Unctad Handbook Of Statistics 2003 Unctad Handbook Of Statistics 2003:

The Least Developed Countries ,2004 Arms for Oil Michael Barratt Brown,2005 It is a fact an unfortunate fact that economic relations between the West and the Arab and other Islamic countries could for many years be described accurately in just three words Oil for Arms or alternatively Arms for Oil This has a long history going back to the First World War when the Ottoman Empire was broken up between the British and French Empires and client regimes were established in the newly created states The Second World War brought in the American Empire but the main purpose of all these empires was to control the rich oil reserves in the region Arms were supplied as necessary to maintain the client regimes in power This became essential if oil was to remain cheap Merger Control Regimes in Emerging Economies Marco Botta,2011-01-01 When emerging economies draft competition law and begin to enforce it they usually draw on the EU and US competition law systems However significant country specific legal and practical variations tend to arise quickly making it imperative for international business lawyers to acquire more than a passing knowledge of competition legislation and relevant case law in these countries Now for the first time a thoroughly researched book provides an in depth empirical analysis of the legal problems raised for competition and especially for merger control and its enforcement in emerging economies using a case study approach in the Brazilian and Argentinean contexts to reveal paradigmatic trends Brazil and Argentina are chosen not only because they are among the major trading jurisdictions in the developing world but also because they have each established a track record of over a decade in formulating and enforcing a system of merger control The author describes and analyses all Brazilian and Argentinean legislation in the field of competition law as well as the main merger decisions adopted by the competition authorities and the judgements held by the courts of these countries The book thoroughly covers the system of competition law currently enforced in each country as well as the main innovations of proposed new competition law currently pending in Brazil In addition the author draws on field interviews with competition lawyers and officers of competition authorities conducted between April and July 2008 in Buenos Aires Brasilia and S o Paulo The analysis considers such issues as the following y impact of M y enforcement of competition law and the judiciary y criteria for notification of economic concentrations y application of econometric tests to define the relevant market and the degree of market concentration The Economic and Strategic Rise of China and India D. Denoon,2007-09-03 This book demonstrates the connection between economic and strategic developments in Asia with several interrelated arguments The author asserts that there is no single explanation for the 1997 financial crisis in the Pacific Rim states nor for the slow recovery afterwards The author also points out that China is not the only major power rising in Asia India is close behind and warns that while many observers are proceeding as if current U S treaties will continue indefinitely Asia is already preparing for changing patrons Small States in Transition Ganeshan Wignaraja,Marlon Lezama,David Joiner,2004 This title is a report of a follow up of a pan Commonwealth forum of the same name held in Port of Spain Trinidad attended by over 28

Commonwealth small states The study deals with the pressing economic policy question facing the world's smallest economies Namely how can small states enhance their industrial competitiveness and alleviate economic vulnerabilities associated with small country size Trade Policy at the Crossroads David Vanzetti,Greg McGuire,Prabowo,United Nations Conference on Trade and Development,2005 This publication one of a series of UNCTAD studies which discuss key international trade and development policy issues uses Indonesia's trade policy experience as a case study to draw wider lessons for future trade policy for developing countries and the potential benefits and costs of alternative trade strategies Issues discussed include the evolution of the Indonesian trade policy regime trade barriers in export markets six policy scenarios for trade liberalisation and potential impacts on exports and imports government revenues and sectoral effects

