considered herself a professional leading the effort among women in the Gilded Age to claim the titles of artist architect critic historian and journalist Thanks to the resources of her wealthy mercantile family she had been given a sophisticated European education almost unheard of for a woman of her time Her close relationship with Frederick Law Olmsted influenced her ideas on landscape gardening and her interest in botany and geology shaped the ideas upon which her philosophy and art criticism were based She also studied the works of Charles Darwin Alexander von Humboldt Henry David Thoreau and many other nineteenth century scientists and nature writers which influenced her general belief in the relationship between science and the imagination Her cosmopolitan education and elevated social status gave her much like her contemporary Edith Wharton access to the homes and gardens of the upper classes This allowed her to mingle with authors artists and affluent patrons of the arts and enabled her to write with familiarity about architecture and landscape design Identifying over 330 previously unattributed editorials and unsigned articles authored by Van Rensselaer in the influential journal Garden and Forest for which she was the sole female editorial voice Judith Major offers insight into her ideas about the importance of botanical nomenclature the similarities between landscape gardening and idealist painting design in nature and many other significant topics Major's critical examination of Van Rensselaer's life and writings which also includes selections from her correspondence details not only her influential role in the creation of landscape architecture as a discipline but also her contribution to a broader public understanding of the arts in America

fundamental concept for understanding modern and contemporary urban society shedding light not only on the ecological development of cities but also societal relations urban governance and planning processes Closely linked to issues of environmental change changing perceptions of nature urban well being and social integration as well as city economic competitiveness and branding it is an important element both in the internationalisation of European cities and the forging of their distinctive communal identities Building upon recent research on the history of green landscapes in the city in Europe and North America this volume mirrors the burgeoning global attention to urban green space developments from city policy makers and planners architects climatologists ecologists geographers and other social scientists Taking case studies from Paris London Berlin Helsinki and other leading centres the volume examines when why and how green landscapes evolved in major cities and the extent to which they have been shaped by shared external forces as well as by distinctive and specific local needs Quantifying green space trends in this way raises important issues of classification and categorisation of the different varieties of urban green space While urban parks have received considerable coverage many other smaller less prestigious spaces have been largely ignored This volume argues that green landscapes can only be properly understood when the full range of spaces from parks to recreation grounds housing areas allotments and domestic gardens is taken into account Adopting a broader approach to urban green space helps put European developments during the 19th and 20th centuries into a global perspective