UNCTAD Handbook of Statistics ,2000 Service Industries and Asia Pacific Cities Peter W. Daniels,Kong Chong Ho,Tom Hutton,2005-04-01 During the second half of the twentieth century development in the Asia Pacific region has been dominated by industrialization However at the beginning of the twenty first century services in particular finance information and creative services have become deeply embedded in the processes of urban growth In Asia Pacific the rise of service industries has lead to national modernization programmes and globalization strategies Services are also driving change in the internal form of city regions and are being actively deployed as instruments of metropolitan reconfiguration and land use changes These changes have created problems such as social polarization and the displacement of traditional industries and residential districts Also there are tensions between local and global processes in the development of service industries and between the imperatives of competitive advantage and sustainable development Service Industries and Asia Pacific Cities brings together a multi disciplinary team of experts to explore and illustrate the theoretical conceptual and practical issues arising from the transformation of Asia Pacific cities by service industries Power and Plenty Ronald Findlay,Kevin H. O'Rourke,2009-08-10 International trade has shaped the modern world yet until now no single book has been available for both economists and general readers that traces the history of the international economy from its earliest beginnings to the present day Power and Plenty fills this gap providing the first full account of world trade and development over the course of the last millennium Ronald Findlay and Kevin O'Rourke examine the successive waves of globalization and deglobalization that have occurred during the past thousand years looking closely at the technological and political causes behind these long term trends They show how the expansion and contraction of the world economy has been directly tied to the two way interplay of trade and geopolitics and how war and peace have been critical determinants of international trade over the very long run The story they tell is sweeping in scope one that links the emergence of the Western economies with economic and political developments throughout Eurasia centuries ago Drawing extensively upon empirical evidence and informing their systematic analysis with insights from contemporary economic theory Findlay and O'Rourke demonstrate the close interrelationships of trade and warfare the mutual interdependence of the world's different regions and the crucial role these

Geographies of Developing Areas Glyn Williams,Paula Meth,Katie Willis,2014-03-21 Geographies of Developing Areas is a thought provoking and accessible introductory text presenting a fresh view of the Global South that challenges students pre conceptions and promotes lively debate Rather than presenting the Global South as a set of problems from rapid urbanization to poverty this book focuses on the diversity of life in the South and looks at the role the South plays in shaping and responding to current global change The core contents of the book integrate traditional concerns of development geographers such as economic development and social inequality with aspects of the global South that are usually given less attention such as cultural identity and political conflict This edition has been fully updated to reflect recent changes in the field and highlight issues of security risk and violence environmental sustainability and climate change and the impact of ICT on patterns of North South and South South exchange It also challenges students to think about how space is important in both the directions and the outcomes of change in the Global South emphasizing the inherently spatial nature of political economic and socio cultural processes Students are introduced to the Global South via contemporary debates in development and current research in cultural economic and political geographies of developing areas The textbook consider how images of the so called Third World are powerful but problematic It explores the economic political and cultural processes shaping the South at the global scale and the impact that these have on people s lives and identities Finally the text considers the possibilities and limitations of different development strategies The main arguments of the book are richly illustrated through case study material drawn from across the Global South as well as full colour figures and photos Students are supported throughout with clear examples explanations of key terms ideas and debates and introductions to the wider literature and relevant websites in the field The pedagogical features of the book have been further developed through discussion questions and activities that provide focused tasks for students research including investigation based around the book s case studies and in depth exploration of debates and concepts it introduces

Fair Trade Coffee Gavin Fridell, 2007-12-12 Over the past two decades sales of fair trade coffee have grown significantly and the fair trade network has emerged as an important international development project Activists and commentators have been quick to celebrate this sales growth which has allowed socially just trade labour and environmental standards and practices to be extended to hundreds of thousands of small farmers and poor rural workers throughout the Global South While recent assessments of the fair trade network have focused on its impact on local poverty alleviation however the broader political economic and historically rooted structures that frame it have been left largely unexamined In this study Gavin Fridell argues that while local level analysis is important examination of the impacts of broader structures on fair trade coffee networks and vice versa are of equal if not greater significance in determining their long term developmental potential Using case studies from Mexico and Canada Fridell examines the fair trade coffee movement at both the global and local level assessing its effectiveness and locating it within political and development theory In addition Fridell provides in depth historical analysis of fair trade coffee in the context of global trade and compares it with a variety of postwar development projects within the coffee industry Timely meticulously researched and engagingly written this study challenges many commonly held assumptions about the long term prospects and pitfalls of the fair trade network s market driven strategy in the era of globalization
